“ We have many opportunities to learn in order to overcome and eliminate the evil legacies of the past and to fulfill the aspirations for the future of the nation. We know how much loving kindness, truth and bravery are needed; how greed, anger and ignorance can impact negatively. We have learnt the importance of having good friends. The most important lesson we learned is the value of understanding and unqualified support of our people.

Union Minister for International Cooperation delivers a statement at the 18th Mid-term Ministerial Conference of the Non-Aligned Movement held in Baku

UNION Minister for International Cooperation U Kyaw Tin has participated at the 18th Mid-term Ministerial Conference of the Non-Aligned Movement held in Baku, Azerbaijan from 5 to 6 April 2018 and delivered a statement during the interactive debate under the theme “Promoting International Peace and Security for Sustainable Development”. The Ministerial Meeting was chaired by the Minister for Foreign Affairs of Azerbaijan and attended by 120 Member States of the Movement and 17 observer States and 10 international organizations.

Union Minister U Kyaw Tin took part in the interactive debate of the ministerial meeting on 5th April 2018 emphasizing the importance for the Movement to maintain the unity and solidarity among its membership adhering to its guiding principles and objectives, particularly respect for the sovereignty and territorial integrity of all nations; refraining from the interference in the internal affairs of the countries; settlement of disputes by peaceful means; and refraining from acts of aggression or threats or the use of force against any country. He also apprised the Meeting of the progress in Myanmar efforts on national reconciliation and peace process, and in resolving the situation in Rakhine State.

The Union Minister underscored the important nexus between peace and achieving the Sustainable Development Goals citing the reason that as the history of countless countries, including Myanmar, illustrates, conflict and instability have had a lasting impact on a country's development. The Movement must continue to work on consensus basis, speak with one voice and remain united as a group in addressing the major issues of concerns to all Member States. The Movement must not encourage misuse of the forum for any act inimical to other fellow member States which could undermine the unity and solidarity of the Movement. Any dispute among member states, he added, must be resolved bilaterally by peaceful means.

In his briefing relating to Myanmar, the Union Minister explained that Myanmar, as a founding member of the Non-Aligned Movement, has faithfully adhered to those principles. Myanmar has undergone remarkable changes and democratic transformation in recent years. Recognizing peace as the prerequisite and enabler for the development, the Government has revitalized the peace process with numerous ethnic armed groups to end the internal armed conflicts. Thirty-seven key principles for a future democratic federal union were agreed during the second session of the Union Peace Conference in May last year. Two more ethnic armed groups came on board to sign the Nationwide Ceasefire Agreement (NCA) last February bringing the total number of signatories to ten, marking a new milestone in the direction of peace.

The Union Minister also explained about the issue of Rakhine State which, he said, has become the centre of the world's attention due to incessant media reports portraying it as a religious issue. Myanmar fully shares the concern over the humanitarian situation of all affected communities which was in fact ignited by the coordinated attacks by ARSA terrorists against 30 border security posts on 25 August 2017. Many overlooked this fact as well as the sufferings, insecurity and fears of Rakhine and many other ethnic minorities. Massive displacements were caused not only by violence involved in the fight against terrorists but also by fear, intimidation and persuasion of the terror group. In fact, the Rakhine problem is not an issue of religious discrimination as widely portrayed, but it is a political and economic issue involving illegal migration, resource competition, poverty, citizenship issue, rule of law and national security. The Government is fully committed to find a sustainable solution that would lead to peace, stability and development for all communities within the State.

The Union Minister further elaborated that the Government has been implementing the recommendations of the Kofi Annan Commission through formation of a Ministerial-level implementation committee, an Advisory Board comprised of local and foreign eminent personalities and the Union Enterprise for Humanitarian Assistance, Resettlement and Development in Rakhine (UEHRD). Myanmar is working bilaterally with Bangladesh for early repatriation of the displaced people of Rakhine State through a joint working group following the signing of a number of agreements between the two countries since 23 November last year. Myanmar has sent back a list of hundreds of peoples which the government was able to verify, even though the forms received from Bangladesh are not in conformity with the agreed prescribed form for repatriation. Myanmar side is ready to receive verified returnees back any time.

The Government has also put in place an effective mechanism to deliver humanitarian assistance to all affected communities through Red Cross Movement and AHA Centre, WFP and FAO. The Government has proposed a draft MOU to UNDP and UNHCR to jointly assist the Government's efforts in carrying out livelihood development for all communities in Rakhine State and for repatriation and resettlement of the displaced persons respectively.

The Union Minister urged the members of the Movement to take a more positive approach by helping Myanmar to resolve the issue, rather than focusing on criticism, condemnation and hate narratives. Mishandling of the issue could trigger chaos, instability and tamper social harmony in the multi-religious country. It could even undermine the ongoing democratization process of Myanmar. It is important to focus on resolving the situation, not inflaming the situation and on helping Myanmar in bringing the communities together instead of driving them further apart. The Union Minister also pointed out the injustice, unfairness and inequalities of the current world order and the monopolization of the news media by the rich and powerful and warned that unbalanced reporting and spread of fake news could negatively influence policy decisions to the peril of less developed or weaker member States whose views and narratives are faced with suppression.

