Work Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races meets

Prime Minister General Thein Sein addresses meeting No (1/2008) of Work Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races.—MNA

NAY PYI TAW, 26 July — The Work Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races held its coordination meeting (1/2008) at the Government Office here this afternoon, with an address by Chairman of the Work Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races Prime Minister General Thein Sein.

Also present were members of the Work Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races, chairmen of state and division work committees commanders, the ministers, the deputy ministers, the directors-general of the State Peace and Development Council Office, the Government Office and the Pyithu Hluttaw Office, heads of departments and chairmen of sub-committees.

In his address, Prime Minister General Thein Sein said Myanmar is a country of noble tradition where over 100 national races live unitedly in the course of history. There are some barriers in border areas because of geographical conditions. Therefore much efforts are to be made for development of the regions to keep pace with inner regions of the country. The imperialists ignored the development of the border areas and national races during their rule. Moreover, there was internal strife in the regions for about 40 years after regaining independence because of evil legacy and instigation of the imperialists. As a result, the border areas lagged behind in development, he said.

Since its assumption of the State responsibilities, the present government has been making relentless efforts for prevalence of law and order and ensuring peace and tranquility upholding Our Three Main National Causes—non-disintegration of the Union, non-disintegration of national solidarity and perpetuation of sovereignty. At the same time, the government implemented State-level projects for development of border areas, he said.

Apply agricultural research findings on national scale

Now, food insecurity has become the major challenge for the whole world. Essential for everyone are food safety, irrespective of region and access to safe food. So, all agro-based countries are focusing on boosting production of crops.

For Myanmar, agriculture, forestry, livestock and fishery are major economic sectors. The government is taking measures for meeting the domestic food demand and ensuring food surplus such as supply of adequate irrigation water, providing advanced agricultural methods and high-yield crop strains, boosting agricultural production and transforming conventional farming into mechanized farming.

The forestry sector is of vital importance for national economic development and ensuring temperate climate. Thus, emphasis has been placed on conservation of the environment, biodiversity and forest resources.

In the livestock and fishery sector, steps are being taken with added momentum to achieve greater success in breeding and producing pedigree farm animals, taking disease control measures, improving livestock breeding methods and packaging and distributing methods, and conserving the nation's waters and fish and prawn resources.

As today is the age of knowledge-based agriculture, it is necessary to scale up research work on boosting food production and use of advanced methods and technologies in combination to feed the burgeoning population of the world.

Efforts are being made to apply widely the findings of the research done by the researchers of various fields from the ministries concerned in the agriculture, forestry and livestock sectors, and that will contribute towards boosting food production and economic growth of the nation.

Chavez gets royal Spanish welcome

MADRID, 26 July — Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez has met Spain's king for the first time since they fell out at a conference in Chile last November.

The pair had talks over breakfast at King Juan Carlos's summer house, on the island of Mallorca.

The king famously told

Mr Chavez to shut up after he accused Spain's former Prime Minister, Jose Maria Aznar, of being a fascist.

The remarks caused outrage and no shortage of diplomatic tension.

Mr Chavez said before he left for Spain he would like to hug the king but also warned he was not about to shut up.

The two leaders shared smiles and a warm handshake in front of the cameras, but there was no hug.—Internet

Chad rebels release US missionary

N'DJAMENA, 26 July — Rebels in northern Chad have freed an American missionary after holding him hostage for more than nine months, his evangelical organisation has said.

The Evangelical Alliance Mission (Team), based in Illinois, said Steven Godbold, 49, had been released near Bardai and would soon return to the US.

Mr Godbold was captured in October by the Movement for Democracy and Justice (MDJT) on suspicion of being a spy.

He had been helping an organisation transport equipment to drill wells.

In January, the MDJT said its inquiries showed the missionary had not been working for the Chad's government, but it did not let him go.

"Godbold was ultimately released following extensive negotiations between his captors and Team," the US missionary organization said in a statement.

China ahead of US in Internet use

BEIJING, 26 July— The world's most populous country has also emerged as home to the world's largest Internet population.

Statistics revealed on Friday showed China to have definitively overtaken the US in terms of the number of its netizens.

