True patriotism

- * It is very important for every one of the nation regardless of the place he lives to have strong Union Spirit.
- * Only Union Spirit is the true patriotism all the nationalities will have to safeguard.

National reconsolidation

“Trust is a vitally important factor in our national reconsolidation process. Sincerely, we will make no deception in our stride to the goal of eternal peace. We will do the job with trust based on Panglong Spirit.”

NAY PYI TAW, 24 March—His Majesty Preah Bat Samdech Preah Boromneath Norodom Sihamoni extended a warm welcome to President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar U Thein Sein at the square in front of the Throne Hall of Royal Palace in Phnom Penh of Cambodia at 4 pm on 21 March.

When President U Thein Sein left for the Royal Palace from his hotel to attend the welcoming ceremony, he was accorded rousing welcome by Cambodian people and students along the road to the Royal Palace holding up the pictures of the Myanmar President and the His Majesty King of Cambodia and waving miniature flags of both countries with traditional dances and music.

At the Royal Palace, His Majesty King of Cambodia cordially greeted the President.

On the dais, the President and the His Majesty King of Cambodia took the salute of the Guard of Honour. Meanwhile, the State Band played the national anthems of the two countries. Then, the President and the King inspected the Guard of Honour.

His Majesty King of Cambodia presented his entourage— Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Royal Palace Samdech Chaufea Veang Kong Som Ol, Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Foreign Affairs and International Cooperation Mr Hor Namhong, Minister of Ministry of Land Management Urban Planning & Construction Mr Im Chhun Lim, Minister of Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries Mr Chan Sarun, Minister of Information Mr Khieu Kanharith, Minister of Health Mr Mam Bunheng, Minister of Tourism Industry Mr Thong Khon and departmental heads—to the President.

Likewise, the President introduced his delegation members Deputy Commander-in-Chief of Defence Services Lt-Gen Soe Win, Union Minister for Home Affairs Lt-Gen Ko Ko, Union Minister for Foreign Affairs U Wunna Maung Lwin, Union Minister for Agriculture and Irrigation U Myint Hlaing, Union Minister for Construction U Khin Maung Myint, Union Minister for Environmental Conservation and Forestry U Win Tun, Union Minister for Commerce U Win Myint, Union Minister for Hotels and Tourism and for Sports U Tint Hsan, Shan State Chief Minister U Sao Aung Myat, Deputy Minister for Health Dr Win Myint, Myanmar Ambassador to Cambodia U Cho Tun Aung and Director-General U Min Zaw of the President Office.

After the ceremony, the President and the His Majesty King of Cambodia held a talk at the Throne Hall of the Royal Palace.

Speaking on the occasion, the His Majesty King of Cambodia said that he was glad to have opportunity to welcome the President on his behalf and on behalf of the Royal Father and Mother. The visit of the President was a historic trip. Friendly ties have been strengthening among the governments of Cambodia and Myanmar and between the two peoples. He said that he will always remember mutual respects and contributions between the both sides.

He continued to say that Myanmar and Cambodia are the same in religion, culture and customs. He proposed a toast for successful and smooth visit as the President's visit is a beneficial one.

For his part, the President expressed his thanks for a heartily welcome to the Myanmar delegation by the His Majesty. He was granted audience by His Majesty King of Cambodia three times. For the first time, he himself as Prime Minister (See page 6)

Health Ministry has been fighting TB with support of WHO and Stop TB Partnership and works have been on right track to meet UN Millennium Development Goals in 2015

NAY PYI TAW, 24 March—The following is the translation of the message sent by President of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar Agga Maha Thayay Sithu, Agga Maha Thiri Thudhamma U Thein Sein to the ceremony to mark World TB Day:

Esteemed people,

First, I wish you all good health and happiness.

Now is the time of approaching the first anniversary of the new government that took office on 30 March 2011 after being elected by the people in accord with multi-party democracy system.

During the short period of taking office, the new government has adopted a rural development and poverty alleviation scheme as a national objective and is carrying out 8-point action plan with a view to serving the interests of the citizens.

We are also planning to promote public healthcare services to cover the whole nation with more State fund. In the health sector, national health plan (2011-2016) has been drawn and efforts are being made to meet the millennium development goals by 2015.

Myanmar is taking measures to combat three major common diseases namely HIV/STD, malaria and TB as a national task. Today, the whole nation is marking World

TB Day.

Annually, the world has seen about 8.4 million TB patients and 1.4 million deaths. It is found that 80% of TB patients are most common among those aged between 15 and 54. So it can be deduced from the fact that the disease is spreading among those who are productive force of the nation. Eighty percent of global TB outbreaks happen in 22 countries with the largest number of TB outbreaks in the world. The countries from South East Asia include India, Indonesia, Thailand, Bangladesh and Myanmar.

Myanmar is listed in 22 most TB-rampant countries out of the 198 countries which send report to the World Health Organization on fight against TB, 27 countries most vulnerable to drug-resistant TB and 41 most TB/HIV-vulnerable countries. TB is the second biggest killer in the world in term of epidemic-caused death. TB is barely given attention in World Health Development Programme. So, it is desperately needed to pay more attention to fight against TB.

To review the anti-TB campaigns conducted by the Health Ministry of Myanmar, it is preparing to extend TB care to rural areas enabling township Health Departments diagnose and cure TB and patients easily receive the treatment.

The Health Ministry has been fighting TB with the support of the WHO and The Stop TB Partnership and the works have been on the right track to meet the UN Millennium Development Goals in 2015. I would like to urge the people to gear up efforts to meet the goals in time.

The Health Ministry of Myanmar only allocated 14 million kyats for anti-TB campaign in 1995-96 but increased to 626 million kyats in 2010-11. It is the example of cooperation with friendly organizations that Myanmar receives 3D funds and world funds as the government has made proportional contributions for fight against TB.

I would like to urge foreign and local social friendly organizations to join hands in successfully curing every TB patient as the government would increase the health expenditure fourfold in 2012-13 fiscal year.

Therefore, I wish my encouragement today to contribute towards harmonious efforts coupled with full health awareness of the State, the people, health staff, and social organizations at home and abroad in fight against TB for the future younger generations to be free from TB, leading to drastic decline in TB outbreak rate.

In building peaceful, modern, developed new nation, I would like to urge every citizen to participate in anti-TB campaigns in unison with me to make sure that every citizen is healthy and free from TB.

An encouraging sign

Myanmar people have full trust and confidence in their long-accepted indigenous medicine. Actually, Myanmar traditional medicine has a firm foundation as it has won popularity and trust throughout the successive periods. Myanmar traditional medicine is formed with four main branches of subjects (Naya) – Desana Naya, Bhesijja Naya, Natkhatabeda Naya and Vijjadhara Naya. So, it can be said unique when compared with counterparts of other countries.

The country's ultimate goal is to uplift traditional medicine till it becomes a globally accepted therapy and the world to know its delicate nature, and to ensure its perpetuation and propagation.

With government support and encouragement practitioners are uplifting traditional medicine full with essence in all aspects to be on a par with western counterparts and attain global popularity. Additionally, the government has been adopting and implementing policies and means of the national health schemes for the long-lasting of traditional medicine.