He concluded by urging the Non-Aligned Movement to work together in unity and solidarity to strengthen the group and to shape a more equitable and better world in order to realize lasting peace, social justice and to achieve sustainable development.

The Conference adopted the Final Document, Baku Declaration, Declaration on Palestine and General report.

The Ministerial Meeting was preceded by Senior Officials Meeting on 3 and 4 April.

During his stay in Baku, the Union Minister held bilateral meetings with Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Azerbaijan, Minister of People's Power for Foreign Affairs of the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela, the current Chair of the NAM, and the heads of delegations of Singapore, Cuba and India. The Myanmar delegation arrived back Yangon 8 April 2018. —Ministry of International Cooperation ■

Bilateral trade between Myanmar, South Korea worth $635mn

THE value of bilateral trade between Myanmar and South Korea in the first 10 months of the 2017-2018 fiscal year (FY) exceeded US$635 million, including $236 million in exports and $399 million in imports, according to figures release by the commerce ministry.

Rice and broken rice, coffee, mangoes, pulses, apparel produced by Myanmar's garment sector on cut-make-pack basis, shrimp and sesame oil, among other things, are exported to South Korea, while Myanmar imports capital goods such as machinery and equipment, raw industrial goods such as fertilisers and garment materials, and consumer goods such as cosmetic products.

The value of bilateral trade between the two countries was $866 million in the 2016-2017 FY, $657 million in the 2015-2016 FY, $862 million in the 2014-2015 FY, $1.57 billion in the 2013-2014 FY, $623 million in the 2012-2013 FY, and $667 million in the 2011-2012 FY. New car import policy brings down import value at Myawady gate

THE import value of goods traded through the Myawady gate dropped by some US$50 million, a week prior to the end of the 2017-2018 fiscal year (FY), compared with the 2016-2017 FY.

The changes in the car import policy in 2018 and a high tax rate have contributed to a steep drop in the import value at the Myawady gate. During the nearly two-month suspension of automobile trade, more than 2,000 vehicles were stranded at the Myawady gate.

However, a high volume of fishery products are exported daily through the Myawady gate. Trade through the Myawady gate from 1 April 2017 to 23

March 2018 in the 2017-2018 FY fetched $878 million, while the gate recorded trade worth some $907 million in the same period last FY.

Industrial machinery, trucks, agricultural equipment, tractors, motorcycles, cars, food and beverages, cosmetics, fuel oil, fertilisers, cement, construction materials and sugar for re-export are imported through the Myawady gate.

Fish, prawns, crabs, onions, sesame, turmeric, herbs and forestry products are sent to Thailand.

Of the seven Thai-Myanmar border gates, Myawady gate is the main checkpoint for Thai-Myanmar trade, but the trade value in the 2017-2018 FY was some $28 million lower than that achieved in the 2016-2017 FY. Similarly, Tachilek also showed a slight decline in trade. The remaining gates showed an increase in trade. Exports via the Kawthoung and Myeik checkpoints significantly surpassed the imports.

A week before the end of the 2017-2018 FY, the value of border trade was $85 million at the Tachilek gate, $878 million at Myawady, $199 million at Kawthoung, $254 at Myeik, $122 million at Hteekhee, $7 million at Mawtaung and $0.92 million at Maese. — Htet Myat ■

Pulses, bean sectors need immediate action

THE mung bean and pigeon pea markets, which are solely dependent on the Indian market, have been totally ruined by the neighbouring country's restriction on importation.

Thus, immediate action is required to deal with this problem, according to experts.

Following India's restriction on the importation of mung beans and pigeon peas, prices plunged, unable to cover even the cultivation costs. The growers have been battered by the sharp drop in prices and are finding it difficult to grow the crops in the coming season.

Therefore, they need guidelines from the related departments and organisations to remedy this situation, said U Khin Han, chair of Yangon Region commodity depot, during the 16th regular meeting of Vice President U Myint Swe with Myanmar entrepreneurs on Monday last week.

The government's intervention is needed to explore new export markets in a bid to regulate the prices, as India's import policy for pulses is not clear, he noted.

U Tun Lwin, chair of Myanmar Pulses, Beans and Sesame Seeds Merchants Association, told Myawady Daily that there was still no response to a proposal to set up an inclusive quota for Myanmar's pulses exports to India.

The demand for pulses in the domestic market has been steady with the Thingyan Festival approaching. However, in the previous years, the foreign demand for mung beans and pigeon peas was soaring.

In early August, India announced a 200,000-tonne import quota on pigeon peas and 300,000-tonne quota on mung beans and green grams.