According to the China Internet Network Information Centre the country had 253 million people online by the end of June, a 56 per cent increase from the previous year.

In contrast, the US had an estimated 223.1 million Internet users in June, according to Nielsen Online, a research firm.

However, Internet penetration in China is only 19 per cent and continues to lag behind not only America's 71 per cent, but also the 21 per cent that is the world average.

Young people form an overwhelmingly high percentage of China's cyber citizens, with high school students accounting for 39 million of the 43 million new Net users added over the last year. People aged below 30 accounted for 69 per cent of total web users.—Internet

Fighting kills 70 combatants in Sri Lanka

COLOMBO, 26 July — Heavy fighting between Sri Lankan government forces and Tamil Tiger rebels along the front lines of their civil war killed 62 rebels and eight soldiers, the military said Saturday.

The fighting occurred throughout Friday in the Vavuniya, Jaffna, Welioya and Mullaitivu districts bordering the rebels' de facto state in the north, said Brig. Udaya Nanayakkara, the military spokesman.

In the worst clashes, soldiers repulsed a pre-dawn rebel attack in the Mullaitivu district that occurred hours after government forces captured rebel-held territory near a key supply route, Nanayakkara said.

Troops killed 33 rebels in the battle and recovered all of the bodies, he said.

Separate battles in Vavuniya killed 16 guerrillas and eight soldiers, while 12 rebels died in Welioya and another rebel was killed in Jaffna, Nanayakkara said.

Fighting has escalated in recent months after government officials vowed to crush the rebels and seize their de facto state by the end of the year.

Oil prices slide below 124 USD on falling fuel demand

NEW YORK, 26 July — Crude oil resumed its slide and settled below 124 US dollars Friday on falling fuel demand caused by a slow economy and supply increase from the OPEC countries.

Light, sweet crude for September delivery dropped 2.23 dollars to settle at 123.26 dollars a barrel on the New York Mercantile Exchange. Futures touched 122.50 dollars a barrel during the trading session, the lowest intraday price since 5 June. Price has tumbled more than 24 dollars since the all-time peak of 147.27 dollars a barrel was achieved on 11 July.

The US Energy Department’s report this week showed that the US domestic fuel demand dropped to a lowest point since January 2007 with average 19.9 million barrels a day, signaling that the weak economy and high energy prices have curbed demand.

The OPEC will produce 32.9 million barrels a day in July, 200,000 barrels up from June, according to the preliminary estimates from an oil industry consultancy Petro Logistics Ltd. The dollar strengthened against the euro on Friday also helped to bring down the crude oil price. —Internet

Imported luxury cars in China to face possible consumption tax rise

BEIJING, 26 July—Gas-guzzling imported luxury cars with heavy emissions are to face a possible car consumption tax rise in China, industry insiders predict.

The State Council, China’s Cabinet, held an executive meeting on Wednesday noting the significance of energy savings and made a special call on the country’s auto industry to cut back on gas consumption.

But no exact standard or details of when the tax would be raised or when it would happen were released.

State Administration of Taxation (SAT) sources said the agency had held multiple discussions on the consumption tax rise. A draft plan had come out, but the final decision was yet to come.

Reflecting the anticipation of such a tax rise, some consumers in China may push forward their purchasing plans. This has led to a rise in import luxury car sales.

China Automobile Trading Co, LTD (CATC) figures show from January to May, 26,992 large car were imported. This comprised a 41.38 percent share of total car imports. Sport utility vehicles (SUV) imports in the first five month surged 91.3 percent over same period last year.

One Chrysler dealer in Guangzhou, capital of the southern Guangdong Province, said the possible tax rise was prompting potential buyers to push forward their planned purchases. As such, the dealership was stopping its discounts activities designed to attract clients.—Internet

Heavy rains kill seven people in SKorea

SEOUL, 26 July—Torrential rains that lashed South Korea this week have led to the deaths of seven people and left six others missing, the government said Saturday.