Moreover, emphasis is to be placed on development of Myanmar traditional medicine in the long run to develop traditional medicine science, extend post-graduate traditional medicine courses such as master's course and doctoral course, make utmost efforts for development of treatment and research works till meeting international standard, provide people with quality, genuine and potent traditional medicines, open private traditional medicine hospitals and clinics in line with the prescribed rules, conserve herbal plants and exactly identify scientific names of Myanmar herbal plants.

Thanks to the practitioners' ardent endeavours, we at present are witnessing the constantly rising standard of Myanmar traditional medicine. Apart from rural folks, urban people are also accepting and relying more and more on the medicine. Truly, the development and advancement of the medicine at the service of Myanmar people is an encouraging sign and our pride and joy.

US soldier charged with 17 murders in Afghan killings

KABUL, 24 March—A US Army sergeant was formally charged with 17 counts of murder on Friday for killing eight adults and nine children in a pre-dawn shooting rampage in southern Afghanistan that further eroded US-Afghan relations already frayed by a decade of war.

Staff Sergeant Robert Bales, a decorated 38-year-old veteran of four combat tours in Iraq and Afghanistan, also was charged with six counts each of assault and attempted murder for attacking two other adults and four children in the 11 March shooting spree, a US armed forces statement said.

Premeditated murder is a capital offence under the US military justice code, so Bales could face the death penalty if convicted. He would face a mandatory minimum sentence, if convicted, of life imprisonment with eligibility for parole, the military statement said.

Bales is accused of walking off his base under cover of darkness and opening fire at civilians in their homes in at least two different villages in Panjwai District in Kandahar Province. Defence officials said four men, four women and nine children were killed. A man, a woman and four children were wounded or shot at.

One killed, 12 injured as building collapses in Pakistan

ISLAMABAD, 24 March—One woman was killed and 12 others including 6 children were injured when a three-storey building collapsed in Pakistan's central city of Multan on Friday night, said rescue workers and hospital sources.

A local photo journalist in Multan told Xinhua on the phone that hospital sources in the city told him that one woman injured in the incident later died at the hospital.

All the 12 others trapped in the collapsed building have been rescued and shifted to local hospital, the source in Multan told Xinhua by quoting rescue workers.

Earlier reports by some local media said that 16 people were trapped under the debris after the building collapsed.

Initial investigation revealed that the 90-year-old building located in a congested commercial area in the city collapsed because of its ages.

There was a tuition centre inside the building when it collapsed. The centre provided education for kids aged between 8 and 14, said local media.—Xinhua

SAN FRANCISCO, 24 March—Five people were found dead in a house in the western US port city of San Francisco on Friday, in what police suspected as a gun-related murder-suicide case.

The multiple-homicide was reported shortly before 8:00 am local time when a family member visited the two-story home near the City College of San Francisco and found three of the bodies, said local police.

The police, who later found two more bodies, said at least four of all five victims—two men and three women—were members of the same family. They are all Asians and all of them live inside the home.

Police said they believe it was a murder-suicide case and no suspect was at large.

According to the San Francisco Chronicle, the house is owned by software engineer Yingxue Lei and her colleagues said she did not call in on Friday.

Meanwhile, Lena Huang of San Diego told the newspaper that five members of her extended family live in the home. All of them had immigrated from China and no one is answering their phones on Friday.

San Francisco mayor Ed Lee on Friday issued a statement offering the city's condolences.

US to appeal WTO ruling against meat labels

WASHINGTON, 24 March—The United States said on Friday it would appeal a World Trade Organization ruling against a law requiring country-of-origin labels on all meat sold in grocery stores, a move that disappointed Canada and Mexico, both of which want the law changed.

The meat labels became mandatory in March 2009 after years of debate. US consumer and mainline farm groups supported the requirement, saying consumers should have information to distinguish between US and foreign products.

Big meat processors opposed the provision, which they said would unnecessarily boost costs and disrupt trade.

A WTO panel ruled in November that the country-of-origin labeling, or COOL, provision violated WTO rules on technical barriers to trade. The case was brought by Canada and Mexico, which have sizeable cattle and hog trade with the United States.

Andrea Mead, a spokeswoman for the US Trade Representative's office, said the November ruling confirmed the United States has the right to adopt mandatory COOL requirements to help consumers make informed purchasing decisions.

But "we were disappointed that the panel disagreed with the way that the United States designed its COOL requirements with regard to beef and pork. Accordingly, we are challenging the panel's report before the WTO Appellate Body," she said.

In their complaint, Canada and Mexico said cattle and hog shipments to the United States declined sharply after the law took effect. They said the US rules were too stringent and put their livestock at a disadvantage.

"The WTO panel decision recognized the integrated nature of the North American supply chain and marked a clear win for our industry," Canadian Agriculture Minister Gerry Ritz said in a statement expressing disappointment with the US appeal.

At least two dead in two small plane crashes in Colo

LONGMONT, 24 March—At least two people were killed after crashes of two single-engine planes that may have collided Friday while in the air north of Denver, authorities said Friday. One person survived. The wrecked planes were found six miles apart near the city of Longmont, police Cmdr. Tim Lewis said.

The crashes were being investigated as a possible mid-air collision, Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Mike Fergus said.

A Cessna 180 went down near a small airport in the city, while a Cessna 172 crashed about a half-mile from a Walmart southeast of Longmont, close to two homes, police said.

"We were very fortunate neither home appeared to be in danger," police Cmdr. Jeff Satur said. Two people died in the plane that crashed near the Walmart, said Gracie Marquez, deputy coroner for Weld County.

SEOUL, 24 March—Apple Inc.'s new iPhone will have a sharper and bigger 4.6-inch "retina" display and is set to be launched around the second quarter, a South Korean media reported on Thursday.

Sales of the iPhone, first introduced in 2007 with the touch screen template now adopted by its rivals, account for around half Apple's total sales.

Apple has decided on the bigger 4.6-inch display for its next iPhone and started placing orders to its suppliers, the Maeil Business Newspaper said, quoting an unnamed industry source.

Its major display suppliers LG Display and Samsung Electronics Co declined to comment.

Samsung, which is also the biggest challenger to Apple in smartphones, uses 4.6-inch OLED display for its flagship Galaxy S II smartphone, introduced in April last year. The high-definition "retina" display—containing several times as many pixels within the same area—is used in the latest iPad released earlier this month.

Digital skills shortage leaves EU youth a step behind

BRUSSELS, 24 March—European policy makers have identified a large shortfall in computing and IT skills among young people that threatens to dent Europe's ability to compete and could exacerbate youth unemployment in the coming decade.

While young Europeans may be good at using mobile smartphones and playing video games, they lack basic digital skills that could make them more easily employable in a rapidly digitizing economy, research from the European Commission shows. The Commission estimates the shortfall of school leavers and graduates with required IT and digital skills could hit 700,000 by 2015, a deficit that will particularly affect leading digital economies such as Britain, France and Germany.

The findings add to concerns about growing unemployment across Europe, where 24 million people are out of work. Youth unemployment is a particular concern, with more than 50 percent of young people unemployed in Spain and Greece.