Myanmar's pulses export sector is heavily reliant on the Indian market, which accounts for 70 per cent of the export volume. The sole reliance on a single market has plunged the Myanmar pulses industry into chaos. — Mon Mon ■

German International Cooperation Team, the Office of Auditor-General of the Union, Myanmar Accountancy Council, and Central Bank of Myanmar has selected three private banks in order to plan and draw financial clearance in accordance with international statistic standard for the development of financial reporting. A survey was conducted to be able to know whether the IFRS standards are being issued or not. Office of the Auditor General of the Union of Myanmar and Office of the Auditor General of the Norway signed MOU in 2016, and the priorities in the MOU are to be held the workshops and trainings on different types of audit such as financial audit, performance audit, environmental audit and IT audit for audit on Petroleum Sector of Myanmar. Workshops are done to experience the Performance audit of Norway. At the Audit Management System Workshop which was held by cooperating with Norway to implement Audit Management System, Audit Process Mapping and Audit Flow were discussed.

We've permitted private accounting schools to raise more qualified professionals. We've opened courses for Diploma in Accountancy (DA) and Chartered Public Accountant (CPA).

Q: Let me know how the office is managing the human resources?

A: With the financial supports of World Bank, IPSAS (International Public Sector Accounting Standards) training was conducted to the staffs of the Office of Auditor-General of the Union and staffs from other Ministries. Human Resources Management training, Project Management training and Assets Management Training are planning to conduct in order to upgrade the capacity of the human resources.

Q: Can you tell us a bit about the Myanmar Accountancy Council's (MAC) workings?

A: The Auditor-General is the chairman of the MAC. There aren't many qualified accountants in Myanmar, in fact there are only 1,209 professionals in the entire country. We've permitted private accounting schools to raise more qualified professionals. We've opened courses for Diploma in Accountancy (DA) and Certified Public Accountant (CPA).

Q: Have there been any changes to the field of accounting?

A: In 2010 we released the localized version of the International Financial Reporting Standards (IFRS) called the Myanmar Financial Reporting Standards (MFRS). These standards are constantly changing to stay relevant to modern times. To this end the MAC and the IFRS Foundation Corporation have signed an open license agreement.

On the national level we follow the International Standards of Supreme Audit Institutions (ISSAI) and we participate in workshops with the ASEAN Supreme Audit Institutions (ASEANSAT) to stay up-to-date.

Q: Could you tell us a bit about the Myanmar Institute of Certified Public Accountants (MICPA)?

A: MICPA is a non-profit formed with skilled professionals. The Myanmar Accountancy Council used to be the primary member of the ASEAN Federation of Accountants (AFA) but now MICPA has taken the role. It has taken the place of a national accountancy body.

Q: Can you explain about the international standards accountants use here?

A: We have collaborated with the German Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ), which has been working on behalf of the German Federal Ministry for Economic Cooperation and Development, and have chosen three banks to test the adapted standards in the country. We found that 60 per cent of the banks here are adaptable to international standards. We are trying to shift to an accrual basis.

As a last word, we send prospective students for study-abroad programmes and we currently have four students taking an MBA course in China. ■

Follow guidelines to avoid accidents, crimes in Thingyan festival

THE Myanmar traditional Thingyan festival, one of the Myanmar 12-season festivals is coming soon. Dangers of drugs are spreading not only in Thingyan Festival but also all the time in Myanmar and across the world.

Generally, people are overjoyed during these days. To save people's lives, drivers need to drive vehicles with great care. They should not be intoxicated while driving, assuming that they are taking responsibilities of ensuring safety of those on board.

Motor cycles are two-wheeled vehicles without any cover and protection against danger. Oil which leaks on roads and water can make a vehicle turn over, so it needs to avoid over-speeding, driving with more than two on motor cycles, driving without helmets on, drunk driving and driving motor cycles with exhaust unfastened to the extent of making public nuisances.

ing countries in many types—liquid, tablet and powder and in many brands.

These drugs are colorless and tasteless. So these are very dangerous. In case unexpected young women happen to take it mixed with food, their lives are likely to be completely ruined, hence the need to protect them from danger. This is the responsibility of parents and guardians. We would like to urge parents to look after their offspring not to use narcotic drugs

As for parents they need to control their offspring not to wear indecent costumes which are not suitable for Myanmar Culture.

Taking security measures does not mean catching civilians and throwing them in jail. Like every year, police will try to prevent occurrence of major problems.

Next, pedestrians need to pay attention to dangers of traffic which can cause accidents unexpectedly on roads and at pandals. They had better walk on road-side pavements. Actions will be taken against those who violate the traffic rules, 2 weeks ahead of the festival.

During the 2017 Thingyan there were a total of 357 vehicle accidents which resulted in 759 casualties and 139 fatalities. The accidents mostly happened in Bago Region, Sagaing Region, Mandalay Region, and Ayeyawady Region.

Therefore we urge vehicle drivers during this 2018 Thingyan to follow these guidelines to avoid unnecessary accidents.

