

Remain vigilant against destructive elements and ward off the dangers posed by them

Therefore, they are using various ways and means to constantly hinder and sabotage our development tasks. This being so, the entire national people must always remain vigilant against these elements and ward off the dangers posed by them.

Good foundations for equitable development of all regions

The government is now building infrastructures in various sectors such as the economic, education, health, social and transport sectors for improving the socio-economic life of the people.

As a result of upgrading Tamu-Kalay-Kalewa road, people can make a round trip between Tamu and Kalay in a day. With smooth transport, regional stability and peace, and prevalence of law and order, the development of Tamu is now on a par with that of other border towns.

Tamu, being close to the large market of the neighbouring country, hard work is to be done with nationalistic fervour and patriotic spirit for trade development. Better ways and means are to be sought for development of border trade as Tamu is a border town.

Merchants on their part are to work hard with cooperation of respective chambers of commerce for expediting tasks for trade development. Moreover, they have to take collaborative measures for flourishing of legal trade, and service personnel concerned, to be loyal to the State.

Due to the endeavours the government has exerted with genuine goodwill, border areas have become peaceful and tranquil and the implementation of regional development tasks are in full swing. Now, people of national races have enjoyed the fruits of development.

The government is laying down and implementing programmes for equitable development of all regions of the nation. So, it is incumbent upon the people to make sustained efforts for development in various sectors, utilizing the good foundations effectively.

Putin visions new development plans for Russia

Russia's President Vladimir Putin

MOSCOW, 8 Feb — Russian President Vladimir Putin outlined a series of new development strategies for the country at a State Council session here on Friday. The president, who will step down after eight years in office following the March 2 presidential elections, said that Russia has so far failed to get rid of an 'inert' dependence on natural resources, the RIA news agency reported.

Innovative development is the only alternative to dependence on natural resources, said Putin, who chaired a meeting of the consultative State Council in the Kremlin to outline the concept of strategic long-term development of the country up to the year 2020.

"The strategy of innovative development relies on human potential and the effective use of knowledge and individual skills," Putin said.

"The paces of innovational development must be cardinally higher than those we have today," Putin added. He urged the use of the experience and resources accumulated over the past eight years to launch Russia into a brand new stage of development and set the goal of forming a society of equal opportunities free of poverty and providing security guarantees to every citizen in Russia.

"We should strive to form such a society, and I am certain that we will succeed," Putin said. —Internet

PNA uses Gaza crisis for political aims

GAZA, 9 Feb — A spokesman for the Islamic Resistance Movement (Hamas) said on Thursday that Palestinian National Authority (PNA) is using humanitarian crisis in Gaza as a tool to defeat Hamas movement.

"The crisis in Gaza was a humanitarian one resulted from the siege...it is unacceptable that the crisis be exploited in a way that builds pressure on Hamas movement," said Sami Abu Zuhri.

Abu Zuhri made the remarks in response to Palestinian negotiator Saeb Erekat who on Wednesday said that reopening a key crossing between Gaza and Egypt requires that Hamas ends "its coup in Gaza" in addition to abiding by an international deal to run the passage.

"This proves that we are facing a political extortion that targets the suffering and the pains of the people," Abu Zuhri added.

Sudan planes, militia attack Darfur towns

KHARTOUM, 9 Feb — Sudanese Government aircraft, Army and militia attacked two towns in West Darfur state on Friday, causing heavy civilian casualties, Darfur rebels and witnesses said.

"The government attacked the town of Abu Surouj this morning a direct attack with cars and horses and bombardment," Darfur rebel Justice and Equality Movement (JEM) commander Abdel Aziz el-Nur Ashr told Reuters from Darfur.

"Also, as I am speaking to you, they are attacking Sirba Town," he added. He said initial estimates put the death toll at around 200 but it was hard to tell as the attackers were still in the towns.

A West Darfur government official confirmed the attacks but could not give details. Residents of el-Geneina, the state capital, told Reuters they could hear Antonov planes flying nearby and has seen helicopters.

Darfur rebels say they control the area north of el-Geneina, where they have often fought Army troops, and which aid workers have been forbidden from entering.

Civilian killed in mix-up between US, Iraqi forces

BAGHDAD, 9 Feb — A civilian was killed in a US airstrike on Baghdad on Thursday after Iraqi neighbourhood police mistakenly opened fire on a US boat patrol, the US military said.

The incident, the latest in which innocent Iraqis have been killed, occurred after neighbourhood police, called "concerned local citizens" (CLC) by the US military, shot at a US forces on patrol on the Tigris River south of the capital.