"Young people need to appreciate the professional aspects of the new digital world," said Antonio Tajani, the European commissioner for industry and entrepreneurship, as he launched a series of events labelled "e-skills week" to draw attention to the problem and generate ways of tackling it. —Reuters

Mercury spacecraft offers new data

SANTA BARBARA, 24 March—NASA's MESSENGER spacecraft has completed its one-year primary mission to study Mercury, revealing new insights into the planet, researchers say.

The spacecraft captured nearly 100,000 images while orbiting Mercury and recorded data that reveal new information about the planet's core, its topography and the mysterious radar-bright material in the permanently shadowed areas near the poles, the researchers said.

"Mercury is the last unexplored planet," said UC Santa Barbara physicist Stanton Peale, who devised the procedure used for detecting whether Mercury had a liquid core.

The way Mercury was formed, he said, may provide hints about the formation of the solar system.

radius, whereas Earth's core is just over half of the planet's radius, researchers said.

Other findings include a topographic model of the planet's northern hemisphere that shows a smaller variation in elevations compared to those of Mars or the moon, a UC Santa Barbara release reported.

Radar-bright features at the poles located in areas of permanent shadow have been found to be consistent with a water-ice hypothesis, researchers said, but further tests will be required, using instruments aboard MESSENGER.

Future of Monarch butterflies a concern

COLLEGE STATION, 24 March—The numbers of Monarch butterflies moving north across Texas from their breeding grounds in Mexico are expected to be down alarmingly this year, scientists say. Texas A&M researcher Craig Wilson said reports by the World Wildlife Fund and Mexico's Michoacan State show Monarch numbers will be down almost 30 percent in 2012 as they make their annual trek north into the United States.

The figures show an alarming decades-long decline in their numbers, Wilson says.

"Last year's severe drought and fires in the region no doubt played a part, resulting in less nectar for the Monarchs as they migrated south," he said in a university release.

"But estimates show that each year, millions of acres of land are being lost that would support Monarchs, either by farmers converting dormant land for crop use — mainly to herbicide tolerant corn and soybeans — or the overuse of herbicides and mowing.

"Milkweed is the key plant because it's the only plant where the female will lay her eggs," Wilson said.

The loss of such lands is a critical issue for the Monarchs' survival, he said. "We need a national priority of planting milkweed to assure there will be Monarchs in the future," Wilson said. —Internet

Biofuel passes US Navy voyage test

SAN FRANCISCO, 24 March—The US Navy is turning to the sea as a fuel source for its ships, experts say, successfully testing an algae-derived fuel on long voyages.

The US Navy frigate fleet ship USS Ford sailed from its home port in Everett, Wash, to San Diego using 25,000 gallons of the algae-based fuel blended in even proportions with standard F-76 military diesel, TG Daily reported on Wednesday.

Solazyme, a San Francisco-based company that ferments algae to produce oil that can be refined into fuel, said its Soladeisel fuel performed perfectly on the 1,200-nautical-mile trip. The Navy reported "there was absolutely no difference, whatsoever, in the operation or performance of the ship" using the algae-derived fuel.

"Feedback from the ship's engineers was favourable; the crew reported that operational performance of the fuel system and gas turbine engines on the 50/50 blend was ... comparable to operations on traditional petroleum F-76," Solazyme confirmed in a statement.

New images give clues to asteroid's past

PASADENA, 24 March—NASA says its Dawn spacecraft has revealed unexpected details on the surface of the giant asteroid Vesta, including some never seen before on an asteroid.

Vesta is one of the brightest objects in the solar system and is visible to the naked eye from Earth, and the orbiting Dawn spacecraft has found that some areas on Vesta can be nearly twice as bright as others, giving clues to the asteroid's history, NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif, reported on Wednesday.

Bright areas appear everywhere on Vesta but are most predominant in and around craters, where cosmic impacts on the surface seem to have exposed and spread this bright material, researchers say.

"Our analysis finds this bright material originates from Vesta and has undergone little change since the formation of Vesta over 4 billion years ago," Jian-Yang Li, a Dawn participating scientist at the University of Maryland, said. "We're eager to learn more about what minerals make up this material and how the present Vesta surface came to be."

Darker areas of Vesta are thought to be from collisions that melted the outer crust of the asteroid, researchers said.

"Some of these past collisions were so intense they melted the surface," Brett Denevi, another Dawn participating scientist at Johns Hopkins University, said. "Dawn's ability to image the melt marks a unique find. Melting events like these were suspected, but never before seen on an asteroid." —Internet

Out of the 8.4 million patients, those who only go to health departments account for 60% and the rest 40% are found to have received no treatment.

According to Myanmar's general report of 2011, MDG has been reached as a total of more than 140,000 TB patients were found out and cured. This year's motto of World TB Day is representatives from UN agencies, members of social organizations and officials of the departments under the health ministry.

Speaking on the occasion, Vice-President Dr Sai Mauk Kham said: It is learnt that TB started spreading about 6000 years ago. The TB virus was discovered by German scientist Dr Robert Koch on 24 March 1882. March 24 was therefore designated as World TB Day. The day has been celebrated in Myanmar for 17 times starting 1996. TB medicines were first developed in 1947 and it can be cured within 6 to 8 months with the use of fixed dose combination and TB patient kits. As a result, the disease outbreaks and deaths have declined since 2004. However, out of 8.4 million TB infected people in 2011, about 1.4 million died. It is found that 80% of TB patients are most common among those aged between 15 and 54. So it can be deduced that the disease is infected among the age groups who can produce productive strength of the nation. According to WHO, India, Indonesia, Thailand, Bangladesh and Myanmar are in the list of 22 countries with the largest number of TB outbreaks.

'Stop TB in my lifetime. The TB elimination tasks are:

- To ensure that every person is free from TB since their childhood, that TB causes no deaths and that infected people are cured with DOTS or other quick and cost-effective remedies
- To mobilize TB patients undergoing treatment and and external organizations. In the past, cooperation was made only with WHO but now the country is cooperating with 14 international organizations and five local organizations. In addition, cooperation is being made with GPs from the TB project of Myanmar Medical Association.

When it comes to TB immune medicine, the result came out only two months after TB virus had been cultured. But now results can come out within three days at Yangon and Mandalay advanced TB labs.

The State increased the spending on TB elimination from K 14.5 million in 1995-96 to K 626 million in 2010-11. More efforts will be exerted to produce potent medicine and achieve more success in the task.

World TB Day 2012 is being celebrated not only in Nay Pyi Taw but also in other states and regions. Likewise, TB Week activities will be carried out in every township. Health workers down from townships and social organizations are to take measures such as giving health knowledge, exposing patients with TB suspect and patients who fail to take medicine for their continued treatment and conducting medical check-up on family members of a patient. Myanmar needs to speed up these efforts for TB elimination and to seek better ways to fight the disease.

In conclusion, while all are working together to combat TB, they are also to try to march towards a world free of tuberculosis by the year 2050.