Besides, various kinds of drugs including sex stimulant drugs are being smuggled into the country from neighboring

Henry Dunant Medal Winner who saved one's life by first aid

By Sai Aung Hlaing Myint

WHILE I was in the village of Khatcho on the other side of Myitkyina Township on Jan 11, 1976, a loud crash impelled many villagers to rush to the bank of Ayeyawady to investigate further what had happened. As we are Red Cross members, we have had an innate sense of sympathy towards the victims after hearing a loud crash on the road or in the river. As I was a local member of Red Cross, I also rushed on my bicycle towards the bank like the villagers did. I asked them what had happened. An army truck on the barge skidded and plunged into the water; the people on the barge didn't have any idea whether there were any passengers or a driver in the car. They were too shocked to deal with the sunken car let alone rescued the passengers or a driver.

When I asked the onlookers on the barge, they told me one or two person went down with the truck. They kept shouting without considering how to rescue them. I wanted to put the blame on them; instead I swallowed a lot of commotion without saying a thing. I took off my clothes to dive into the water, inadvertently showing the crowd a red cross sign on my chest. They eagerly shouted red cross was coming and made the way for me. I studied around the barge before I dived down. Even though the water is 18 to 20 deep, it is crystal clear to see the overturned truck.

I was eager enough to save those who got trapped inside the vehicle. I repeatedly tried to open the door, but I found it hard to see something inside it. Accidentally my leg touched a hole to find a naked body. My ears happened to ache while staying underwater; but I managed to drag the naked body along to the surface. I put the body on my back by my left hand, with right hand clinging to the ropes thrown to me from aboard the barge. Then I managed to carry the patient on my back to get to the barge. The onlookers on the barge helped me get the patient on board the barge. As usual, they tried to crowd around the patient, leaving me in the water swimming around, let alone rescued me. If I got tired, the two persons were deemed to have lost our lives.

I tried to climb on board from the stern of the motor boat in order to help my patient with first aid treatment. First the patient was lain in a prone position, with me sitting astride on the body. My two hands joined under his belly and pulled upwards with the help of some one from the crowd to empty out the water from the belly completely. Two people helped me lift the body in a prone position so that I could go under his belly with his head downwards to empty out the water.

Water, vomit and faeces spurted out from nose, mouth and anus. The patient was tenderly put on his back, letting me think of proper treatment. I kept hearing from the crowd the patient was at death's door. I was being advised not to put the patient on his back; he might die from bleeding, they said. The most important thing they didn't notice was that the patient could not breathe and without a heartbeat.

He might have died with a minute. By ignoring their advice my immediate response was to make the patient breathe again. That is why I put him in a supine position in order to let him breathe easily. I sat down on his right side to perform a kind of resuscitation on him.

I ejected some vomit from his mouth by using two fingers.

Rice mixed with snot were at the tip of nose; stains of thick blood were found above the eyebrows. Although I knew four types of resuscitation, I was going to use easy and effective mouth-to-mouth resuscitation on him. A bristling moustache was found on him as he recently returned from a front line. Covering his nose with my left hand, I performed a mouth-to-mouth resuscitation with all my efforts.

When his lungs got a lot of fresh air, his belly became bulging. I pressed down the bulging stomach with my right hand, letting the air out from his nose and mouth. I repeated did it, thereby letting the patient breathe and the heart being activated to start beating.

Some onlookers from the crowd had returned home assuming that the soldier had died. I was the only one who knew his real conditions.

With a relatively good health, I alighted from the barge with him on my back and treaded through the rocks in the hope of sending him to hospital by truck or by car. Clinics in Khatcho village were not open on Sundays; So, I had to send him to the Waingmaw Township Hospital which is four miles away. I earnestly requested the truck driver to send us to the Township Hospital. With the help of two soldiers, the patient took a front seat together with me; the patient lay on my lap in a prone position so that he could breathe effortlessly under my great care all along the way. Fortunately on the way we found a jeep to which the patient was removed from the truck in a state of vomit, water and filthy rags on the body. I finally breathed a sigh of relief because he started to breathe normally.

Upon arrival at the hospital at four in the afternoon, I again put him on my back and went into a ward. I warmed him with a blanket from a woman; in a moment he opened his mouth and showed his tongue with some blood stains, letting something immediately spring to my mind: he became fully conscious again. I still didn't know the name of the patient with his colleagues letting me know his name. I let Ko Khin Maung Aye know he was now in hospital and soon a doctor came in and I explained to the doctor everything in detail what had happened.

First aid is a kind of treatment before a doctor has come: such as keeping a victim lying down, using a clean cloth or sterile dressing directly on the wound and taking care not to take out any object that is lodged in the wound. I heaved a sigh of relief when the doctor came in, assuming that my patient was safe and put under medically qualified staff in a township hospital.

Sai Aung Hlaing Myint of Myanmar was awarded with Henry Dunant Medal in 23rd International Committee of Red Cross conference in Bucharest, Rumania in 1977.

