Members to work together for development of Greater Mekong Sub-Region

Prime Minister General Thein Sein, at the invitation of Laotian Prime Minister Mr Bouasone Bouphavanh, attended the 3rd Greater Mekong Sub-Region Summit held in Vientiane, the Lao People's Democratic Republic on 30 and 31 March.

On 31 March, Prime Minister General Thein Sein paid a courtesy call on Laotian President Mr Choummaly Sayasone at the Presidential Palace in Vientiane. The meeting focused on latest developments of the two countries. Prime Minister General Thein Sein together with heads of governments from Greater Mekong Sub-Region attended the Business and Investment Dialogue and delivered a speech on the occasion.

The entrepreneurs from respective member countries have dealt with challenges of improving trade and investment in GMS, the drive for implementing agreement on transportation among GMS countries, and beefing up participation of small and medium business in the export market.

Now, member countries of Greater Mekong Sub-Region are implementing the Strategic Framework for Action on Trade Facilitation and Investment (SFA-TFI) individually and collectively. Myanmar has signed the investment promotion and protection agreement with fellow MGS countries.

In Myanmar, not only public sector investments but also private sector investments are being made in the projects for development of infrastructures of various sectors including the transport sector. Collaboration of public and private sector will be an effective mechanism for enhancing infrastructure development in regional economic cooperation.

Therefore, GMS members will surely be in a position to enjoy fruitful results of mutually beneficial cooperation to a greater degree through concerted efforts made by businessmen and academicians of the member countries in various sectors.

McCain hits general election trail, as Democrats battle

Republican presidential candidate John McCain (C) and his wife Cindy (R) at the McCain field in Meridian, Mississippi.

WASHINGTON, 1 April— Republican presidential candidate John McCain on Monday slipped his general election bid into high gear, seeking an early edge with the rancorous race for his Democratic foe still undecided.

The Arizona Senator launched a week-long tour highlighting key aspects of his compelling life story, putting his presidential bid in the context of his family's generations of military service, and his own heroism as a navy pilot.

Democrat Barack Obama meanwhile made further inroads into the ranks of super delegates, the top party officials who will decide the nomination, since neither he, nor Hillary Clinton can now win the race without their support.

McCain opened his tour in Mississippi, near an air base named after his grandfather, a decorated admiral, where he himself once flew, and also spoke about his father, a submariner who also rose to the top of the navy.

"They gave their lives for their country, and taught me lessons about honour, courage, duty, perseverance and leadership that I didn't grasp until later in life," McCain said.—Internet

Fukuda in pinch as voters favour cheaper gasoline

TOKYO, 1 April—Prime Minister Yasuo Fukuda faced a fight for his job as he struggled with a deadlocked Parliament and as a survey on Monday showed most Japanese against extending a gasoline tax due to expire at midnight. In the latest sign of policy paralysis that has already prevented the appointment of a new central bank head, the government has failed to reach a deal on the tax with opposition parties that control Parliament's Upper House.

The paralysis born of a divided Parliament has sparked speculation that Fukuda's ruling party might replace him ahead of a general election that could come this year — and analysts say public opinion will likely be the deciding factor.

No Lower House election need be held until September 2009, and the ruling bloc is wary of a poll that would almost certainly see it lose seats, but pundits and politicians say the Prime Minister may be forced to seek a mandate to break the deadlock.—MNA/Reuters

Hamas chief says captured Israeli soldier is alive

LONDON, 1 April—The exiled leader of the Islamist Palestinian Hamas group, Khaled Meshaal, said on Monday that an Israeli soldier captured in 2006 and held in Gaza is alive and being well treated.

In an interview with Britain's Sky News television, Meshaal, who lives in Syria, also said Hamas was ready to stop attacking Israeli civilians if the Jewish state agreed to do the same. "Gilad (Shalit) is alive and we are treating him well but Israel is treating the Palestinian prisoners they hold very badly," Meshaal told Sky News.

