Construction of more irrigation facilities for exceeding target of paddy output

Wagadok Supporting Dam near Taunghsat-in Village in Bago Township, Bago Division, was inaugurated the other day.

It is the 44th of the irrigation facilities that have been built in Bago Division. It can irrigate some 1200 acres of farmlands in the villages in Thanatpin and Thongwa regions. In addition, it is also designed to feed water to Moeyungyi Lake, so it will share irrigation of water with Moeyungyi Lake in cultivating summer paddy in more than 43,000 acres.

Moreover, it will contribute towards supply of more irrigation water in the regions along the Bago-Sittoung Canal and the greening of the areas of 30-mile radius of Yangon round the year.

Now, the government is pursuing the goal of exceeding the local demands of rice and edible oil. In order to achieve the goal, it is taking measures such as reclamation of vacant lands, supply of irrigation water, and boosting per acre yields of the crops.

In particular, the government is constructing dams, sluice gates, and diversion weirs wherever necessary with the aim of supplying adequate irrigation water for the agricultural purpose. So far, it has constructed 207 dams including Wagadok facility throughout the nation. As a result, the sown acreage of monsoon and summer paddy, multiple crops and mixed crops is on the increase.

The government is making huge investments in irrigation projects all over the country. Farmers on their part have to work harder to exceed the targeted outputs of monsoon and summer paddy and other crops.

Ex-spy chief says US used waterboarding

WASHINGTON, 29 Jan — The United States used waterboarding in terrorism interrogations but no longer does, a former US spy chief said in the Bush Administration’s most explicit confirmation of the technique’s use.

US officials have been reluctant to acknowledge the CIA’s use of the simulated drowning technique, which human rights groups call an illegal form of torture.

The remarks by former Director of National Intelligence John Negroponte in an interview with National Journal magazine come as senators are expected on Wednesday to grill Attorney General Michael Mukasey on a promised review of the legality of interrogation methods. Asked by the magazine if debate over US counterterrorism techniques was hampering its effort in a “war of ideas”, Negroponte said, “We’ve taken steps to address the issue of interrogations, for instance, and waterboarding has not been used in years.”

Negroponte served as the first director of national intelligence, a position created by President George W Bush in the wake of the 11 September attacks, from 2005 to 2007. He is now deputy secretary of state.

China pays atomic blast participants

BEIJING, 28 Jan — China has started paying “subsidies” to participants in its past nuclear test explosions as part of a general rise in welfare for former military staff, state media reported.

China exploded its first nuclear test device in 1964 and continued test blasts until 1996, when the government announced a moratorium on the programme based in the far western region of Xinjiang.

But only now has China said that people close to the radioactive explosions have begun receiving subsidies.

The Minister for Civil Affairs, Li Xueju, said “participants of nuclear tests”, military and civilian, had begun receiving the payments from 2007, the official Xinhua news agency reported late on Saturday.

The ministry handles some of China’s welfare policies for former soldiers.

China shrouds its atomic weapons programme in secrecy, and it is unclear what prompted the announcement or whether the payments cover medical costs for civilian residents and military personnel possibly affected by the blasts.

Sea freight charges in Bangladesh set to go up

DHAKA, 28 Jan—The feeder operators in Bangladesh are planning to raise sea freight charges by around 40 percent from 16 February this year, a move that will increase the costs of imports and hamper exports, sources said on Saturday.

The freight charges for each 20-foot (6.1-metre) container will be raised by 100 US dollars and the 40-foot container by 200 US dollars, leading English newspaper The Financial Express reported Saturday.

Currently, the freight charges between the country's southern port Chittagong and Singapore ranges between 260 and 280 US dollars for each 20-foot container.

"We have decided to raise the freight by 100 US dollars for each 20-foot container mainly because of high prices of bunker and increase in the operating cost," said one official working for a leading feeder operator.

Shipping sources said each feeder vessel requires at least 180 tons of fuel oil worth 75,000 US dollars and 35 tons of diesel worth 28,000 US dollars for a voyage between Chittagong and Singapore.

Sources in the shipping circle said that once the feeder operators increase their freight charges, the main line operators (MLOs) transporting goods to the continents, too would follow suit.

Currently, the freight charge for shipping goods from Bangladesh to European ports is about 1800 US dollars and American ports 2,000 US dollars for each 20-foot container.

S Korea, EU try to revive momentum for trade deal

SEOUL, 28 Jan—South Korean and EU trade envoys began fresh trade talks on Monday with plans to steer clear of sensitive topics such as cars in order to move discussions forward.