He was only 21 years old and became the youngest Henry Dunant Medal winner in that year. Born in the Khaungfu village, Myitkyina township on 15 March, 1959 he was a Shan Buddhist with a childhood name of Maung Tin Hlaing. He died of a cerebral haemorrhage on 25 March, 1985 and his body was donated to the Institute of Medicine(1). ■

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor

Apropos to the article, 'Bolivia's jaguars facing threat from Chinese fang craze' (GNLM, April 7, 2018); it is alarming to note the devastating impact on wildlife populations through intercontinental poaching and illegal trafficking of wildlife body parts from South America into China. The illegal wildlife black markets operating in full swing in China and their massive network around the globe are turning out into a serious jeopardy for conserving global biodiversity. This is not just the case of Bolivia alone; but overseas wildlife crimes are all finding destination across four continents into illegal black markets of China; namely- Asia, Africa, Eastern Europe and South America. The region of South and South East Asia is most vulnerable due to its close proximity to China. Several species of wildlife like endangered marine and fresh water as well as terrestrial invertebrates, endangered and critically endangered species of fishes, birds (residents and migratory species), reptiles and amphibians; and majestic mammals like different species and subspecies of tigers, leopards, snow leopards, clouded leopards, lions, civets, bears, pangolins, primates (apes and monkeys), elephants, rhinoceros, deer, antelopes, wild sheep and goats are all vanishing in the unstoppable vortex of this dark wildlife trade that China must take strong action and legal responsibility. Without support from politically influential nexus such trades could not operate openly as is being reported from China. The Chinese government must crack down on these black markets involved with wildlife trade and eradicate them completely. Unless China takes responsibility and act credibly to curb wildlife crimes conducted through its shores and her overseas agents; a dark future awaits the security and conservation of global wildlife.

Thanking you

Chindwin bridge (Khamti) opens in Sagaing Region

AN opening ceremony for a bridge in Khamti Township in Sagaing Region was held at the base of the bridge yesterday. The bridge is situated on the Khamti-Sinthey-Lahe road and was constructed by Construction team-3 of the Bridge Department of the Ministry of Construction.

Sagaing Region Hluttaw Speaker U Than and Deputy Minister for Construction U Kyaw Lin delivered speeches at the ceremony.

U Than said that the new bridge will be beneficial to the local people as it will speed up transportation in the region. Before the bridge was opened, travelers and their cargo and motorbikes had to cross the Chindwin river by boat and that delayed precious time. The bridge also connects Lower Sagaing Region with the Naga Self-Administered Zone and provides a pathway for Upper Sagaing to reach other parts of Myanmar much easier.

The ceremonial ribbon was cut by the Sagaing Region Hluttaw Speaker U Than, Deputy Minister U Kyaw Lin, Region Minister for Electricity, Industry and Transport

Japan ready to support Laos economic growth, Kono says

VIENTIANE - Japanese Foreign Minister Taro Kono on Saturday told his Laotian counterpart of Japan's readiness to continue supporting Laos' social and economic development.

Meeting in Vientiane, Kono and Saleumxay Kommasith also discussed Japan's "free and open Indo-Pacific" strategy for maintaining and strengthening a free and open order in the region based on the rule of law. Earlier Saturday, Kono toured facilities at the capital's Wattay international airport, where Japan is providing roughly 9 billion yen ($84 million) for a terminal expansion project.

Kono also met with Prime Minister Thongloun Sisoulith and conveyed Japan's desire to strengthen bilateral ties.

Kono told reporters after the meeting that Japan will step up efforts to remove unexploded bomb shells from the Viet Nam War. Laos is also a destination for Chinese investment as part of Beijing's "One Belt, One Road" regional infrastructure development megaproject.

The Japanese government has insisted that its Indo-Pacific strategy is not aimed at countering the Belt and Road plan. Kono is scheduled to leave Laos for Cambodia on Sunday morning. — Kyodo News ■

REQUEST FOR EXPRESSIONS OF INTEREST Department of Highways (DOH) under the Ministry of Construction (MOC) Flooding and Landslide Emergency Recovery Project (FLERP) IDA Credit 5889-MM

Assignment Reference Number: C1-MOC-CS02

Assignment Title: Environmental and Social Impact Assessment (ESIA) and Resettlement Action Plan (RAP) for the Kalay – Hahka Road Rehabilitation in Chin State

The Republic of the Union of Myanmar has received financing from the World Bank towards the cost of the Flooding and Landslide Emergency Recovery Project (FLERP). The Department of Highways (DOH) under the Ministry of Construction (MOC) which implements the FLERP intends to apply part of the proceeds for the hiring of a specialized consulting firm in the area of Environmental and Social Impact Assessment (ESIA) and the development of Resettlement Action Plans (RAP).