Shalit was captured by Palestinian gunmen in a cross-border raid into an Israeli Army base in June 2006. He was 19 when he was seized.

Hamas has said it will not release Shalit unless Israel frees nearly 1,400 Palestinian prisoners, including 350 with life sentences, but Israel has rejected these terms.

Iraq says over 200 killed in clashes in Basra

BAGHDAD, 1 April — More than 200 people have been killed in week-long clashes between Iraqi security forces and gunmen in the southern oil port of Basra, an Interior Ministry spokesman said.

"We have 210 killed, including 42 serious criminals wanted for many crimes, 600 wounded and 155 criminals arrested since the start of the operation in Basra until this moment," spokesman Brigadier Abdul-Karim Khalaf told Reuters from Basra.

Iraqi Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki launched a military operation in Basra last Tuesday, vowing to "clean up" the lawless city, whose oilfields are the source of most of his government's revenues.

The government has said it is targeting "outlaws" terrorising the city's residents, not political parties.

But the operation has focussed on neighbourhoods controlled by Shiite cleric Moqtada al-Sadr's Mehdi Army militia, who accuse the government of seeking to crush the Sadrist movement ahead of provincial elections due in October.

Mortar barrage hits Baghdad Green Zone

BAGHDAD, 1 April—A mortar barrage struck the heavily fortified Green Zone in central Baghdad on Monday, a day after powerful Shiite cleric Muqtada al-Sadr asked his followers to put weapons aside, an Interior Ministry source and a witness said.

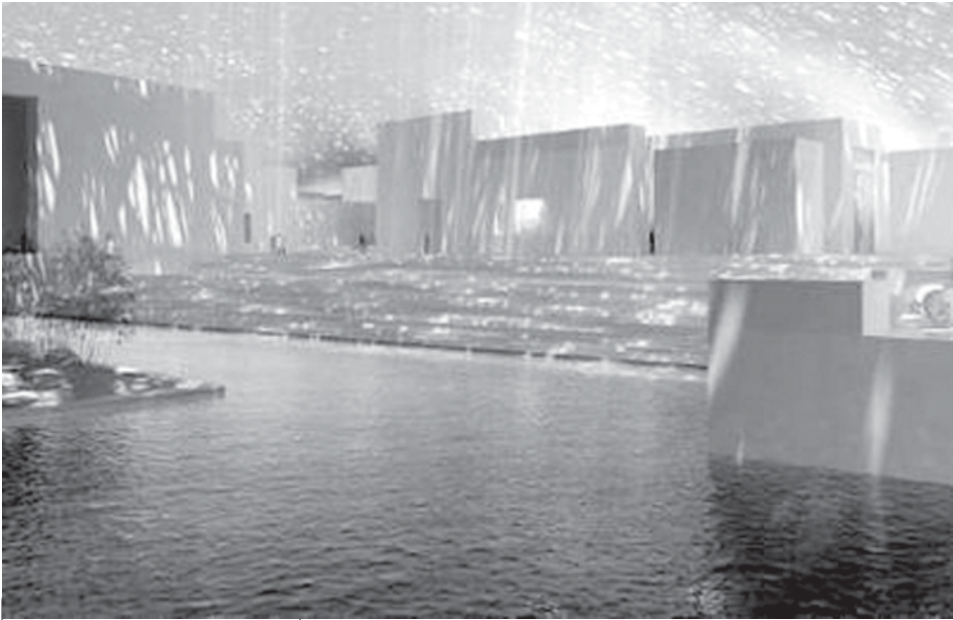

"Several mortar rounds landed on the Green Zone around 10:00 am (0700 GMT)," the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

It was not clear if the attack caused any casualty as the area is under control of US troops, the source said.

A Xinhua correspondent at the scene said that five to six mortar rounds rocked the area and smoke could be seen above.

The attack came a day after Sadr offered a truce following days of fierce clashes between his followers and US backed Iraqi security forces, that have pushed the nation to the brink of even larger bloodshed.