Six people were also injured, with one in critical condition, in landslides and flash floods triggered by heavy rain that started battering the country Wednesday, the National Emergency Management Agency said in a statement. Two people were found dead Saturday after they were reported missing in Bonghwa, 150 miles southeast of the capital Seoul, the statement said. Three people also died Friday after their houses were pounded by landslides, it said. A day earlier, two South Korean soldiers were killed in a mudslide near their army base in Yanggu, about 110 miles east of Seoul.

The rainfall also damaged or flooded about 620 houses across South Korea, prompting 1,240 people to seek refuge elsewhere, the statement said. About 940 people later returned home, but the rest remained in local schools, community centers and other facilities.—Internet

President says Iran not to bow to big powers

TEHRAN, 26 July — Iranian President Mahmoud Ahmadinejad said on Saturday that the Islamic Republic will not bow to big powers, the English-language satellite channel Press TV reported.

“Iran’s resolve is based on dialogue and interaction in a rational and fair atmosphere,” Ahmadinejad was quoted as saying during an address at the inauguration of car manufacturing “Iran Khodro” Khorasan assembly in the northeastern province of Khorasan Razavi.

Iran will not yield to disrespectful or insatiable demands of the world powers, Ahmadinejad said.

Iran has been a pioneer among nations in several fields, including industry, science and culture, he said, adding, “Two or three governments have thrown obstacles in the path of Iran's development.”

He said the wrath of corrupt international powers stems from the resolve of the Iranian nation to maintain its prominent international position in various fields, adding that “The Iranian nation has no need of world powers. It is rather the world powers that need the Islamic Republic.”

According to Press TV, with an investment of 140 million US dollars, the car body and paint assembly lines at the Iran Khodro Khorasan (IKK) plant will produce 45 vehicles per hour. The production capacity of the plant will reach 100,000 vehicles a year by the end of the current Iranian year

Hamas arrest 120 Fatah men after Gaza blast

GAZA, 26 July— Hamas security forces in the Gaza Strip arrested 120 men aligned with the rival Fatah faction on Saturday after an explosion there killed five Hamas gunmen and a girl, the Islamist group's officials and Fatah said.

Friday's blast next to a car used by the armed wing of Hamas killed three gunmen and the girl, and two others later died of their wounds in hospital, Gaza's ruling Palestinian Islamist group and medical officials said.

The blast, the third of its kind in a day, marked one of the biggest flare-ups in internal Gaza violence since Hamas routed the forces of Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas's secular Fatah faction to seize control of the territory a year ago.

Abbas, finding his authority limited to the occupied West Bank, split with Hamas and revived peace efforts with Israel. He recently sought reconciliation with his Islamist rivals but they have balked at his precondition that they give up Gaza.

Hamas's armed wing issued a statement blaming "members of the fugitive party" — a derogatory term for Fatah — for Friday night's blast at a major junction outside Gaza City. Fatah denied involvement and said it was part of Hamas infighting.

"We have information that some elements are planning to carry out bombings against the interests and leaders of Hamas in order to sow anarchy," said senior Hamas leader Khalil al-

Hayya, whose son, himself a gunman, was wounded in the explosion. "The Fatah movement has no link whatsoever with these internal disputes within Hamas," a statement by Fatah said.—Internet

Two-thirds of US Hispanics back Obama

PHOENIX, 26 July — Two-thirds of US Hispanic voters support Democrat Barack Obama for president over Republican John McCain and the partisan gap among the United States’ fastest growing voter bloc is broader than at any point this decade, a study found.

The nationwide telephone survey by the Pew Hispanic Centre released on Thursday said 66 per cent of a sample of 2,015 registered Latino voters polled said they backed Obama, with 23 per cent supporting McCain, a senator from Arizona.

The survey said Obama’s strong showing represented a sharp reversal in his fortunes from the primaries “when he lost the Latino vote to Hillary Rodham Clinton by a nearly 2-to-1 ratio, giving rise to speculation in some quarters that Hispanics were disinclined to vote for a black candidate.”

The study said 65 per cent of Latino registered voters now identified with, or leaned toward, the Democratic Party, compared with just 26 per cent who said they identified with the Republican Party.

“This 39 percentage point Democratic Party identification edge is larger than it has been at any time this decade,” the study said.