Then, Union Minister Dr Pe Thet Khin read out the message sent by President U Thein Sein on World TB Day 2012. WHO resident representative Dr HSB Tennakoon read the message sent by the WHO Southeast Asia regional director. Then the ceremony came to a close.

with main roads facilitated with trees growing in a row. Sharing common culture and religion, Myanmar and Cambodia have been forging friendly ties since yore, and therefore, current friendship and cooperation between the two countries is not a normal phenomenon. The hospitality extended to Myanmar delegation reflects the growth of existing friendly ties between the two countries. President U Thein Sein said that he had visited Cambodia for the first time in November, 2007, and visited Cambodia again in November, 2010, in his capacity as President, and now he was pleased to visit the country again. Although the trip to Cambodia was short, it had further strengthened existing friendly ties and created an opportunity for Myanmar delegation to witness the recent development of Cambodia. Myanmar government, being a Government elected by the people, is committed to fulfilling the needs and aspiration of the people to the most possible degree. And the government is constantly implementing tasks for prevalence of peace and stability and economic development aspired by the people. In that regard, it met with local political groups and has been able to bring about local political stability. Meanwhile, it had extended an olive branch to national races armed groups for national reconciliation. With prevalence of peace and stability in the nation, external pressure had been decreased and there is frequent contact and cooperation with outside, thereby creating potentials for international investments. On the other hand, it is in the process of building an industrialized country while laying down and implementing short term and long term projects for human and infrastructure development as well as improving technology, environmental conservation, ensuring an institution on the basis of law, competitive economic sphere, and boosting the ration of private participation.

Myanmar Government is striving for reforms, nation building tasks and promotion of Myanmar society standard at the same time. While it is implementing tasks for prevalence of peace and stability and economic recovery, the Myanmar delegation was on a State-visit to Cambodia, from which it could observe infrastructure development and many improving sectors including tourism industry and communication sector. He praised the Cambodian Government for those progresses, and wished more success and stronger ties between the two peoples.

President U Thein Sein and Cambodian King enjoyed the dinner. During the dinner, Cambodian cultural troupes entertained those present with cultural dances of the two countries.

President during the summit for sector-wise cooperation and Asia Development Bank's assistance to Myanmar. It was welcoming that the US and EU had positive views on the developments of Myanmar. Cambodia and Myanmar were friendly nations accompanying each other in the time of hardships. He said he was pleased to see the developments of Myanmar today, expressing his belief that Myanmar would successfully take the responsibilities of the ASEAN Chair in 2014.

The Cambodian PM added that he was grateful to the Myanmar President's assistance for promotion of Myanmar-Cambodia ties. Myanmar rendered aid when floods occurred in Cambodia. He said he was glad about launch of direct air transport between the two nations, promoting the tourism industry. He added that he would like to promote economic cooperation further as Myanmar had lots of trade opportunities. He suggested detailed discussion to the Myanmar President for increased economic cooperation.

The Cambodian PM went on to say that Cambodia was currently taking the alternative chairmanship of ASEAN. It was required all the ASEAN fellows join in discussion to activities the slogan saying "One vision, one identity, one community". It was required the cooperation of ASEAN countries to establish ASEAN Community.

The Myanmar President said that he agreed to the points of the Cambodian PM. His visit was aimed at deepening the amity of the two countries. He added that it was a privilege for him to receive the red carpet in calling upon the Cambodian King and warm welcome of Cambodian people along the road to the palace. He was grateful to Cambodia for its support to Myanmar in regional and international issues.

There were a lot of prospects for economic cooperation between the two countries. Regarding the transportation, there was only air link and no road link. Myanmar was preparing to build Laos-Myanmar Mekong River-spanning Bridge. Upon completion of the bridge, it can be accessible to Cambodia via Laos. He added that he hoped Myanmar-Laos road link would also be beneficial to Cambodia. It was planned to build railroad after completion of Laos-Myanmar Mekong Bridge. Deep sea ports and special economic zones were being constructed in Dawei region in southern Myanmar linking with Thailand, to link Dawei and Thailand.

A plan is under way to build motor road and railroad from there to Bangkok of Thailand. On completion, the railroad will be linked with one linking Singapore and Kunming of China. When transportation got better, forest products, rubber, meat and fish, rice, oil-palm and other crops could be traded more. The joint-plans of regional organizations GMS and ACMECS hardly gathered pace. The government was holding peace talks with ethnic armed groups.

The Cambodian Prime Minister pointed out that there were three points to construct links between Cambodia and Myanmar—through Mekong Bridge via Laos to Myanmar; through Vietnam to Myanmar; and through Thailand to Myanmar. Of those three links, the third route through Thailand to Myanmar was the shortest with potentials of becoming a link connecting India through East Asia.

Hailing the 67th Anniversary Armed Forces Day

Tatmadaw with significant characteristics

Maung Mann Nyo

Taking office of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar is going to turn one year on 30 March, 2012. It coincides with 67th Anniversary Armed Forces Day which falls on 27 March. The country sees a lot of democratic reforms during one year. It can be seen that the country's reform process has no turning back. In so doing, the country may face difficulties, challenges, incentives and strife. It is common. It is evident that the new government's undertakings are only for the interests of people.

No doubt that all organizations as well as all citizens recognize the role of Tatmadaw. People are synonymous with Tatmadaw throughout the history. Tatmadawmen in successive eras are our brothers.

Taking a look at Myanmar Tatmadaws in 11th, 16th and 19th Centuries, they were strong and had patriotism and capacities. But, Myanmar was at wars with aliens in 1824, 1852 and 1885. During these wars, Myanmar had lost its territories and then the whole country fell under British Colonial rule. Myanmar lost her independence and Myanmar King was exiled to India. Since then, Myanmar had ended over 800-year-long King Monarch system. Nobody was blamed with respect to the end of Myanmar King system and we must take a lesson from it. It may be because of the disintegration of unity, unacceptability of industrial development in western countries and adherence to the ever-winning sense.

If Myanmar had a strong, patriotic and modern Tatmadaw,...

Respected our brothers served dutifully and tried every possible ways to regain independence, without fear. It was not a rocket science. Since 1824, Taninthayi and Rakhine Regions had been under colonial rule for 124 years; Lower Myanmar, for 96 years since 1852, upper Myanmar, for 63 years since 1885. In so doing, they fought for Independence through political means as well as military means. In its attempt to regain Independence in military way, thirty comrades, which would become first generation of current Tatmadaw, had to receive military trainings. First generation leader of Tatmadaw is General Aung San. He is not only a national leader but also a Tatmadaw leader. It shows that the emergence of Myanmar Tatmadaw is totally different from other countries and Tatmadaw has emerged along with national affairs. It can be seen that People have been in oneness with Tatmadaw. Burma Independence Army (BIA) was formed in Bangkok of Thailand on 26-12-1941 and fought for independence. As true independence had not been achieved, the more powerful colonialists with an excuse to reconstitute BIA came to rename it BDA and PBF to reduce the strength of its members. It seemed that as the nation's independence was dawning, Myanmar leaders had neglected their attempt.