Arab summit backs UAE claim on Islands, Teheran angry

DAMASCUS, 31 March — Arab leaders supported the United Arab Emirates (UAE) on Sunday in its territorial dispute with Iran and called for a peaceful solution, but the Islamic republic dismissed the statement as interference in its affairs.

A Damascus Declaration at the end of a summit of 22 Arab states in the Syrian capital urged the UAE to seek “legal and peaceful ways to regain” three Islands in the Gulf controlled by non-Arab Iran and claimed by the UAE.

The declaration said resolving the dispute in the Gulf, a crucial outlet for world crude oil supply, would help improve relations between the Arab world and Iran.

In Teheran, the official Iranian news agency quoted an Iranian Foreign Ministry spokesman as saying the UAE’s claims were “vain and baseless”.

“The interference of third parties stemming from their misunderstanding of the dialogue between the Islamic Republic of Iran and the Emirates is unacceptable and will not help it,” spokesman Mohammad Ali Hosseini said.

“The three islands are an inseparable part of Iranian territory,” he added.

Toshiba robot can be told to use remote control

BEIJING, 1 April — Toshiba have developed a small, talking robot ApriPoco that can turn on the television or other appliances using its own infrared signal under that can detect infrared rays from remote controls.

“What did you do now?” the robot, with big eyes and a round torso, would ask when the user clicks on a television programme.

France orders halt to some mozzarella sales

PARIS, 31 March—France ordered its shops on Friday to stop selling mozzarella cheese from Italy's Campania region because of fears it might be contaminated with cancer-causing dioxin.

The Agriculture Minister said in a statement that the mozzarella, made from buffalo milk, would be withdrawn from the shelves immediately "as a precautionary measure" pending further tests.

Italian officials have tried to play down health risks for the public after checks found higher than permitted levels of dioxin at nearly one in five producers of buffalo mozzarella from Campania, in southern Italy.

However, France said doubts raised at an EU level meant the Campania mozzarella should be kept out of shops for now.

Tests have shown that 83 dairy farms in Campania have produced contaminated milk. Italian health officials believe the dioxin levels are linked to a recent garbage crisis in Naples and the surrounding countryside.

Japan and South Korea have already halted imports of buffalo mozzarella, one of Italy's best-known culinary products, over concerns about contamination.

Indonesia offers Java-Surabaya high-speed train project

JAKARTA, 1 April—The Indonesian Government is offering to international investors the high-speed train project connecting the two largest cities of Jakarta and Surabaya, local Press said Monday.

The 683-kilometre railway project is estimated to cost 6.14 billion US dollars, which the government is unable to spare from the state budget, reported leading economic daily Bisnis Indonesia, quoting a senior official from the Transportation Ministry.

The government promised various incentives and privileges for investors willing to build the railway and operate the high-speed train, which could travel between the two cities in just three hours or about a quarter of the current travelling time of state-owned trains.

The government will help investors settle land clearance problems and help them with ease regulations for the railway project on Java, home to about 60 per cent of the country's population.

"They even are allowed to independently run the high-speed train project without involving (state-run railway company) PT Kereta Api," said director general of railway Wendy Aritenang Yazid. The government last year issued a regulation that ended railway monopoly by PT Kereta Api.

Towards flourishing of the Sasana

Tekkatho Hla Maung

I attended a ceremony to honour Sayadaw Bhaddanta Vilasa of Ngagyigway Monastery in Swa, Yedashe Township, as Abhidhaja Agga Maha Sadhamma Jotika title was conferred on him by the government. The ceremony was organized by Yedashe Township Association and was held at Hninzigone Home for the Aged in Yangon.

The Government announces names of recipients of titles on Independence Day every year. Abhidhaja title is higher than any other religious titles.

It was one summer morning that all was quiet at the Hninzigone Home for the Aged except the voice of Sayadaw Bhaddanta Vilasa as he was delivering a sermon. Tranquility prevailed at Hninzigon Home for the Aged.