Russia says opposes deadlines for Iran response

Moscow, 26 July — Russia said on Thursday it opposed any artificial deadlines being issued to Iran to force it to respond to incentives from world powers on suspending its nuclear activities.

But it also warned Teheran against dragging out the process.

Western powers suspect Iran is seeking to build atomic bombs. The Islamic Republic says its nuclear programme is a peaceful drive aimed at generating electricity so that it can export more of its oil and gas.

Six world powers, including Russia, last month offered Iran economic and other incentives in return for it suspending uranium enrichment, which the Islamic Republic has repeatedly refused to do.

Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov told reporters on the sidelines of the ASEAN Regional Forum in Singapore that artificial deadlines complicated the issue.

“There should be no artificial limits from the point of view of extreme time frames, such as ‘today or never’, just as there should be no endless dragging out of the process,” Russia’s Interfax news agency quoted Lavrov as saying.

That’s my gold cup, give it back to me

Playwright Maung Kyauk Doe

Alanka Kyaw Swa Shwe Mann Tin Maung was once a national celebrity among Myanmar drama fans. Out of affection, some women presented him cheroots with gold coins in them. Dramatic performer Great U Po Sein was also presented cheroots with gold coins in them. Many of today’s people at the age of 60 to 70 were the fans of Shwe Mann.

Shwe Mann Tin Maung read and learnt a lot. He improved his dramatic career by reading. He sang as well as he danced with good innovations and hard work. Among his long dramas, “Let Wè Thondara” is still in the minds of his fans. He even won great respect of literati for his performance of the song “Meza Taungche”.

His talent was well evidenced by his role in the dramas based on Buddha’s true stories. He acted as minister Kaludayi and comedian U Dat Shin, as minister Baka. Their dialogues in the drama completely won the heart and admiration of the fans.

Short plays starring Shwe Mann Tin Maung were very attractive to the audiences. His play “Coloured glass balls merchants” aired many times by the Myanma Radio is a good one. It is one of Buddha’s true stories stated in the treatise “550 Buddha’s True Stories”. In the past, a leading stage performer played the leading role only, and acted as the leading performer. However, in the drama “Ywe (coloured glass ball) merchants”, Shwe Mann Tin Maung played the role of a villain, thus proving that he was a very versatile performer.

The drama “Ywe Merchants” is like that. Once, there were two ywe merchants who sold ywes, going along rivers and creeks by boat. The first merchant was rapacious and cunning. The other was good-hearted (would-be Buddha). The greedy merchant (Shwe Mann Tin Maung) went around a village to sell his goods.

In a house lived two poor family members—the grandmother and the granddaughter. They were impoverished. Hearing the shouts of the covetous merchant, the child asked her grandma for some ywes. The grandmother was penniless. The merchant lured the child into his goods. The granddaughter persisted in crying for what she wanted, so the old woman took an old cup completely covered with fumes from the kitchen and showed it to the merchant. Then, she told the merchant to appraise the cup and give her ywes equivalent to the value of the cup. Just as he saw the cup, the merchant knew that the cup was worth about 100,000 units of currency. However, out of covetousness, he returned it to her, as if the cup was worthless. In fact, he wanted to get it nearly free. His intention was that he would come back there after some time and buy it with a small ywe.

Soon after he left, the other merchant went by the house. The child again asked her grandmother for some ywes. So, the woman showed the cup to the man. Knowing that the cup was a gold one, the honest and upright merchant exchanged all his goods with the cup, with her agreement. Then, he returned to his village by boat. After some time, the first merchant (Shwe Mann U Tin Maung) got there again. When he knew that the gold cup had been taken, he rushed to the shore in a frenzy. When he arrived at the shore, the boat carrying the upright merchant had already left. He shouted at the boatman to come back.

Out of control, he shouted, “Hey, man, the gold cup is mine. Turn back the boat and come back here. Give back my gold cup to me.” Nonetheless, the boat kept on moving to the other bank. The greedy merchant’s heart was completely filled with greed, anger and delusion, and he turned mad, as a result.

He cried out, “Give back the gold cup to me, give back the gold cup to me.”

Shwe Mann Tin Maung’s performance was very brilliant.