South Korea's chief negotiator said he hopes to strike a deal by May with the country's second largest trade partner after China. A South Korea-EU pact could increase their annual 80 billion US dollars in trade by about 25 per cent, studies have said.

"There is an understanding that separate negotiations will not take place this time on automobiles because additional time is needed to work on the differences in views," the South Korean Trade Ministry said in a statement.

The two sides launched talks in May 2007, shortly after South Korea struck a free trade agreement with the United States, but they failed to meet an end of year deadline to finalise an agreement.

This round of talks is slated to end on Friday.

Egypt agrees Abbas plan for Gaza border

RAMALLAH (West Bank), 28 Jan — Egypt has agreed to Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas' plan to assume control of Gaza's sole crossing with Egypt, excluding Hamas Islamists who rule the territory, Palestinian officials said on Sunday.

Abbas has been seeking Egyptian and Israeli support for taking over Gaza's border crossings, including the one at Rafah with Egypt that Hamas blasted open on Wednesday.

Hundreds of thousands of Gazans have since poured across the border into Egypt to stock up on goods in short supply because of an Israeli-led blockade of the Hamas-controlled territory.

On the sidelines of talks with Egyptian officials in Cairo, Palestinian Foreign Minister Riyad al-Malki told Reuters that Egypt agreed to returning to a 2005 border agreement which gave Abbas control over the Rafah crossing.

British Tesco bomb hoaxer jailed for blackmail

LONDON, 29 Jan— A man who admitted making bomb threats against Tesco, sparking panic and closing a dozen stores across the country, was jailed on Monday.

Unemployed Philip McHugh, 52, had admitted three counts of blackmail and two of making bomb threats towards Tesco, at an earlier hearing at St Albans Crown Court.

The former tax inspector, from Clitheroe, Lancashire, was jailed for six years, officials said, after he had sent 75 hoax letters to Britain’s biggest retailer.

Tesco closed supermarkets in London, Wales, Scotland, northern and central England on 14 July last year after it received threatening letters demanding huge sums of money. All reopened the following day and McHugh was arrested on 23 July.

The court heard his letters threatened to contaminate products. Tesco, where about one third of Britons buy their groceries, said at the time that despite financial demands being made, the company had not paid out any money.

raw recruits for seven times.

Moreover, courses and workshops on prevention against recruiting minors to the armed forces were opened at Kyaikwaing Youth Training School five times from 19 November to 20 December 2007 under the arrangement of the committee, Social Welfare Department and UNICEF.

The workshops were attended by 191 participants—78 from defence services training schools and recruiting units, 49 from Social Welfare Department, 62 from Myanmar Police Force and 2 from the Ministry of Education. Arrangements are being made for conducting multiplier courses in the units. He said the committee cooperated with UN agencies. As a result, there are only very few cases of recruiting minors. Due to the supervision of the committee, new members of the military force were systematically recruited in accord with the laws, rules, orders and directives issued. The achievements of the committee improved year after year, he said.

Under the written request of organizations such as ILO, ICRC etc and guardians, those who joined the armed forces but did not meet the minimum age were scrutinized and were sent to their respective parents. Those who did not meet the qualification and were unfit to join the armed forces were sent back to their respective parents. They were handed over to the guardians in the presence of the officials of Social Welfare Department and township authorities in accord with the records. From 2002 to 2007, altogether 792 persons who were minors, persons who did not meet the qualifications and unfit persons were sent back to their respective parents; it is known to all committee members that investigation is conducted systematically and action is taken whenever there is a forced recruitment of minors for armed forces, violating the directives; and that from 2002 to 2007, action was taken against 43 other ranks and officers in that regard.

He said that the performances of the committee are regularly reported to UN agencies in Myanmar through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs that takes the responsibility as the focal point in this regard as well as to the organizations concerned through the Myanmar resident representative to the UN in New York; and that the Tatmadaw is carrying out the procedures in accordance with law, rules and regulations, however expatriate national traitors with negative views in collusion with some foreign media are making groundless accusations that there are child soldiers in Myanmar Tatmadaw with the intention of attacking the nation.

In conclusion, he instructed the officials concerned to continue to take measures in line with the law, not to accept the minors who try to enlist themselves in the armed forces and to enforce the subordinate organizations to abide by the law, rules and regulations promulgated in the interests of children. He called for discussions about the performances of the committee members and follow-up plans.

The attendees reported on steps being taken in accordance with the law and rules and regulations for prevention of recruiting child soldiers and protection of the interests of children. The joint-secretary of the committee gave an account of the work done by the committee.

The committee chairman assessed the reports and gave concluding remarks.