The US soldiers returned fire in self-defence and called up support from the air. A building next to the CLC checkpoint was hit, killing the civilian.

Suicide car bomber kills three in Afghanistan

GHAZI (Afghanistan), 9 Feb — A suicide car bomber targeting an Army convoy killed three people on Friday in Afghanistan, witnesses said.

The Afghan Army convoy was passing along a road in Ghazni Town which lies southwest of capital Kabul, they said.

Two civilians and one soldier were killed in the attack, which also wounded five more soldiers, they added.

There was no immediate claim of responsibility for the blast, but Taliban insurgents have been behind many such attacks in recent years. Ousted from power in 2001, the militants largely rely on suicide bombings against the Afghan Government and foreign troops as part of their insurgency.

China’s natural gas output accelerates, grows 23.1% in ’07

BEIJING, 8 Feb — China’s production of natural gas rose 23.1 per cent last year, faster than in 2006, to 69.31 billion cubic metres as the country used more “clean” energy, an industry association said.

In 2006, output jumped 19.2 per cent to 58.55 billion cubic meters, the China Petroleum and Chemical Industry Association (CPCIA) said. It also said that output would likely hit 76 billion cubic metres this year.

China used 55.6 billion cubic metres of gas in 2006, an increase of 21.6 per cent from a year earlier, according to statistics from BP.

China has set a target of raising the proportion of natural gas in its total energy consumption to 5.3 per cent in 2010 from 2.8 per cent in 2005, amid efforts to curb pollution. Coal now accounts for about 70 per cent of total energy consumption.

The expansion of the natural gas infrastructure, including pipelines, reflected the rapid increases in output and consumption, the CPCIA said.

China plans to start building a second east-west gas pipeline this year. The first such pipeline went into commercial operation in 2004.

Report says force of blast killed Bhutto, not bullet

WASHINGTON, 8 Feb — Pakistani opposition leader Benazir Bhutto was killed by the force of a suicide bomb and not by an assassin's bullet, The New York Times reported in its Friday editions, quoting officials briefed by Scotland Yard investigators.

Bhutto died on 27 December while campaigning in Rawalpindi. Controversy rages in Pakistan over whether the popular politician was struck down by a bullet or by a concussive injury caused by the bomb detonated after an assassin shot at her from close range.

President Pervez Musharraf asked Britain's Scotland Yard to help in the investigation. A poll conducted by Gallup Pakistan found almost half of all Pakistanis believed government agencies or politicians allied to Musharraf were involved in the assassination.

The report, which will be presented to the Pakistani Government and Bhutto's family on Friday, said Bhutto died after the suicide blast detonated and she hit her head, The Times said.

Texas woman sues US over border fence dispute

WASHINGTON, 8 Feb — A Texas woman whose property has been in her family for more than 250 years has filed a class-action suit to keep the US Government from surveying her land for a border fence, in the latest skirmish over federal efforts to fight illegal immigration.

Lawyers for Eloisa Tamez, a descendant of Basque settlers and Native Americans, filed the suit against US Homeland Security Secretary Michael Chertoff on Wednesday in US District Court in Brownsville, Texas.

On Thursday, Tamez attended a court hearing on a government request for immediate rights to survey the property of Tamez and about nine other landowners, as part of a planned 670 miles (1,070 kilometres) of fencing along the US-Mexican border to block people from entering illegally.

"Today I feel revived and refreshed. I think that we were able to represent the right argument so that we can in fact experience justice in this case," Tamez told reporters in a conference call.

More than 200 foreign troops were killed in Afghanistan in 2007 and while heavy snow has blanketed most of the country so far this year causing a lull in fighting, 12 foreign soldiers have still died since 1 January.

WILL REMAIN EVER UNITED WHOEVER CONSPIRES TO DIVIDE US

I arrived at the Myanma Airways office in Myeik at about 4 pm on 21-12-2007 to return to Yangon. The notice board of the office showed that there were 15 seats left for passengers. However, the sale of air tickets was over. One of the personnel said that there would be the go show system at the airport the next day. As such, I went to the private airways office. And I easily got a ticket of Air Bagan there. In the past, it was very difficult to get an air ticket from Myeik to Yangon. One had to wait for about one week or had to try hard through various ways for an air ticket. And one sometimes had to get an air ticket through lucky dip. Now, one can easily travel from Myeik to Dawei by air-con bus and then to Yangon by train. So, one can easily purchase an air ticket. Whatever it may be, the Union of Myanmar has seen development to a certain degree in various aspects including the transport sector.