The Saydaw said “ The word “coincidence” has a deep sense of meaning for the Sasana. You all should do good deeds when you all coincide with chances to do good deeds. It is a valuable chance to perform good deeds.”

Those who are ignorant about performing good deeds have been floating in the stream of sufferings.

Devadattha has been suffering at the hell as he could not observe teachings of Buddha although he got a good chance of meeting with the Holy One.

Those who could make use of good deeds while they coincided with the good time could find the cessation of sufferings.

Men and devas numbering 24 in caculable number plus 600 million and 100,000 became liberated from the circle of rebirth.

Title recipient Sayadaws are rare. Abhidhaja Maha Ratthattaguru and Abhidhaja Agga Maha Sadhamma Jotika titles are higher than other religious titles.

It is Sayadaw Bhaddanta Vilasa who is conferred Abhidhaja Agga Maha Sadhamma Jotika by the government.

The Sayadaw was born in Ngagyigway Village in Swa, Yedashe Township. He has been dwelling in the monastery in Ngagyigway Village since his childhood. As he has been striving for the propagation of Sasana in the region, Abhidhaja Agga Maha Sadhamma Jotika Title was conferred on him by the government.

It is difficult to become heroes. It is a hero who sacrifices all for other people. They are striving for prevalence of tranquility in the world and for cessation of sufferings of human beings. It is peaceful to stay under the shadow of the loving-kindness of the Sayadaw. It is Hninzigone Home for the Aged that is permeated with blessings and loving-kindness of noble heroes.

We paid respects to the Sayadaw. Afterwards, the Sayadaw was ushered to the upper floor of the Home for the Aged and aged men and women also paid respects to the Sayadaw. It seemed that the chorus of the aged’s prayers reached high above the sky.

It is very important to value and respect own community, nation and Sasana. This is patriotism or nationalistic spirit.

Although the status of our State, people and tradition and culture seem to be lower it is superior to that of other countries that seem to be much developed.

As a matter of fact, it is incumbent upon one who was born of a country to serve the interest of the country and the people of one’s own. If he goes to other countries and resides there he will not be dutiful but will become the one who thinks highly of other nations. In addition, he will become the one who is ungrateful to his nation where he was born.

We love and cherish our people. And we also love and cherish other peoples in the world. But, in consideration of gratitude it can be said that we are extremely grateful to our own people. Therefore, we need to show thanks and gratitude to our people more than others.

Only our nation and our people are worthy of honour and gratitude. Myanmar people are equipped with patriotism and nationalistic spirit. Encroaching upon other nations is not patriotism and nationalistic spirit but greed and covetousness. Hence, it is incumbent on the entire national people to ensure perpetuation and flourishing of the race, the Sasana and culture.

According to Ashin Janakabhivamsa, if the Sasana is not well safeguarded and supported it will diminish. With the Sasana on the wane, our nation will weaken. Realizing that, we need to safeguard our motherland and the Sasana.

In its efforts to ensure flourishing of the Sasana the government issues the list of persons who are outstanding in the discharging of the Sasana duties on the Independence Day every year. The issue of religious titles on Independence Day by the government is of religious significance. As long as our nation is independent we can do such meritorious deeds, and if our nation falls under foreign subjugation we will be unable to do so.

The conferring of religious titles on monks and lay persons is meant for flourishing of the Sasana. The constant emergence of monks and lay persons who are dedicated to the Sasana will contribute to perpetuation, promotion and propagation of the Sasana.

The Buddha left behind His doctrines or teachings for living beings to be free from entanglement of greed, anger and delusion. Those doctrines were preserved and handed down from generation to generation. Outstanding monks emerged in successive eras. And they are now emerging and will continue to emerge. We Myanmar people have insatiable wish to support the Sasana while the government is making efforts for perpetuation, promotion and propagation of the Sasana.