To have characteristics that a Tatmadaw should have, Tatmadaw (Air) was formed on 15-12-1947 and Tatmadaw (Navy), on 24-12-1947 just after Myanmar regained her Independence. It was 4 January, 1948 that Myanmar became an independent, sovereign nation. Our leader General Aung San did not enjoy the fruit of Independence as he was assassinated before Independence. Thirty comrades continued to head Tatmadaw. Unfortunately, civil war broke out along with independence. Then, foreign media dubbed government as Yangon government because they could rule Yangon and its environs only. Tatmadaw could safeguard the country and settle the 1948-49 conflict. After the end of civil war, Tatmadaw could fight against KMT Chinese invasion hand in hand with people. Due to the weaknesses in parliamentary democracy system, ruling parties and governments handed over power to Tatmadaw. In so doing, Tatmadaw held free and fair elections. But, there emerged secessions from the State. As the country was on the edge of collapse, Tatmadaw safeguarded the country as Revolutionary Council Government after taking power. And then Tatmadaw handed over power to Myanma Socialist Programme Party Government that exercised single party system. First generation leaders had been serving country's affairs dutifully. After that, second generation leaders started assuming duties when country's economy was in recession in the 1980s. Myanma Socialist Programme Party was abolished as people called for democracy. After that, the basic foundations were laid for the establishment of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar. Tatmadaw's second generation was capable to do smooth transition and drafting the Constitution.

The term 'generation' is used as fine traditions and good heritages have been maintained for generations. At a time when the nation is starting democratic practices as the Republic of the Union of Myanmar, leaders of third generation are also upholding the good traditions of the Tatmadaw. Quoting the speech of Defence Services Commander-in-Chief General Min Aung Hlaing at the 54 intake of Defence Services (Army) Training Course on 9-12-2011, he said: "When it comes to national defence, it includes safeguarding Our Three Main National Causes, the State constitution and the country's territorial land, air and waters as well as protecting the lives and property of the national people." Indeed, the excerpt of the speech has highlighted defence duties the Tatmadaw would shoulder in the change of the nation's system and era. In other words, it means that the Tatmadaw and the people have been in oneness if it is in the national interest. It is the Tatmadaw that will always safeguard the nation's objective called Our Three Main National Causes, the nation's charter called the constitution, the nation's territory called territorial land, air and waters and lives and property of the national people by risking their lives. In the objectives of the 67th Anniversary Armed Forces Day which falls on 27 March 2012, the Tatmadaw has committed itself to uphold Our Three Main National Causes: non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty, to participate in the national political role with Union Spirit which is true patriotism, to protect the constitution which is the key to building a modern democratic nation and to build a strong, efficient, modern and patriotic Tatmadaw so as to safeguard the nation's independence and sovereignty.

Today's Myanmar has generated a lot of interest. Looking to the course of history ranging from 14 years of parliamentary democracy era (1948 independence period-1962, to 12 years of revolutionary council (1962-1974) to 14 years of Myanma Socialist Programme Party era (1974-1988), it can be found that a transition period has divided two different systems. And there are many lessons to be taken. Despite different systems and eras, all leaders would have had the same ambition of national interest, in other words, the same goodwill. That is to say, they would have served the cause for wellbeing of the nation and the people. They would have tried to implement a system most suitable to most of the people by weighing everything through their experiences. There would have been a variety of difficulties and hardships. While trying to solve problems in various ways as much as possible, they would have experienced successes as well as failures. As the current constitution of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar was drawn in the end of the 20th century and the early 21st century, now is the time when we are in a position to collect sophisticated data and to clearly see the mature democratic nations, the nations that hastily changed into democracies without experience, the course of history Myanmar has passed through and the needs and wishes of its people in democratic transition. We are continuing our journey ensuring check and balance in the three State pillars: executive, legislative and judiciary. The media called the fourth estate will soon develop with fine traditions such as freedom and accountability and freedom and rationality.

"Three powers have been equally shared in the constitution which is a charter framework of democratic transition. After practising these powers equally, the media sector which is fourth estate and our government, people and the Tatmadaw, which form fifth estate, are to march towards the democratic transition with full understanding and trust. Only then, would our country become a modern, developed and democratic one we all want", said President U Thein Sein in his speech delivered at the third regular session of the first Pyidaungsu Hluttaw in the first anniversary of the government's inauguration on 1 March 2012. The speech has clearly shown vision, transparency and truthfulness. The goodwill and farsightedness of the President can clearly be seen as well. Although we cannot deny that choosing and electing is part of democratic practices, appointment also includes in such practices. All political parties which are the main driving forces of the nation's politics are working for the emergence of a modern developed democratic nation while doing democratic practices in the public interest. It can be seen that all stakeholders including the Union government, political parties, civilian societies, Hluttaw representatives, those from the judicial pillar and fourth estate, national race leaders and Tatmadaw members are participating in the effort.

The Tatmadaw, a significant organization of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar, has its defence services personnel representatives shouldering the duties entrusted by the people in the Hluttaws as it was born as a Tatmadaw

67th Anniversary Armed Forces Day Objectives

- * To play a leading role in national politics of the State with Union Spirit, the true patriotic spirit
- * To safeguard the constitution, the main responsibility of the Tatmadaw in building modern, developed democratic nation
- * To build a strong, competent, modern patriotic Tatmadaw to safeguard the independence and sovereignty of the State to serve for the national cause. While shouldering these national duties, the Tatmadaw side by side with the people are safeguarding the motherland for its perpetuity till the end of the world. I have written this article to hail the 67th Anniversary Armed Forces Day.

Union Minister U Kyaw Hsan addresses emergency meeting of Myanmar Writers and Journalists Association

YANGON, 24 March—Myanmar Writers and Journalists Association convened an emergency meeting at University of Nursing (Yangon) on Bogoyoke Aung San Street here this morning. Union Minister for Information and for Culture U Kyaw Hsan delivered an opening speech at the meeting.

Also present at the convention were Yangon Region Finance and Revenue Minister Daw San San Nwe, Region Social Affairs Minister Dr Myint Thein, departmental heads and officials of the Information Ministry, patrons, chairman and CEC members of MWJA, members of organizing committee of the informal convention, special guests, media and observers.

MWJA Secretary U Ko Ko (Ko Ko-Sethmu Tetkatho) acted as MC and Joint Secretary (1) U Myat Khaing (Myat Khaing) as joint MC.

Union Minister U Kyaw Hsan said in his address that the informal convention was called in accord with fundamental principles of MWJA as it was summoned in the time of calling fifth central leading committee meeting after fifth convention.

Within one year of Myanmar's democracy, sweeping reforms were initiated in accord with the constitution, he said. It is everybody's knowledge that these reforms were made in the interests of the country and the people, not for any individual or any organization, he said.

Existing civil societies are being reorganized to cope with democratic society, the minister said. The convention was summoned for emergence of organizations which are commensurate with the age and the media federation formed with these organizations, he said.

MWJA was derived from Myanmar Literary Workers Organization, he recalled. It was the association serving the interests of the State and the people with the pens, he said. The association was formed with authors of novel, article, poem and research papers, reporters, news editor, photo journalists, cartoonists, publishers printing a variety of publications and distributors, he said. To help them do works in each sector, it was learnt that the approval of the convention would be sought for formation of associations, he said.

More systematic and stronger media federation would be formed, based on reorganized associations, he said. Formation of associations with sound foundations, drafting organizational structure and fundamental principles and electing the CEC members democratically are important steps, he said.