When the ATR 72 aircraft of Air Bagan took off from Myeik Airport I happened to enjoy the scenic beauty of Myeik archipelago. Managing Director of KMK Co U Khin Maung Kyaw who was seated beside me showed me the fish breeding ponds belonging to his company. In the past, there was no breeding of giant sea perches in cages. KMK Co successfully introduced the breeding of giant sea perches in cages in Myeik by bringing the fingerlings by air to Myeik from the fish breeding centre of Technician U Kyaw Zin of Min Zarni Co in Chuangtha, Ayeyawady Division. The breeding of giant sea perches in cages is making progress in Thailand and Malaysia. Today, Myanmar is keeping abreast of neighbouring countries in the breeding of giant sea perches. Giant sea perches are in high demand in both domestic and foreign markets. Myanmar is blessed with favourable conditions for breeding giant sea perches. The extended breeding of giant sea perches can contribute a lot to the development of national economy. The success in the breeding of giant sea perches is attributable to the efforts of Min Zarni Co that has invested heavily in the project for five years. With the help of Min Zarni Co, a pioneer in the business, KMK Co launched the breeding of the species in cages in Myeik area. Myanmar citizens need to launch businesses everywhere for the development of national economy.

The aircraft of Air Bagan was flying towards Dawei at an altitude of 12,000 feet and I was fascinated by the scenery of Taninthayi Division. The Division is able to produce a large amount of meat, fish and prawn. In my younger days, my mother bought shrimp paste produced from Myeik and put it in glazed earthen jars for the whole year consumption. With protein and iodine from the shrimp paste, we grew up with physical and spiritual development. At present, the division is producing a large amount of natural gas not only for local consumption but also for export. Most of mills and factories in the nation are running with the use of gas produced from the division and buses and taxies in Yangon are no exception. Taninthayi Division is blessed with evergreen forests as well as tin and tungsten. Rubber, an industrial raw material, thrives in the Division. The Division will soon become an oil pot of the nation, for a large number of acres are being put under oil palm there.

The national brethren have been living in Taninthayi Division blessed with natural resources and scenic beauty for years countable by the thousand. In the time of Bagan, the first Myanmar, King Alaung Sithu toured Taninthayi Region, made Bagan people settle in the region. Rakhine nationals also settled in the region. Those from Myeik region were Bamars of Upper Myanmar while those from Dawei region were Rakhine nationals. On Taninthayi mountain ranges lived Kayin nationals. The far-sighted endeavours of ancient Myanmar kings assigned national races to reside in different parts of the nation. Sticks, swords and spears were the only weapons of Myanmar people who fought back alien intruders. Taninthayi Division rich in natural resources is the gateway to the nation.

When the aircraft was descending, I saw the area of Dawei dotted with fertile small islands. There were paddy fields as well as virgin and fellow lands in Dawei area. Taninthayi Division doesn't enjoy self-sufficiency in rice yet. Hence, the government is striving for the division to enjoy self-sufficiency in rice.

When I made a field trip to the fertile alluvial land I saw some 3,000 acres of arable lands and those where salt can be produced. In the colonial period, paddy was cultivated in those regions where farmers were prosperous as the lands are fertile. As the communist insurgency reigned after independence those lands became mangroves since farmers were unable to engage in agriculture. Those lands can be turned into farmlands. As a huge investment was needed I could not afford. When I raised the matter to a friend of mine who could afford he said the area was far away from Yangon.

At a time when efforts are being made for the emergence of a modern and developed nation we must be able to do agriculture and livestock breeding works, regardless of the regions. The opportunity to do so is within our reach. Than Win, a friend of mine, who firmly grasped the opportunity, is now reclaiming 150 acres of lands in the mouth of Dawei River. When the aircraft touched down Dawei Airport, my thought was interrupted.

I had read the conclusion of the article titled Copycat Political Defiance written by Than Eint Hmu in the 1-1-2008 issue of Flower News Journal. In the article, the columnist asked a question "Is the disintegration of a nation good or bad?" and "Do you want the Union of Myanmar to be disintegrated?"

Columnist Than Eint Hmu asked a question "Do you wish the Union of Myanmar to be disintegrated?" Myanmar nationals made up of Kachin, Kayah, Kayin, Chin, Bamar, Mon, Rakhine, Shan, etc. do not wish at all the Union of Myanmar to be disintegrated. It is Union Spirit of the entire national people that is desirous of the Union of Myanmar to be integrated and not to be disintegrated.