The FLERP responds to the priority sectors and geographic areas affected by the 2015 floods and landslides of which the transport sector was the hardest-hit public sector through financing with focus on the geographic areas that experienced the highest per capita damages such as Chin, Rakhine, Ayeyarwaddy, Sagaing, Magway, Bago and Yangon. The project also provides livelihood support through labor-intensive rehabilitation and maintenance of rural roads in order to help alleviate the suffering of the most-affected segments of society with both immediate and long-term benefits of income generation, capacity building, increased connectivity as well as business opportunities.

The DOH now invites expressions of interest (EOI) from qualified and experienced NGOs/ Consulting Firms (the Consultants) for an assignment of which the objective is threefold:

1. To develop an ESIA specifically with regard to the road works that have already taken place including an inventory of losses and damages with a time-based RAP to compensate losses. Especially the sub-project Kalay – Falam – Hahka Road Rehabilitation in Chin State will require the consultant's immediate attention
2. To develop an ESIA for upcoming road works including ancillary facilities such as borrow pits, quarry areas, disposal sites, crushing plants, workers' camp, etc. as well as potential impacts in the immediate vicinity of the physical works and downstream and down slope. The ESIA will examine the effects of the planned activities on existing environmental and social conditions in the areas which may be affected by the project, and propose measures for mitigating and monitoring any potential negative impacts. Importantly, it will also consider already occurring impact of road widening and improvement works carried out by MOC, and measures to mitigate them.
3. To support actively the MOC in such way that environmental and social impacts associated with the project are assessed and examined at the earliest planning stage possible, including environmental factors that impact public health and safety as well as the natural environment, such as: air, water, soil, waste, accidents, water usage, ecosystems, and biota. Social concerns include: involuntary resettlement of the population, cultural heritage, landscape, gender, communicable diseases, adverse impacts on ethnic communities, labor influx impacts, labor and working conditions, traffic impacts, community safety.

The ESIA methodology the consultants will follow will be based on:

1. Current environmental and social regulations of Myanmar, especially the EIA Procedures (2015) and EIA Guidelines (2014)
2. The World Bank environmental Operational Policies OP 4.0, OP 4.04, OP 4.11, OP 4.36, as well as the social policies OP 4.12 and OP 4.10 and relevant guidelines
3. The World Bank Group's Environmental, Health and Safety Guidelines (EHSGs)
4. The Consultant will also consult the typical methodology for ESIA preparation in Bank projects (Appendix I) and typical Table of Content (Appendix II) and define the Project Area of Influence that will be covered by the ESIA and identify sensitive receptors and inventory pre-existing (legacy) issues.

The Consultant will be required to propose a team of social and environmental specialists which have previous experience working with the World Bank's social safeguards requirements and prior experience in preparing ESIA, ESMP and RAP. In addition, the specialists are expected to be familiar with Myanmar National environmental requirements and the team should also include Myanmar-speaking and Chin State ethnic minority language(s) speaking personnel. The total duration of the assignment is estimated at 1.5 years on an intermittent basis.

Expressions of Interest must be submitted in a written form to the address below (in person, or by mail, or by e-mail) by Monday 30 April 2018. A consultant will be selected in accordance with the CQS method set out in the World Bank Guidelines for Selection and Employment of Consultants under IBRD Loans and IDA Credits and Grants, January 2011 and revised July 2014.

India to extend railway connectivity to Kathmandu

KATHMANDU — Indian Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Saturday pledged to connect Kathmandu, the capital of landlocked Nepal, to his country's railway network. Speaking at a joint press conference with visiting Nepali counterpart Khadga Prasad Sharma Oli at Hyderabad House in New Delhi, Modi said Kathmandu would be linked by railway to India's Raxaul city bordering Birgunj, Nepal's biggest trading point with its larger southern neighbor. Modi also said that he and Oli have agreed to develop inland waterways for the movement of cargo, which would provide additional access for Nepal to Indian sea ports. Modi praised Oli's vision of "Prosperous Nepal, Happy Nepalis" as one that complements his own mantra of "Sabka Saath, Sabka Vikas" or collective effort, inclusive growth. Speaking after Modi, Oli said Nepal and India share a "common destiny" and therefore "Nepal attaches great importance to relations with India." He, however, stressed that Nepal wants relations based on "equality, justice and respect." The electrified rail line to Kathmandu, which so far has only road and aviation linkages, will be constructed with India's financial support. Preparatory survey works are to be completed within a year. — Kyodo News ■

Four killed, five injured in bus-car collision in southern India

NEW DELHI — At least four people were killed and five others injured in a road accident in the southern Indian state of Karnataka, police said Sunday. “The accident occurred when a state-run bus collided with a car near the state’s Haliyal town after its driver lost control of the speeding vehicle,” a police official said.

While four people died on the spot, those injured have been admitted to a local hospital, he said, adding that the victims included occupants of both the vehicles.