Only in the national interest, MWJA created the world of letters which brought about the good to the country and the people, he said. It also fulfilled the necessities of men of the world of letters in technical and human resources development and provided social services, he said. He said he would like to urge to strive for emergence of associations which would serve the national interest and contribute to the development of the world of letters.

Union Minister for Information and for Culture U Kyaw Hsan delivers an address at informal convention of Myanmar Writers and Journalists Association.—MNA

We need to take lessons from the past experiences in forming the associations, he said. To think of the future, we also need to consider what happened in the past, what we are doing at the present and what is happening, he said. In post-independence period from 1948 to 1962, there are above 20 organizations related to the literature, he said. Although the men of letters had firstly worked for patriotism and nationalism, they were then split up following, political allegiance, personality cult and sectarianism, he said. Then the power struggle followed as they wanted to control all the organizations in the world of letters, he said. In that period, they could not serve the interest of the country, the people and the literary world effectively, he said.

Being NGOs, literary associations need to distance themselves from party politics, sectarianism and personality cult, he recommended. To form genuine fourth estate, every association must have firm policies, rules and regulations, and codes of conduct, he said. The government has already acknowledged its stance that it values and confides in the literary world. He urged the men of letters to establish genuine fourth estate, which is highly qualified and ethical and can serve the interest of the country and the people.

In building democratic nation, there are three estates—legislation, executive and judicial estates, he said. The fourth estate or media is to check and balance these three estates, he said. There is still another estate, the people, who decide everything in democracy, he said. The fourth estate and any other estates need to inform and help the people make right decisions, he said.

He said he would like to repeat five principles he always demanded from journalists for realization of the genuine fourth estate. The first one is being free from bias, he said. The second one is writing an event from various angles to let the people make right decisions, he said. The third principle is exercising freedom and accountability, freedom and rationality in parallel. We could freely think, believe, judge and differ in democratic system, he said, saying Unity in Democracy is needed. The fourth one is Unity in Democracy, he said. The last one is the national interest in realizing unity in democracy, he said. In moving towards democracy, the media estate key to the nation should apply these five principles, he said.

He urged to carry out procedures systematically with firm policies, right stance and procedures with the view to emerging literary organizations esteemed and trusted by the people and the government.

The first session of the convention was adjourned and Union Minister U Kyaw Hsan cordially greeted those present and posed with them for documentary photo.

MWJA Chairman U Tin Hlaing (Ledwintha Saw Chit) presided over the second session and Members of the panel are U Kyaw Myint (Maung Yan Shin), U Aye Kyi (Maung Nyo Aye-Mawyawady), U Myint Swe (Swe Nwe Oo), U Htain Min (Min Aye Nyein Sae), U Khin Aung (Shwebo Bamahti Khin Aung) and U Tin

Tun Ohn (Mahn Cheint Phale). MWJA Joint Secretary (3) U Aung Thein Win (Maung Khaing Khant) acted as MC and Joint Secretary (2) Dr Than Tun Oo (Dr Tha Tun Oo) as joint MC.

MWJA Chairman U Tin Hlaing (Ledwintha Saw Chit) delivered a speech.

Secretary U Ko Ko read out the report of the central executive committee and treasurer U Muang Maung Aye (Maung Haymar), the financial report.

MWJA Vice-Chairman (1) U Khin Maung Tun (Khin Maung Tun-Lanmadaw) explained organizational set-up of Myanmar Writer Association and Vice-Chairman (3) U Ko Ko Hlaing (Ko Ko Hlaing), organizational structure of Myanmar Journalist Association.

U Thein Win (Min Yin Su) submitted the CEC report and U Khin Maung Lay (Maung Ye Min) the financial report. U Win Aung (Htet Thu Aung) and U Soe Aung (Soe Aung-Tamway) respectively seconded organizational set-ups of MWA and MJA.

Secretary U Ko Ko read out the lists of members of committees for formation of MWA, MJA and Myanmar Publisher Association. Then the convention paused.

Secretary U Ko Ko, on behalf of CEC members, made clarifications on discussion of convention representatives. The concluding remarks of the MWJA chairman brought the convention to an end.

MWJA hosted dinner to the reps at Panda Hotel.

The convention decided to form MWA, MJA and Myanmar Publisher Association based on existing Myanmar Printers and Publishers Association.

London shares close just higher

LONDON, 24 March—London shares closed higher on Friday at the end of a week of steady losses driven by concerns of a slowdown in global growth.

The benchmark FTSE 100 index inched up 0.16 percent to end at 5,854.89 points—but was down 1.86 percent overall from the previous week.

This represents the FTSE's worst week this year and came amid global economic growth worries caused by weak data out of China and the eurozone.

It follows a strong first-quarter rally for world stock markets thanks to robust US jobs data. Lloyds Banking Group (LBG) was the most traded stock, seeing 154 million units change hands, followed by Royal Bank of Scotland (RBS), which saw 98.1 million units switched owners.

BT Group was the biggest blue-chip gainer, up 5.4 percent—or 11.9 pence—to 232.1 after it announced plans to halve its pension scheme deficit by the end of the year. It was followed by fund manager Ashmore Group, which gained 3.17 percent—or 11.6 pence—to 377.1. Luxury fashion group Burberry was the day's worst performer, seeing shares drop 2.01 percent—or 31 pence—to 1,513.

The second-worst performer was Randgold Resources, which slumped a further 1.99 percent—or 115 pence—to 5,650, following Thursday's 13 percent loss in the wake of the military coup in Mali where the gold miner has two big facilities.

The pound was worth $1.5870 at 5:20pm, up from $1.5813 at the same time Thursday, while it slipped to 1.1965 euros from 1.1995 over the same period.

Drug-resistant TB blamed on Indian treatment flaws

NEW DELHI, 24 March—India's inadequate government-run tuberculosis treatment programmes and a lack of regulation of the sale of drugs that fight the disease are responsible for the spiraling number of drug-resistant cases that are difficult to treat, health activists said Friday.

India adds an estimated 99,000 cases of drug-resistant TB every year, but only a tiny fraction of those infected receive the proper drugs to treat the stubborn disease through the government-funded programme. Saturday marks World Tuberculosis Day.

The original form of the disease can be easily cured by taking antibiotics for six to nine months. But if that treatment is interrupted or the dose is cut, the bacteria battle back by mutating into a tougher strain that can no longer be killed by standard drugs, making it harder and more expensive to treat.

The easy availability of

TB drugs in the private market and the casual over-the-counter sale of antibiotics is fueling the development of drug resistance, Piero Gandini, head of Doctors Without Borders in India, said in a statement.

"There is an urgent need for regulatory control of sale and administration of TB drugs in the private sector," he said. The organization and other health groups also said India's TB control program provides treatment to patients only on alternate days. They argue it increases the risk that patients, most of whom are poor daily wage laborers, will miss doses, another factor responsible for drug-resistant strains of TB.—Internet

Electric cars risk losing green sheen in Japan

TOKYO, 24 March—Electric car owners who prided themselves on being green now find themselves in a bind as Japan's government maneuvers to restart dozens of nuclear power plants idled after last year's meltdowns.

For decades, nuclear generation has been a crucial source of power here, but the tsunami-triggered meltdowns at the Fukushima Dai-ichi plant have spurred a debate over how to supply Japan's electricity in the future.