We were pleased with strong faith and generosity shown towards the Sasana while paying respects to Abhidhaja Agga Maha Saddhamma Jotika title recipient Ngagyikway Sayadaw at the hall of Hninsigone Home for the Aged.

Necklace is oldest gold artifact in Americas

WASHINGTON, 1 April—A gold necklace found near Lake Titicaca in Peru dates back more than 4,000 years and is the oldest gold artifact found in the Americas, researchers said on Monday.

Radiocarbon dating of nearby material suggests the necklace, made of rolled tube-like beads, was made around 2100 BC, the researchers reported in the Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences.

Anthropologist Mark Aldenderfer of the University of Arizona and colleagues discovered the necklace next to an adult skull in a burial pit at Jiskairumoko, a hamlet settled by hunter-gatherers from 3300 to 1500 BC.

“We sat on the discovery for a while for a number of reasons. One is that we wanted to have a chemical analysis of the gold done,” Aldenderfer said in a telephone interview.

“And the second was we didn’t want people who were local or anyone else to learn of the gold because we were afraid of looters.”

Those worries are gone.—MNA/Reuters

Perform meritorious deeds, share merits gained in unison

An Uppathanbhaka

(Continue from yesterday)

The State Law and Order Restoration Council issued Notification No 42/91 on Prescription of Religious Titles on 24-10-1991 (1st Waning of Thadingyut 1353 ME). Under the Notification, the State Law and Order Restoration Council prescribed religious titles for monks who are discharging Pariyatti duties, monks who are discharging Patipatti duties and mobile Dhamma preachers, local and foreign missionary monks and those who are outstanding in the supporting of Sasana through four requisites in addition to the present titles such as Abhidhaja Maha Ratha Guru and Agga Maha Pandita.

Those titles are three different kinds of titles for lecturer Sayadaws, three different kinds of titles for meditation teacher Sayadaws, two different kinds of titles for Dhamma preacher Sayadaws, four different kinds of titles for missionary Sayadaws, four different kinds of titles for men and four different kinds of titles for women who are outstanding in the supporting of Sasana through four requisites. Specific requirements have also been prescribed to win such titles.

Monks, nuns, laymen and laywomen who are dedicated to the Sasana are benefactors. They are making relentless efforts for purification, perpetuation and propagation of the Sasana.

Gem is much sought-after and of great value. And it is difficult to get. Likewise, supramundane gem is much more precious than mundane gem. Out of all gems, the triple gems, namely, the Buddha, the Dhamma and the Sangha are the noblest and most precious.

In the treatises, it is stated that there are four different kinds of Buddha, namely, Sammasambuddha, Paccekabuddha, Catusaccabuddha and Sutabuddha. According to Tipitakas, learned monks possessing a wide scope of knowledge are accepted as Sutabuddhas. They are Dhammaceti worthy of being paid homage as they are endowed with the Dhamma gem.

Providing four requisites to such learned monks and paying respects and homage to them amounts to paying respects and homage to the Dhamma. It also constitutes to making efforts for purification, perpetuation and propagation of the Sasana.

Therefore, the State Peace and Development Council issued Announcement No 1/2008 on 4 January 2008 (Independence Day) and conferred religious titles on monks, nuns and lay persons.