B’desh cyclone survivors struggle with cold, rain

DHAKA, 29 Jan — Tens of thousands of people living in tents since a cyclone devastated the southern Bangladesh coast in November are

Singapore to double its rail lines by 2020

SINGAPORE, 28 Jan — Singapore will spend some 20 billion Singapore dollars (about 14 billion US dollars) to build new rail lines, doubling the city-state's rail network to 278 kilometres by 2020, the government said Friday.

Transport Minister Raymond Lim announced that two new rail lines will be built. One is the Thomson Line which will travel northwards from the Central Business District to the northern Woodlands, the other is the Eastern Region Line which will head to Changi in the east.

The two lines will be finished in 2018 and 2020 and will together add 48 kilometres to the current rail network.

The government has already committed 20 billion Singapore dollars last year for the on-going Boon Lay Extension, the Circle Line and the Downtown Line.

The completion of the 40-kilometres Downtown Line will be brought forward from 2018 to 2016 while the 33-kilometres Circle Line will open one year earlier in mid-2009, said the minister.

Meanwhile, two of the three existing rail lines will be extended.

The North-South line will be extended one-kilometres southwards to serve upcoming developments in the southern Marina Bay area, while the East-West Lines will be extended by another 14 kilometres into Tuas, across from Malaysia.

The extension of the two lines will be completed around 2015.

Afghans search for kidnapped US aid worker

KANDAHAR, 28 Jan — Afghan forces searched on Sunday for a US aid worker kidnapped by gunmen from the southern city of Kandahar.

Bird flu affects over 326,000 chickens in B'desh

DHAKA, 28 Jan — Bird flu has so far affected more than 326,000 chickens in 29 out of Bangladesh's 64 districts since the first detection of the virus in the country last year, a government official said on Sunday.

All the affected chickens from 93 poultry farms were culled by the country's Livestock Department, Manik Lal Samaddar, Special Assistant to the Chief Adviser of the caretaker government, who is in charge of the Ministry of Fisheries and Livestock, told local reporters.

He said, chickens in 48 sub-district of 29 districts have been affected since the avian influenza virus was first detected in a poultry farm near capital Dhaka in March last year.

As the bird flu broke out in neighbouring India, the Bangladeshi Government has taken steps to combat the spread of avian influenza in the country, he said, adding that the government has already alerted Bangladesh border guards, paramilitary force that all the poultry equipment and eggs could not be allowed to enter the country from India.

He said that the Livestock Ministry is coordinating with Health Ministry to check spreading of the avian influenza to human body.

"If people are affected with avian influenza, it would create hindrance to manpower export," he said.

Traffic accident kills 25 in China

GUIYANG, 29 Jan — At least 25 people were killed after their bus veered off a slippery mountainous road in the southwestern province of Guizhou on Tuesday morning, according to the local production safety watchdog.

A 35-seat passenger bus, carrying 38 people, veered off a highway in the mountainous area of Zunyi City and plunged into a 40-metre-deep valley at about 7:40am, officials with the provincial work safety supervision administration said.

Two passengers suffering serious injuries were in a critical condition, and another 11 had slight injuries, doctors said.

Initial investigation blamed the tragedy on the unusual snowy weather in the region over the past days. The road was covered with a thick layer of ice and the temperature was about minus two degrees Celsius, a sharp contrast to the usual warm winter climate.

Health Minister Khaw Boon Wan announced the policy change on Tuesday after he donated blood at the Bloodbank HSA. The Health Ministry says it has decided on the change because such scans are now part of the standard of care, in the outpatient setting, for many cancer conditions. For example, a diagnostic scan is needed to monitor the patient's treatment progress, or during a post-treatment follow-up check. With the new move, cancer patients can withdraw up to $600 from their Medisave account each year to help pay for the scans. — Internet

Manucho leads Angola's Nations Cup charge

TAMALE (Ghana), 29 Jan — Samuel Eto'o and Didier Drogba have found themselves upstaged at the African Nations Cup by previously little-known Angola striker Manucho. The lanky 24-year-old, who is due to join Manchester United after the tournament, has scored three goals in two games to put his team on the brink of a place in the quarter-finals. Having opened his account in a 1-1 draw with South Africa last Wednesday, Manucho added two more in a shock 3-1 win over much-fancied Senegal on Sunday that left Angola within one point of a first quarter-final appearance. "We made some mistakes in the first half but in the second half we were the better team," he told reporters. "My first priority is to help the team qualify for the quarter-finals but I would also like to be considered as one of the best players of the tournament." Manucho's menacing presence in the air has given added bite to an Angola team who have emerged from the shadows of African football in the last few years, notably reaching the 2006 World Cup in Germany. The striker was virtually unknown outside Angola, where he played for Luanda-based Petro Atletico and was the league's top scorer twice in a row, until he impressed United in a three-week trial. He is due to join the English champions once he has secured a work permit. —MNA/Reuters