Long touted as a clean, zero-emission alternative to vehicles powered by dirty fossil fuels, electric cars are now at risk of being tainted by their association with nuclear.

If, as is possible, nuclear remains a key source of power, "then the green image of the electric car will get bashed to bits, maybe to the extent it will be irreparable," said Ryuichi Kino, who has written books on nuclear power and hybrid technology.

"I have the feeling it's quite possible that might happen." Not long after the tsunami swept through the plant on 11 March last year, the government backed away from plans to lift nuclear power from supplying a third of Japan's electricity needs to half. But Japan isn't abandoning nuclear power altogether.—Internet

Scotland to have 150 mn euro wind turbine factory

EDINBURGH, 24 March—Gamesa, the Spanish maker of wind turbines, is to build a major manufacturing facility in Scotland, helping to create 800 jobs, the governments said on Friday.

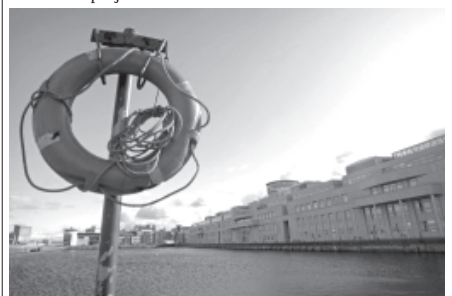

"Wind turbine manufacturer Gamesa today gave a huge vote of confidence to the UK offshore wind industry by announcing their plans to build a major manufacturing facility," next to the port town of Leith, the Department of Energy and Climate Change said in a statement.

"The project could be worth up to 150 million euros of investment and is expected to support over 800 direct jobs." Prime Minister David Cameron added: "This is fantastic news for Scotland and shows that the UK remains an attractive place for foreign investment."

The UK already leads the world in the amount of offshore wind installed, according to the Department of Energy and Climate Change and has ambitions to increase it to as much as 18 gigawatts by 2020? a more than 10 fold increase on current levels.

Texas Rangers to serve up 2-foot-long hot dog

ARLINGTON, 24 March—As the Texas Rangers belt home runs this season, some fans may be loosening theirs.

The team is introducing the Great Dane of hot dogs: a 2-foot-long beast that busts the scales at one pound. The Texas-sized dog is also topped with sautéed onions, shredded cheese, jalapenos and chili and served with a side of French fries.

"That's the next kapow," Steve Peterson, the president of Fort Worth-based Classic Foods, said as he gestured to a sample of the hot dog. His company produced the meat.

The Champion Dog, to be served at Rangers Ballpark in Arlington, will reign supreme over the mere foot long dogs. At a price of $26, the entrée is meant for sharing with three or more people.

"It wasn't our intention for this to be what one person would eat. I know there will be folks out there who can handle that and that's their business," said Shawn Mattox, the general manager of the team's food contractor, Sportservice.

The Rangers' home opener is Friday, 6 April, against the Chicago White Sox. Fans will see this description on the menu: "The Champion of all hot dogs big enough to feed a few players on your team."

The inspiration behind the massive meal is the half-pound dog introduced during last year's World Series, which the Rangers lost to the Saint Louis Cardinals.

After the season — when a 3-pound pretzel was also introduced — they wondered, "How do we top what we already did?"

Mattox said the Rangers teamed up with a local bakery to supply the 2-foot-long buns and asked Peterson if his company could help.

NJ city dodges toilet paper crisis

Officials in Trenton, NJ, said a toilet paper crisis at city buildings has been staved off with a $16,000 emergency order of paper products.

Supplies of toilet paper and paper towels at City Hall and other city-run facilities including police headquarters and senior centres are nearly depleted due to Mayor Tony Mack's administration being unable to get City Council approval for a $46,000 contract to keep the facilities supplied for the next year, The Times of Trenton reported on Wednesday.

Acting city purchasing agent Marchelle Marshall said relief is now on the way in the form of $16,000 worth of toilet paper and paper towels.

"Some of the supplies were supposed to be delivered at 5 o'clock today, and some of the rest will be delivered tomorrow," Marshall said on Tuesday.

The City Council initially rejected the $46,000 bid from Pennsauken-based firm Amsan in September due to the company wanting $4,000 for a supply of hot drink cups. Marshall asked the council Tuesday night to reject a contract with Amsan so the city can solicit bids from other companies. The council voted as Marshall recommended.

Brad Pitt 'fell in love with New Orleans' long ago

WASHINGTON, 24 March—Brad Pitt has revealed that he fell in love with New Orleans when he made a visit to the city in early 90s.

Long before the actor himself surveyed the devastation caused in New Orleans by Hurricane Katrina and founded the Make It Right foundation to rebuild the community he already had a special place in his heart for the place.

Pitt revealed this when he made an appearance on 'The Ellen DeGeneres Show' on Tuesday.

"It was a bit of a blur because New Orleans will do that to you," People magazine quoted him as saying on the show.

"I fell in love with the place. The people. The music. It's in the air. It's something you can't describe on camera," he added.

Coleman to be new 'Doctor Who' companion

LONDON, 24 March—Jenna-Louise Coleman will play Doctor Who's latest companion, the British science-fiction series' producer announced on Wednesday.

Matt Smith portrays the titular Time Lord.

Coleman, 25, has had roles in the British soap "Emmerdale," the movie "Captain America" and the upcoming miniseries "Titanic."

"Doctor Who" executive producer Stephen Moffat said the actress will join the cast after current companions Amy and Rory, played by Karen Gillan and Arthur Darvill, leave the show later this year, EW.com reported.

"It's not often the Doctor meets someone who can talk even faster than he does, but it's about to happen," Moffat said in a statement. "Jenna is going to lead him on his merriest dance yet. And that's all you're getting for now. Who she's playing, how the Doctor meets her, and even where he finds her, are all part of one of the biggest mysteries the Time Lord ever encounters. ## Katy Perry promises honesty in her lyrics

WASHINGTON, 24 March—Katy Perry has said that she always wants her lyrics to be honest, "no matter how much it hurts."

The 'Firework' hitmaker, who split from husband Russell Brand in December, promised fans that she will always tell the truth on her records, and finds going into the studio is often "cathartic".

"People see the lyrics are a bit vulnerable sometimes, but I think that is what everybody wants to hear, they want to hear the truth, no matter how much it hurts," Contactmusic quoted her as telling BBC Radio 1.

"Writing songs is cathartic, it's definitely like I'm pushing something out. Whenever I feel I'm getting toward breaking point, rather than going into a bad place I just get my guitar, or get myself into the studio and free verse, freestyle," she said.

The 27-year-old singer added that she always carries a recorder wherever she goes in order to capture all the funny and interesting phrases, words or descriptions that come to her in her everyday life.

"I have this little red recorder I have with me at all times, and if I'm walking around the streets it's in my purse and I just pull it out. It's all about catchphrases and people and conversations and what I'm feeling.

"I love language, especially when you write a pop song, a lot of people think your pop songs are just pop and whatever, but if you listen to the lyrics, each one has a meaning and a purpose, and sometimes has two meanings, two purposes.