Religious titles were conferred on 438 persons. They are three Abhidhaja Maha Ratha Guru title recipient Sayadaws, six Abhidhaja Agga Maha Saddhammajotika title recipient Sayadaws, 28 Agga Maha Pandita title recipient Sayadaws, 34 Agga Maha Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient Sayadaws, 30 Maha Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient Sayadaws, 4 Maha Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient nuns, 2 Maha Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient lay persons, 39 Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient Sayadaws, 2 Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient nuns, one Saddhammajotika Dhaja title recipient lay person, 45 Agga Maha Ganthavacaka Pandita title recipient Sayadaws, 4 Agga Maha Ganthavacaka Pandita title recipient nuns, 52 Maha Ganthavacaka Pandita title recipient Sayadaws, 3 Maha Ganthavacaka Pandita title recipient nuns, 59 Ganthavacaka Pandita title recipient Sayadaws, 7 Ganthavacaka Pandita title recipient nuns, 9 Agga Maha Kammathanacariya title recipient Sayadaws, 14 Maha Kammathanacariya title recipient Sayadaws, 8 Kammathanacariya title recipient Sayadaws, one Maha Dhammakathika Bahujana Hitadhara title recipient Sayadaw, 7 Dhammakathika Bahujana Hitadhara title recipient Sayadaws, 6 Agga Maha Sirisudhamma Manijotadhaja title recipient laymen, 6 Agga Maha Sirisudhamma Singhi title recipient laywomen, 3 Sirisudhamma Manijotadhaja title recipient laymen, 5 Sirisudhamma Singhi title recipient laywomen, 3 Thiha Sudhamma Manijotadhaja title recipient laymen, 2 Thiha Sudhamma Singhi title recipient laywomen, 24 Sudhamma Manijotadhaja title recipient lay men and 31 Sudhamma Singhi title recipient laywomen.

Of the title recipients, there are nine Sayadaws, one nun and one lay person from abroad.

In Mangala Sutta that provides human beings and devas what is to be done for their welfare and prosperity, it is stated that honouring those who are worthy of honour is a way to auspiciousness. It is a great merit that honouring, paying respects and homage to and extolling everyone who is worthy of honour. It is a meritorious deed capable of providing man and devas with welfare and prosperity both at present and in future.

Respects and homage are to be paid to monks who are endowed with Sila (morality) training, Samadhi (concentration) training and Panna (wisdom) training, monks who are senior to other monks in terms of age and vasa, and monks who are the heads of members of the Sangha. Such fine practices contribute to the unity of the Sangha and perpetuation of the Sasana.

Therefore, the practices of paying respects to, honouring and supporting persons who are doing their bit for purification, perpetuation and propagation of the Sasana will surely lead to development and prosperity of the State, the people and the Sasana. We firmly believe that a nation where the Sasana flourishes will surely be free from dangers, obstacles and impediments and will enjoy peace and development. Those who take refuge in the Three Triple Gems, namely, the Buddha, the Dhamma and the Sangha, will surely enjoy the fruits of their good deeds.

A grand ceremony to confer religious titles was held at Maha Pasana Cave on Kaba Aye Hill in Yangon on 21 March 2008. Soon after the ceremony, well-wishers under the supervision of Yangon Division Peace and Development Council offered provisions to members of the Sangha.

It is said that Sasana has become perpetual and flourishing depending on a government that admires and reveres Sasana followed by proper support. As the people are making donations out of strong faith and goodwill under the leadership of the government the outcome will surely be great. The people with strong faith will always perform meritorious deeds in the interest of the Sasana. This being so, the government is holding such religious events and the people, on their part, are to perform meritorious deeds and share merits gained for the pious deeds in unison so that both monks and people, the supporters of the Sasana, attain Nibbana, the ultimate goal of a Buddhist.

(Concluded)

Spain seizes 83m euros worth drug funds, property in '07

MADRID, 1 April—Spanish police seized at least 83 million euros (about 124 million US dollars) worth of buildings and bank deposits owned by drug traffickers in 2007, the police said Sunday.

The buildings may actually be worth much more, as the police used public registry prices and not market prices to value them, a police statement said.

Buying real estate has become one of the fastest ways to launder drug money through front companies, which develop two or three buildings to get the recognition that allows them to camouflage themselves.

Drug traffickers also send money abroad via small transfers from money changers, banks or individuals carrying cash. The main investment destinations for ill-gotten gains are Colombia, the Caribbean and the US city of Miami.

BA warns travellers face further Heathrow delays

LONDON, 31 March — Travellers hoping to fly from the new Terminal 5 at London's Heathrow airport on Monday face more delays from teething troubles with the computerized baggage handling system, British Airways said on Sunday.