Scott storms to win in Qatar Masters

DOHA, 29 Jan — Australia's Adam Scott produced a record final round of 11-under-par 61 to win the Qatar Masters by three strokes on Sunday. The 27-year-old Scott started the day tied for fifth place but came out firing to stun his rivals with a total of 20-under 268 and finish ahead of Sweden's Henrik Stenson. "This is my lowest ever score but the thought of a course record was never on my mind," said Scott, who became the first player to take the title for a second time after winning in 2002. He was in terrific form from the start, sinking birdies on all the first five holes. He added another birdie on the seventh for a front-nine 30. His return journey was also impressive, with birdies on the 10th, 11th and 12th. After missing a birdie putt on the 14th he made amends with another two birdies on the 15th and 17th. —MNA/Reuters

Guinea through despite 1-1 draw with Namibia

SEKONDI, 29 Jan — Guinea qualified for the African Nations Cup quarter-finals despite being held to a 1-1 draw by Namibia on Monday. The West Africans finished second in Group A, five points behind hosts Ghana, who went through with a 2-0 defeat of Morocco in Accra. Guinea will play their quarterfinal in Sekondi on Sunday against the winners of Group B, probably Ivory Coast who have already secured their place in the last eight before their final group match against Mali in Accra on Tuesday. Robert Nouzaret's side opened the scoring through Souleymane Youla on 62 minutes only for Namibia to equalize nine minutes from time courtesy of Brian Brendell's second goal of the tournament. —MNA/Reuters

Kasperczak quits as Senegal coach

TAMALE, 29 Jan — Senegal coach Henryk Kasperczak quit on Monday a day after his team's 3-1 defeat to Angola in the African Nations Cup. "I have offered my resignation and it has been accepted by the federation," the former Poland World Cup defender told reporters after becoming the first coaching victim of the tournament. "I have told the players of my decision". The 61-year-old was coaching at the Nations Cup for the fifth time, having previously led Ivory Coast, Tunisia, Morocco and Mali. Sunday's shock loss left Senegal, who were among the pre-tournament favourites for the title, with one point from two games in Group D and facing an early exit. They must beat South Africa in their final game on Thursday to have any chance of reaching the last eight but will still be knocked out if Angola and Tunisia, who have four points apiece, draw in the other match. Assistant coach Lamine Ndaye will take charge against South Africa. Kasperczak said he had initially stepped down after Sunday's game, had then been asked to rethink but stood by his decision. —MNA/Reuters

Juve sign Stendardo on loan, Mellberg for July

MILAN, 29 Jan — Juventus have signed Lazio defender Guglielmo Stendardo on loan for the rest of the season while Aston Villa's Olof Mellberg will join in July, the Serie A club said on Monday. Claudio Ranieri's side are also expected to seal Mohamed Sissoko's transfer from Liverpool later before the Mali midfielder heads back to the African Nations Cup in Ghana. Third-placed Juve have a defensive injury crisis and have brought in Italian Stendardo after a move to recruit Sweden's Mellberg in January stalled. Villa blocked an early deal but his contract runs out in June and the 30-year-old will be a Juve player for next season having penned a three-year deal, a Juventus statement said.

"I am very happy with this agreement. Italy will be an important experience, at a prestigious club and in one of the most important championships in the world," Mellberg said. "Now I must finish the season in an Aston Villa shirt but I really can not wait to come to Juventus." —MNA/Reuters

Mali refuse to allow Kanoute to attend ceremony

ACCRA, 29 Jan — Mali will refuse to allow striker Frederic Kanoute to attend the African Footballer of the Year award function on Friday if they qualify for the African Nations Cup quarter-finals. Mali need a point from their last Group B match against Ivory Coast in Accra on Tuesday to reach the last eight. Coach Jean Francois Jodar said on Monday he would not let Kanoute go to the event, which is being held in Lome, Togo, 48 hours before the quarter-finals begin on Sunday. Kanoute is one of three candidates shortlisted for the award, along with Ghana's Michael Essien and Ivory Coast captain Didier Drogba, who won it last year. —MNA/Reuters