A probe has been ordered into the incident, the official said. “The bus driver has been booked for rash and negligent driving and efforts are on to arrest him,” he added. India has the highest number of road fatalities in the world. Road accidents occur mostly due to poor driving or badly maintained roads and vehicles. —Xinhua ■

Two Koreas discuss setting up hotline between Moon, Kim

SEOUL — The two Koreas discussed setting up a telephone hotline between South Korean President Moon Jae In and North Korean leader Kim Jong Un during working-level talks Saturday, ahead of their first summit in nearly a decade.

The meeting of working-level officials of Seoul and Pyongyang was held at the North Korean side of the border village of Panmunjeom, according to South Korean officials.

The two sides agreed to establish the hotline at a meeting in early March between Kim and special envoys of Moon in Pyongyang, with the first call to be held before the planned summit later this month.

Kim was quoted by a South Korean government source as telling Moon’s envoys, “If working-level talks (between the two Koreas) become deadlocked, the president and I can resolve it through telephone conversation.”

Leaders of the two Koreas have held formal talks only twice, in 2000 and 2007, since the 1950-1953 Korean War, which ended in a cease-fire rather than a peace treaty.

On Thursday, South and North Korean working-level officials discussed protocol, security and media coverage for the Moon-Kim summit scheduled to be held at the South Korean side of Panmunjeom on 27 April.

Seoul and Pyongyang will hold another round of talks next week to finalize the hotline issue and decide the date of a telephone conversation between Moon and Kim, according to South Korea’s Yonhap News Agency.—Kyodo News ■

Canada mourns 15 killed in hockey bus crash

NIPAWIN — A shocked Canada was in mourning Saturday after a bus carrying a junior ice hockey team collided with a semi-trailer truck in Saskatchewan province, killing 15 people.

In a country where love of the sport is almost a religion, the crash sparked an outpouring of grief among players and fans, while national political leaders and the head of the National Hockey League expressed their sympathies.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP), which said determining the cause of the accident would require some time, did not say how many of the victims were players or coaches of the Humboldt Broncos team, which hails from a town of 6,000 people.

Police said that there had been 29 people on board the team bus, including the driver, and 14 were injured, including some in critical condition.

“An entire country is in shock and mourning today,” Prime Minister Justin Trudeau said.

“We are heartbroken knowing many of those we lost had their entire lives in front of them... This is every parent’s worst nightmare. No one should ever have to see their child leave to play the sport they love and never come back.”

Tom Straschnitzki told CBC News that his son Ryan was among the injured. “He remembers he was in the middle of the bus and then he remembers waking up when the paramedics took him off the bus,” said Straschnitzki, whose son suffered a severe back injury.

The team comprises 24 players, all from Canada, with the youngest aged 16 and the oldest 21.

The crash happened around 5:00 pm (2300 GMT) Friday on Highway 335 about 28 kilometers (17 miles) north of the town of Tisdale, a trading center in an overwhelmingly agricultural region of the western province.—AFP ■

Ex-Saint Laurent designer wins huge payout in contract dispute

PARIS — Star designer Hedi Slimane has won an 9.3 million euro ($11.5 million) settlement from the luxury group Kering in a court judgement which lifts the lid on how much fashion's big names are paid.

Court documents seen by AFP Friday show that the "Sultan of skinny", famed for his skinny jeans look, was only paid 667,000 euros of the 10 million he had been promised for his last year in charge of French label Saint Laurent.

A spokesperson for Kering told AFP the group was appealing the decision.

Slimane, 49, one of fashion's hottest and most enigmatic talents, went through a messy divorce with Kering, the brand's owners, in 2016.

He has since moved to the rival luxury conglomerate, LVMH, to take the reins at Celine, where he will also create a men's line in a massive overhaul of the brand.

The latest payout comes two years after a Paris court ordered Kering to pay Slimane $13 million concerning a non-competition clause in his contract. The group also appealed that ruling. Slimane's skinny and rock star chic looks made millions for both Dior and Saint Laurent, and were much copied by mass-market brands.

Chanel boss Karl Lagerfeld once famously shed 41 kilos (90 pounds) in order to squeeze into Slimane's skinny jeans.

Like Lagerfeld, Slimane is a renowned photographer, and he has spent the last seven years living in Los Angeles, where he had moved his studio at the end of his reign at Saint Laurent.

The designer drew much of his inspiration from the LA rock scene, which he tirelessly documented with his photographs and in his blog.

A mysterious and intensely private figure, he nonetheless has struck up close friendships with many A-listers including pop star Lady Gaga.

The Libertines' bohemian frontman Peter Doherty also became a friend and muse, and figured prominently in his 2006 photo book, "London Birth of a Cult".

Born into an immigrant family in Paris, Slimane's father was a Tunisian boxer who became an accountant and his mother an Italian dressmaker.—AFP ■

CCTVs installed across Mandalay City prior to Thingyan

AS part of the efforts to reduce crime in the region, the Mandalay City Development Committee (MCDC) has extended the installation of closed-circuit television cameras (CCTVs) at target points since the beginning of April.