Naturally, man is used to be endowed with instinct and intelligence. It is an instinct of a man that a mother breastfeeds her baby out of love. It is also an instinct of a man that a father brings up his children out of consideration and intelligence. Likewise, the nationalistic spirit to cherish and safeguard the Union is an instinct of the entire national people.

Although the instinct of a man is upright in nature it could be subject to the influence of environment. Nowadays, some western big nations are making an attempt to harm the instinct of the entire national people who are desirous of cherishing and safeguarding the Union. Those nations under the pretext of democracy are sowing discord and dissension among national races in order to undermine Union Spirit and nationalistic spirit.

Our Three Main National Causes—non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty—is the lifeblood of the Union of Myanmar. We are desirous of democracy. However, Myanmar people will never accept the scheme to undermine and destroy the Union under the cloak of democracy. Myanmar people will have to safeguard the Union at risk to their lives, putting in the fore Our Three Main National Causes—non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty.

The Panglong Agreement which was a decisive factor for the emergence of the Union of Myanmar which turns 61 years on 12 February 2008. The entire national people who are still alive are the generations of leaders of the national races who had signed the agreement. Leaders of the national races handed down Union Spirit and patriotic spirit to their generations as the legacy. The National Convention was successfully held through Union Spirit and patriotic spirit handed down by the ancestors. And an enduring State Constitution is being drafted based on such nationalistic spirit.

Today, the entire national people equipped with Union Spirit and patriotism are striving for the emergence of a peaceful, modern and developed nation and for the Union to stand tall among the international community as long as the world exists while warding off all destructive elements at risk to their lives.

BEIJING, 6 Feb — Nearly 200 million Chinese, out of a 1.3 billion total population, are working in private business enterprises, said a report issued by the All-China Federation of Industry and Commerce here Friday.

Heavy cell phone use tied to poorer sperm quality

NEW YORK, 8 Feb — Spending hours on a cell phone each day may affect the quality of a man's sperm, preliminary research suggests. In a study of 361 men seen at their infertility clinic, researchers at the Cleveland Clinic found an association between the patients' cell phone use and their sperm quality.

On average, the more hours the men spent on their cell phones each day, the lower their sperm count and the greater their percentage of abnormal sperm.

The findings, published in the journal Fertility and Sterility, add to questions about the potential health effects of cell phones and other wireless devices. Some studies, for example, have linked long-term cell phone use to a higher risk of brain tumours, though many other studies have found no such connection.

The concern is that, over time, the electromagnetic energy emitted from mobile phones could theoretically harm body tissue — by damaging DNA, for example. However, the new findings do not prove that cell phones somehow damage sperm, according to the researchers.

“Our results show a strong association of cell phone use with decreased semen quality. However, they do not prove a cause-and-effect relationship,” lead researcher Dr Ashok Agarwal told Reuters Health.

He and his colleagues based their findings on semen samples from 361 men who came to their infertility clinic over one year. All of the men were questioned about their cell phone habits.

Teen dads' babies at risk for problems at birth

WASHINGTON, 8 Feb — The babies of teenage fathers are at higher risk for problems such as premature birth, low birth weight and neonatal death, Canadian researchers said on Wednesday.

The researchers looked at records relating to 2.6 million babies born in the United States between 1995 and 2000, and found a relationship between the age of the father and the health of the infant. The babies of fathers age 19 and under were more likely to experience problems, according to the study. “This group is at high risk,” epidemiologist Shi Wu Wen of the Ottawa Health Research Institute and the University of Ottawa, who led the study, said in a telephone interview. Compared to babies of fathers ages 20 to 29 — the group with the best record for healthy offspring — those with teenage dads were 15 per cent more likely to be born prematurely and 13 per cent more likely to have a low birth weight.

Serbian hospitals to ban gossiping

BELGRADE, 9 Feb— A ban on grumpiness, gossiping, mini-skirts and rudeness is what the doctor orders to improve patient care in Serbia's hospitals, according to new rules issued by the country's Health Ministry.

The rules, posted on the ministry's website, say staff are not allowed to criticize their hospital or their superiors, and should not accept gifts for their services.

Hospital staff are often bribed with cash or gifts for attention or better treatment.