"Basically what I'm trying to say is I'm super deep. But I'm also a pop star," she said.—Internet

Deschamps desperate to end Marseille losing streak

Marseille's head coach Didier Deschamps (C), seen here during their French Ligue 1 match vs Dijon, on 17 March, at the Velodrome stadium in Marseille.—INTERNET

MARSEILLE, 24 March—The future of Didier Deschamps as Marseille coach is set to come under more intense scrutiny this weekend when the stricken French league giants bid to end an unprecedented series of defeats. And the 1998

World Cup winner expects his players to help get their dire domestic season back on the right path. While league leaders and arch-rivals Paris Saint-Germain continue the business of winning a first league title since 1994, the plight of 2010 champions Marseille is sure to dominate Saturday's league programme.

Marseille's hopes of playing in next season's Champions League were virtually ended last week by a fifth consecutive league defeat, to relegation-haunted Dijon. Another humiliation came Tuesday in the shape of a French Cup quarter-final defeat to part-timers Quevilly, prompting a stark overall appraisal from former World Cup winner Deschamps. "We're in a hole. Either we stay there, or we get our heads together and get out," Deschamps said Thursday.

"All defeats are horrible, but this one was particularly hard to swallow." So far, Deschamps has been spared the kind of intense speculation that brings down managers in other top leagues, with club president Vincent Labrune calling on the players to pull their socks up. "Everyone has to face up to his responsibilities," warned Labrune, who has already lamented the loss of cash Marseille could have potentially earned from inclusion in next season's Champions League.

Tiger Woods plays a shot on the second hole. Woods served notice that he has regained top form with the Masters less than two weeks away, grabbing the clubhouse lead on Friday at the PGA Arnold Palmer Invitational.—INTERNET

ORLANDO, 24 March—Tiger Woods served notice that he has regained his top form with the Masters approaching, firing a seven-under-par 65 on Friday to share the lead at the US PGA Arnold Palmer Invitational. The 14-time major champion fired seven birdies in a bogey-free second round to finish 36 holes level with South Korean Charlie Wi on 10-under 134 at the $6 million event. And Woods didn't even think he played that well on the same Bay Hill course where he has won six prior US PGA titles.

"I putted well. I didn't feel like I hit it all that good," Woods said. "My misses are better, I just played smart all day. I didn't make any bad mistakes. That's what I'm working on. My bad days aren't as bad as they used to be. I feel comfortable on this golf course. For some reason I just understand how to play it." Northern Ireland's Graeme McDowell and American Jason Dufner shared third on 135 with England's Justin Rose a distant fifth on 138.

Woods produced his lowest score after 36 holes since the US PGA Buick Open in July of 2009 and did it in his last event before the year's first major event, the Masters, starts on 5 April at the famed Augusta National Golf Club. What remains for former world number one Woods to accomplish, however, is putting together two more great rounds over the weekend and snapping his current losing streak in tour-sanctioned events that began in November of 2009.—Internet

Cup finalists Dortmund, Bayern resume Bundesliga fight

MUNICH, 24 March—Having both secured their places in the German Cup final in midweek, Bundesliga rivals Bayern Munich and Borussia Dortmund resume their battle for the league title this weekend. With a five-point lead at the top of the table, Dortmund are at Cologne on Sunday while second-placed Bayern host Hanover on Saturday in a rich vein of form having scored 13 goals in their last two league games.

Bayern are hunting a treble of titles this season and face Marseille in the Champions League quarter-finals. With eight points separating Dortmund and third-placed Moenchengladbach, Bayern are realistically the only team who can catch the leaders with eight games to go.

The league title race could well be decided on April 11 when Munich face Borussia at Dortmund and the teams will also contest the German Cup final a month later on May 12 at Berlin's Olympic Stadium. Just as he did last season, Dortmund coach Jurgen Klopp has discouraged his team from talking about the title, but captain Sebastian Kehl has said false modesty will do them no favours.—Internet

SARASOTA, 24 March—Three-time Grand Slam champion Maria Sharapova is tough enough for the top players in women's tennis, but now the Russian beauty is about to be joined by another Sharapova, her 16-year-old cousin.

Dasha Sharapova, who has been fine tuning her tennis talents at Florida's IMG Bollettieri Academy, has been announced in the field of the Sarasota Open, a 16-player event to be played April 14-22 on the US developmental Sarasota Open spokeswoman Sandra Rios said.

"Notwithstanding the cultural changes of such a move, Dasha found the most significant change was the increased amount of tennis she plays." The younger Sharapova says her role model is her cousin Maria, currently ranked World No 2 and coming off a runner-up showing at Indian Wells as she plays in the WTA and ATP hardcourt event in Miami that runs through next week.—Internet

I'm not Chelsea 'boss', says Terry

LONDON, 24 March—Chelsea captain John Terry insisted on Friday that coach

Roberto Di Matteo is not a Stamford Bridge puppet and that the Italian is firmly in control of team affairs.

"In response to comments suggesting that I think I'm the manager, I'd like to say Robbie has stepped up and been immense," Terry told the Evening Standard newspaper. Terry, standing to the side of Di Matteo, was spotted screaming orders at his teammates from the bench after being substituted in last week's dramatic Champions League win over Napoli. "I am Chelsea through and through, whether I am on the pitch or off it," added the 31-year-old.

"Had I still been on the pitch, I would have been saying the same things that I was from the bench. That is my role as captain of this club. "Just because I have come off the pitch, it doesn't mean to say my mentality changes. "People might see it in the wrong way, but I care about this football club - we all do - and Robbie and his backroom staff deserve full credit."

NLM-ner Joke
A Really Bad Day

There was this guy at a bar, just looking at his drink. He says like that for half of an hour.

Then, this big trouble-making truck driver steps next to him, takes the drink from the guy, and just drinks it all down. The poor man starts crying. The truck driver says, "Come on man, I was just joking. Here, I'll buy you another drink. I just can't stand to see a man cry."

"No, it's not that. This day is the worst of my life. First, I fall asleep, and I go late to my office. My boss, outrageous, fires me. When I leave the building, to my car, I found out it was stolen. The police said that they can do nothing. I get a cab to return home, and when I leave it, I remember I left my wallet and credit cards there. The cab driver just drives away."

"I go home, and when I get there, I find my house burnt down. I leave home, and come to this bar. And just when I was thinking about putting an end to my life, you show up and drink my poison."

LONDON, 24 March—Chelsea missed an opportunity to close the gap on fourth-placed Tottenham Hotspur as the lunchtime derby in the Premier League ended 0-0 at Stamford Bridge on Saturday.

Tottenham remain five points above Chelsea in the race for a top-four spot although they wasted the best opportunities in a fixture they have not won since 1990.

A draw moved them level on 55 points with third-placed Arsenal who are at home to Aston Villa later on Saturday. Chelsea, who rarely threatened, have 50.

to Tottenham's Rafael van der Vaart in stoppage time the second was much livelier with both sides hitting the woodwork.

Juan Mata curled a free kick against the post for Chelsea while Gareth Bale's header struck the crossbar at the other end.

Emmanuel Adebayor spurned a great chance for Spurs when he rounded goalkeeper Petr Cech but had his weak shot cleared off the line by Gary Cahill.

Cech also saved a dangerous Bale free kick in stoppage time.