The CCTVs have been installed at target points along 26th Street, 66th Street, 80th Street and 12th Street in Aungmyethazan Township. The MCDC will prioritise the installation of CCTVs at strategic spots, such as main roads, banks, railway stations, markets and schools.

Depending on the committee's budget, a plan is underway to fix CCTVs in wards, lanes and byways within the municipal areas, a spokesperson of the MCDC said. The key objective of expanding the installation of CCTVs is to reduce crimes and increase public safety, said a member of MCDC.

Snatch-and-run cases are frequently reported to the city police. With the help of footage from cameras, police have been able to investigate cases of traffic accidents better, said a police official.— Maung Pyi Thu (Mandalay) ■

City celebrations would have been 'like a death' – Pogba

MANCHESTER CITY — Manchester United midfielder Paul Pogba revealed his relief as preventing local rivals Manchester City from sealing the Premier League title on Saturday, claiming watching City celebrate would have been "like a death" for United fans.

Pogba shrugged off a turbulent season and speculation over his future by scoring twice in as many minutes just after half-time to spearhead a stunning United comeback that was completed by Chris Smalling 21 minutes from time. Victory for City would have seen Pep Guardiola's men crowned as champions and take a United record in the process by winning the title with six games to spare. "If they won they are champions, for all the fans it would be like death," said the Frenchman. "To lose against City and to see them celebrate, I couldn't let that happen. At half-time in the dressing room we said we have nothing to lose."

Barring an incredible collapse, City will still win the league in the coming weeks as the hold a 13-point lead over second-placed United.

However, Pogba issued a rallying cry for United to win back the battle for supremacy in Manchester next season.

"After a second half like this, we have to do that all the time. If we did we would be up there with City, and maybe even in front."

Guardiola added more spice to an already hotly-anticipated clash when he claimed on Friday he had been offered the chance to buy Pogba two months ago by the player's agent Mino Raiola.

Pogba has often been dropped by United manager Jose Mourinho for the biggest games this season, despite costing the club a then world record £89 million when he returned to United from Juventus in 2016.

However, restored in his favourite position on the left of a midfield three, Pogba showed why he was once one of the most in-demand players in the world.

"With City they love to attack, they don't like to defend, so I had to get more in the box. I knew I had Nemanja Matic behind me and Ander Herrera with me." Mourinho has been stinging in his criticism of Pogba at times during the campaign, but hailed his contribution to a famous victory. "Two goals from a midfield player in a big match like this one stays in the memory of the people, especially for the fans," said Mourinho.—AFP ■

Messi hat-trick helps Barcelona equal record unbeaten streak

MADRID — Barcelona equalled the record longest unbeaten run in La Liga history as a Lionel Messi hat-trick inspired the runaway leaders to a 3-1 win over Leganes on Saturday to make it 38 league games unbeaten.

The Catalan giants will look to break the record that Real Sociedad set in 1979-80 when they host Valencia next weekend, with Ernesto Valverde's side now just seven matches from becoming the first La Liga side to go through a campaign without tasting defeat.

Messi was the star of the show at the Camp Nou with a magnificent treble, as Barca stretched their lead at the top to 12 points ahead of second-placed Atletico Madrid's derby against Real Madrid on Sunday.

"This unbeaten record has not only been achieved this season, but also last year under (former coach) Luis Enrique," said Barca coach Valverde.

"It's a shared record, because it crossed over between seasons. It has been quite difficult, because of the fact it's an old record that hasn't been broken for a long time."

Valverde named a strong side despite having a Champions League quarter-final, second leg on Tuesday at Roma, with Messi, Luis Suarez and Philippe Coutinho all starting.

Suarez passed up two good early chances to put Barca ahead, prodding wide and then seeing visiting goalkeeper Ivan Cuellar deny him with an excellent save.

But the hosts moved in front in the 27th minute through a trademark Messi free-kick.

The Argentinian stepped up and curled the ball over the ball and into the bottom corner from 25 yards out to score his 27th league goal of the season.

It didn't take the 30-year-old long to double his tally for the day, latching onto Coutinho's through ball and firing low into the corner.

Barcelona eased off in the second half, perhaps with the midweek clash at the Stadio Olimpico on their minds, and Leganes hit back midway through the second half.

Former Liverpool winger Nabil El Zhar cut inside and fired into the bottom corner from the edge of the box despite slipping as he shot.

But the home side finished off the match as a contest late on with Messi completing his third hat-trick of the season in style.

The five-time Ballon d'Or winner chested down Ousmane Dembele's pass and dinked the ball over Cuellar with consummate ease.

"To score goals is always good. We think that Messi has to stay active and he avoids any muscular problems," added Valverde. "He's doing well and we saw that tonight. Looking forward to the next matches, the way he played is good news for us." Barca will now turn their attentions to avoiding a disaster in Italy as they defend a 4-1 first-leg lead, still bidding to complete the treble with a Copa del Rey final against Sevilla to come in a fortnight's time.—AFP ■