"There needs to be ground rules for decency," a ministry spokesman said. Serbia's public health system crumbled during the conflicts of the 1990s, with patients' relatives having to provide everything from bandages and antibiotics to food. — MNA/Reuters

Greece returns stolen antiquities to Albania

ATHENS, 9 Feb— Greece returned two ancient marble statues to Albania on Thursday, 17 years after they were stolen from one of its neighbour's museums and smuggled into Greece.

Culture Minister Michalis Liapis said the statues were finally returning to their rightful owners. Greece has put pressure on several major museums abroad to return hundreds of ancient Greek objects.

"With this move we are highlighting our political philosophy and we hope people in other countries will follow suit," Liapis told reporters at the new Acropolis Museum after signing an agreement with Albanian counterpart Ylli Pango. — MNA/Reuters

New tests find deadly new virus that killed three

WASHINGTON, 8 Feb— A previously unknown virus killed three women who got organ transplants from an Australian donor, and researchers say the technique they used to identify it could lead them to many more new infectious agents.

The as-yet-unnamed virus appears to be related to a bug called lymphocytic choriomeningitis virus, which usually causes only a minor flu-like illness.

But this one killed the three transplant patients by causing encephalitis, a swelling of the brain, the team reported on Wednesday in the New England Journal of Medicine.

The researchers used a relatively new method to find the virus, called high-throughput sequencing. They used powerful machines to get the full genetic sequences from the organs and from the patients, and filtered out everything but the sequences from the virus.

When the three women, ages 63, 64 and 44, all died in the Australian hospital after receiving a liver and two kidneys from the same man, doctors knew something was wrong.

Short of staff, Norway eyes robot care for elderly

OSLO, 9 Feb — Household robots may help human carers look after the growing number of elderly Norwegians in years to come, enabling them to live longer and more comfortably in their own homes, a project leader told Reuters on Thursday.

Norway faces a growing shortage of health care staff over the next five-10 years, and 2020 will be a crunch point when large numbers of post-World War II "baby boomers" leave the workforce.

Two employee groups have teamed up to see how robots and other hi-tech gadgets can be developed to help care for them.

Moderate quake jolts West Java

JAKARTA, 9 Feb— An earthquake measuring 5.0 on the Richter Scale jolted West Java Province, Indonesia on Friday, meteorology agency said. There has been no report of damages or casualties.

The quake occurred at 10:42 Jakarta Time (0342 GMT) with the epicentre at 126 kilometres southwest of Sukabumi Town and at 10 kilometres in depth, an official of the agency said.

Indonesia is laid at a vulnerable zone called "the Pacific Ring of Fire" where two continental plates, stretching from the Western Hemisphere through Japan and Southeast Asia, meet and cause frequent volcanic movements.

HIV can be passed to babies in pre-chewed food

WASHINGTON, 8 Feb — The AIDS virus can be passed from an infected mother to her baby if she pre-chews the child's food as sometimes occurs in developing countries, US Government scientists said on Wednesday.

The US Centres for Disease Control and Prevention said it had identified three cases — two in Miami and one in Memphis, Tennessee — in which a child was infected in this way between 1993 and 2004. The mother was involved in two of the cases and a relative who acted as a caregiver was involved in the third.

In developing countries, some mothers pre-chew food for babies. These women may lack access to packaged baby food or may not have a way to blend baby food. This practice is thought to be very rare in the United States or other wealthy nations. The researchers, who presented their findings at a scientific meeting in Boston, said the infected women's saliva itself did not transmit the virus to the child, but rather it appears blood present in the saliva caused the infection.

The researchers said HIV transmission appears to have occurred when the children ingested pre-chewed food that contained blood from the bleeding gums of HIV-infected women, and this entered the children's bloodstreams through a cut, sore or inflammation of the mouth or digestive tract. They said they ruled out other possible means of infection such as breast-feeding or blood transfusion.

Players issue Levante with ultimatum over debts

MADRID, 9 Feb — Levante players issued an ultimatum on Friday, saying they will take action next week if the cash-strapped Primera Liga club do not repay their debts to the squad.

"We have kept quiet until now but the situation has become unsustainable," the players said in a statement read out at a news conference.

"We hope a satisfactory solution can be reached before the Osasuna game (February 16 or 17). We trust in the good faith of the board but if there is no solution then we will act with all our power and take whatever measures we think necessary to claim what is ours by right." —MNA/Reuters

Spain takes 2-0 lead over Peru in Davis Cup

LIMA, 9 Feb — Nicolas Almagro and Tommy Robredo produced comfortable straight sets victories to give Spain a 2-0 lead over Peru in their Davis Cup world group first round tie on Friday.