Nearly 250 flights have been cancelled since Thursday's chaotic opening of the 8.6 billion US dollars showcase terminal and more cancellations are due in coming days, giving the airline a financial and public relations headache.

"We are sorry for the disruption and inconvenience caused to customers whose flights have been cancelled or whose bags have been delayed," said BA chief executive Willie Walsh, whose airline has exclusive use of the new facility.

"We continue to work towards increasing the number of services in the days ahead."

"The baggage system is now generally working well.

New data fails to quiet cholesterol drug debate

CHICAGO, 31 March — New data about the controversial cholesterol fighter Vytarin failed to quell doctors' concerns that the drug might not be as good as they thought at keeping heart disease at bay. Full results of the study known as Enhance, released on Sunday, mirrored results in January released by the drug's makers Merck & Co and Schering-Plough Corp SGP.N that found the combination drug failed to show it worked any better than a cheaper generic statin at reversing heart disease.

That sent shock waves among heart doctors, who had readily prescribed the drug because it does such a great job at lowering low-density lipoprotein, or LDL, the so-called bad cholesterol doctors see as the chief villain in the war against heart disease.

The results do little to ease investor concerns about the profit potential for the drug that is critical to the future of both Schering-Plough and Merck. The two drug-makers have come under fire from the medical community and lawmakers for a long delay in releasing the results of the clinical trial.

in Bali last year to start negotiations to replace Kyoto, which only binds 37 rich nations to cut emissions of greenhouse gases by an average of 5 per cent from 1990 levels by 2012. — MNA/Reuters

Adriano scores twice in Sao Paulo win

RIO DE JANEIRO, 1 April — Striker Adriano, on loan from Inter Milan, scored twice in the first 20 minutes to help Sao Paulo win 2-0 at Bragantino in the Paulista championship on Sunday.

Adriano's first goal came in the ninth minute when he picked up Hernanes's pass and broke clear of the Bragantino defence.

Despite nearly tripping over as he attempted to round the Bragantino goalkeeper, he managed to keep his balance and score.

Eleven minutes later, Adriano, hoping to revive his career after an unhappy period in Italy, was on hand to tap in the second at the far post following a corner.

The win kept Sao Paulo third in the table with 35 points from 18 games and one to play. The top four teams qualify for the semifinals.

Chile midfielder Jorge Valdivia produced another inspirational performance to help Palmeiras beat Sao Caetano 3-1 on Saturday and chalk up their eighth win in a row.

Real overcome Sevilla 3-1 to go six clear at top

MADRID, 1 April — Real Madrid beat Sevilla 3-1 at the Bernabeu to move six points clear at the top of the Primera Liga on Sunday.

Gabriel Heinze headed them in front early on and Raul restored the lead just before the break, a minute after Frederic Kanoute had levelled for the visitors.

Gonzalo Higuain sealed a relatively comfortable victory in the second half, to leave the champions on 65 points with eight games left to play.

Their closest challengers are now Villarreal on 59, after they leap-frogged Barcelona with a convincing 3-0 home win over fourth-placed Atletico Madrid on Saturday.

Barca are third with 58 points after letting slip a two-goal lead to lose 3-2 away to Real Betis, also on Saturday.

"It's another small step towards the title but we have to keep on fighting," Real president Ramon Calderon told Canal Plus television.

"Villarreal are now the team closest to us but I'm sure Barcelona haven't given up on the title just yet." Racing Santander beat Espanyol 3-0 away to close on the Champions League places in fifth.

Early goals from Oscar Serrano and Pedro Munitis put Marcelino's side on course for the victory, and a cheeky strike from Ivan Bolado at the end left them level on 50 points with Atletico.

After consecutive wins over Barca and Real, King's Cup finalists Valencia returned to earth with a 3-0 defeat against Real Mallorca at the Mestalla.