Hicks says no plans to sell Liverpool

LONDON, 29 Jan — Liverpool joint-owner Tom Hicks put his full support behind manager Rafael Benitez on Sunday, saying he expected the Spaniard to remain in charge for the remaining two years of his contract and maybe beyond. Hicks and fellow American George Gillett had a falling out with Benitez last year after the manager criticized them over their financing of transfers but both sides have since said they are now on good terms. "We have a great manager who has our support," Hicks told BBC Radio 5-Live on Sunday. "We had a lot of consternation about Rafa. After our meeting of 16 December, where he really showed his real strong intent to do the right thing with us and by the club, he's been a gentleman ever since." —MNA/Reuters

Official says six deaths at all Beijing venues

BEIJING, 29 Jan — Six workers died during the construction of the venues for this year's Olympic Games, including two in building the showpiece Bird's Nest Stadium, a Beijing official said on Monday. A British newspaper article last week accused China of covering up the accidental deaths of at least 10 workers during the construction of the National Stadium. "There were two deaths in the Bird's Nest, one in 2006 and one in 2007," Ding Zhenkuan, deputy chief of the Beijing Bureau of Work Safety, told a news conference.

"We have properly compensated the families, reported the accidents to the construction community and seriously punished those responsible." Ding later confirmed the death of a further four workers during other construction for the Games, a Beijing Organizing Committee for the Olympic Games (BOCOG) official said. There was also one serious injury and three lighter injuries over the five years of construction, Ding said. Ground was broken on the 91,000-seat stadium in 2003 and it was the only one of the 36 Olympic venues in China not completed by the end of last year. —MNA/Reuters

Insurgents kill five US soldiers in Iraq's Mosul

BAGHDAD, 29 Jan— Five US soldiers were killed when their patrol was hit by a roadside bomb and then came under small arms fire in the northern Iraqi city of Mosul on Monday, the US military said.

The military said US and Iraqi forces had secured the area following the incident, which was one of the deadliest attacks against US troops in months. There were no further details.

Iraqi Army and police also reported that clashes had broken out in the Haysuma neighbourhood, a known al-Qaeda stronghold in eastern Mosul, Iraq's third-largest city 390 kilometres (240 miles) north of Baghdad.

The Mosul attack against the US patrol takes to 36 the number of soldiers killed in Iraq this month, up from 23 in December but similar to levels in October and November.

Mosul has been in the spotlight after Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki said on Friday that Iraqi forces were preparing for a "decisive" offensive against al-Qaeda in Iraq to push the Sunni Islamist militants out of their last major urban stronghold.

Iraqi tanks and helicopters began arriving in Mosul with troop reinforcements on Sunday.

US military officials on Sunday said their own operations around Mosul were continuing.

US military commanders say al-Qaeda, blamed for most serious bombings in Iraq, has regrouped in northern provinces after being squeezed out of the western province of Anbar and from around Baghdad during security crackdowns last year. — MNA/Reuters

Russian rocket lifts off with telecom satellite atop

MOSCOW, 29 Jan— Russia launched a carrier rocket early Monday, with a telecommunication satellite atop, local media reported.

The rocket, carrying the Express-AM33 satellite, blasted off from the Baikonur space centre in central Asia at 3:18am Moscow Time (2318 GMT, Sunday), control centre officials said.

The satellite, with a lifespan of 12 years, was designated to replace the Express-AM11 that was shut off in 2006 due to an accident.

Four Proton-M rockets were launched from Baikonur in 2007, but one of them failed.

The flames, which had broke out at about 2:00 am local time (2300 GMT, Sunday), engulfed most of the four-storey building, the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

Fire engines rushed to the scene to douse the fire which was under control by the morning, the source said. Iraqi security forces cordoned off the area while experts are investigating the incident, he said. — MNA/Xinhua Economic Department, the director-general of Social Welfare, Relief and Resettlement Department, heads of departments.

The committee chairman said the Committee for Prevention against Recruiting Minors into Army was formed on 5 January 2004 by the State Peace and Development Council. On 14 December 2007, the committee was reconstituted in accord with the latest developments. The coordination meetings were held for six times in four years and future plans were laid down and implemented. He said the committee supervised its functions in accord with the three objectives—preventing the use of force in recruiting minors to the Armed Forces, protecting the interests of children and ensuring enforcement of the orders and directives issued on protecting the children. In the country there are laws, rules, orders and directives in connection with the protecting the freedom of children. There are also laws and orders preventing recruitment of minors into the Armed Forces.

Pamphlets and wall posters on recruitment of soldiers are distributed to rural areas and billboards are erected for public knowledge, he added.

He said the committee allowed ambassadors and military attaches working in Myanmar including personnel of UN agencies such as UNICEF and UNDP to visit recruiting units and basic military training depots in Yangon and Mandalay. Arrangements were made for interview with