World number 19 Robredo beat Ivan Miranda 6-2, 6-3, 6-3 after debutant Almagro beat Matias Silva 6-3, 7-5, 6-0 with blistering serves in the opening singles matches on outdoor clay in Lima.

"I'm very happy to give this first point to my country," Almagro said after the 105-minute match. "It was a physical and mental battle. I think I was serving very well." Silva was a late replacement for his country's top player Luis Horna, who suffered an injury to his right forearm.

Almagro admitted to having change strategy to handle his new opponent, who picked up his play in the second set before losing eight consecutive games. —MNA/Reuters

British PM wants fans to have say on global matches

LONDON, 9 Feb — The validity of a proposal for Premier League matches abroad depends on its benefit to fans, said British Prime Minister Gordon Brown.

Brown said revenue from the plan, which would mean the season having an extra 39th round of games from 2011 to accommodate 10 matches at foreign venues, should mean a reduction in ticket prices for supporters in England. "Fans have to come first and you have to listen to their views on this," said Brown, just back from a tour of China and India where the Premier League is hugely popular.

"It's important to recognize the money has to go back into the game," Brown said in an interview to be broadcast on BBC Radio 5 Live on Saturday. —MNA/Reuters

Platini brands Premier League overseas games plan a joke

LONDON, 9 Feb — UEFA president Michel Platini has attacked the English Premier League's plans to consider staging league matches overseas, describing the proposal as a joke.

"It's a strange and comical idea, the former France playmaker was quoted as saying in an interview with Saturday's Daily Telegraph. "I laughed because it will never be received by FIFA, by the fans and by the national associations.

"It's a nonsense idea... Soon you will have in England no English presidents (of clubs), you already have no English (national team) coach, you have no English players and maybe now you will have no clubs playing in England. It's a joke."

A new 'International Round' of Premier League fixtures, to be staged over one weekend in January in cities that bid for the host rights, would extend the Premier League season to 39 matches for each of the clubs from 38 by the 2010-11 season. The plan, which all 20 clubs agreed to explore, has met a chorus of disapproval from fans and the British media and has received a mixed reception from club managers. —MNA/Reuters

Czech Fenin on target again for Frankfurt

BERLIN, 9 Feb — Martin Fenin scored his fourth goal in two Bundesliga appearances to help Eintracht Frankfurt to a 2-1 home win over Arminia Bielefeld on Friday.

Czech striker Fenin, signed from Teplice for 3.5 million euros (5.07 million US dollars) in the transfer window, followed up his debut hat-trick against Hertha Berlin with a second match-winning display against Bielefeld. Fenin's fine pass to Patrick Ochs in the 37th minute started the move that led to Ioannis Amanatidis tapping in the opener.

Two minutes after the break Fenin grabbed the second, stabbing the ball in on the rebound after a long shot from Markus Weissenberger was pushed away by the keeper. —MNA/Reuters

Scientists make breakthrough in treating spinal injury

LONDON, 9 Feb— American scientists have succeeded in using bypass technique to restore movement in paralyzed rats, which they claimed is a breakthrough.

Using similar principles to heart bypass surgery, where veins from a patient's leg are used to get around an artery blockage, scientists at Columbia University in New York have shown that nerves can be used to circumvent spinal damage and reconnect the brain to the body, New Scientist reported Thursday.

The pioneering technique, successfully used in experiments with rats, raises the prospect of the first human trials within five years, which could help thousands of people to regain feeling, the scientists said.

In experiments on rats with spinal injuries, the scientists under the leadership of John Martin, a neuroscientist at Columbia University in New York, cut away a nerve from just above the injury that normally stretches into the body to control abdominal muscles and reattached it to the spine below the injury. The rats went on to show an increase in movements of previously-paralyzed limbs.

The nerves which control movement were able to regenerate quite effectively within the spinal cord, by contrast with nerve cells which control sensation or feeling.

British researchers find obesity largely genetic

LONDON, 9 Feb— Genes may be key to a child's weight, becoming overweight as a child is more likely to be the result of genes than lifestyle, according to a British study published on Thursday.

University College London researchers examined more than 5,000 pairs of identical and non-identical twins and found that differences in body mass index and waist size were 77 per cent governed by genes.

"It is wrong to place all the blame for a child's excessive weight gain on the parents it is more likely to be due to the child's genetic susceptibility," said Jane Wardle, University College London, who led the study.— MNA/Xinhua