In 1990, Myanmar politics saw multiparty democracy general election. Altogether 93 political parties out of 235 formed in a competitive manner in 1988-89 stood for election. There were by then various forms of canvassing for votes.

Foreign broadcasting stations such as BBC, VOA, AIR and the like were airing fabricated news to mislead the people. Meanwhile, the insurgents launched a series of attacks against the government. In the meantime, over 80 political parties faded as not a single seat was won by their candidates, and there were only ten political parties left.

Whatever it is, large number of voters didn’t cast votes. No political parties won the majority of votes. But according to the yardstick of modern democracy, only a vote more in the election made a party become a winner. This being so, the majority of the NLD candidates were elected.

The press conference of the Information Committee of the State Law and Order Restoration Council held prior to the election issued an announcement that those who were elected in the general election on 27 May 1990 were to participate in the drafting of the State constitution. The press conference also announced that the State constitution was indispensable as the representatives-elect and the government would exercise the State power owned by the people in accord with rules and regulations of the constitution. The State issued the Announcement No 1/90, calling on the representatives of the National League for Democracy, National Unity Party, Shan NLD and other national races parties who were elected in the general election to draw the State constitution.

In June and July in 1992, leaders and representatives-elect from ten existing political parties were invited for discussions in which most of the representatives of the NLD took part. In accordance with the agreement reached in the discussions, the National Convention was held in January 1993 with the participation of some 100 delegates from the NLD. All the delegates to the National Convention held discussions and laid down the fundamental principles to be included in the drawing of the State constitution.

The NLD party was actively participating in the National Convention. However, in the late 1995, it walked out of the National Convention under the ultimatum of Daw Suu Kyi. The NLD delegates who criticized the walking out of the National Convention by the NLD left the party and some were expelled from the party. The NLD walked out of the National Convention, went against the emergence of the State constitution and launched various forms of attacks against the convention. The NLD insisted recognition of the 1990 election results, demanded convening of the Hluttaw and handing over the State power to it. Regarding that, it issued a string of statements to obtain the international assistance. The result of the general election held on 27 May 1990 became null and void since 26 May 1994 according to law. There were no election results in the world that are valid for over 20 years.

Despite a spate of hindrances and obstacles of the NLD, notorious foreign media, renegades and insurgents, the National Convention was successfully completed on 3 September 2007. The constitution (2008) of the Republic of the Union of Myanmar was written by 54 members of the Commission for Drafting the State Constitution from 4 December 2007 to 19 February 2008. The referendum holding commission and sub-commissions at different levels sought the approval for the constitution (2008), which was written in the interest of the people, in 278 townships on 10 May 2008 and in 47 storm-hit townships on 24 May 2008. And about 99 per cent of eligible voters cast votes on the constitution with 92.48 per cent of votes in favour. This meant that the people unanimously approved the constitution. Being approved by 92.48 per cent accounting for 93 people out of 100, the success in the approval of referendum is the national achievement. The verbal attempts of destructive elements at home and abroad to jeopardize the referendum turned out to be fruitless.

In recent interviews with the BBC, VOA, RFA and DVB, those from the NLD said to be spokesman and legal experts said that they didn’t accept and recognize the constitution (2008), that it was illegal, and that they preferred the result of the 1990 election. Again, we are hearing the voices of a group that is eager to come to power in disregard of the wishes of 93 per cent of the people under Myanmar political stage.

With that regard, I happened to remember the late Alanka Kyaw Swa Shwe Mann U Tin Maung. It is my wish that Alanka Kyaw Swa Saya Shwe Mann presented himself to the audience the drama “Ywe Merchant” again.

Government has spent over K 231,113 million on border area development project since 1989

He said national race armed groups in Kokang and Wa regions returned to the legal fold on 31 March 1989 and on 9 May respectively. Later, Central Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races led by Senior General Than Shwe was formed on 25 May 1989 and border areas development project was launched. On 31 May the same year, the Work Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races was formed for close supervision of the project. National race armed groups returned to the legal fold one after another from the time the government had launched border area development tasks. Therefore, development tasks were implemented widely. In 1992, a new ministry was constituted for speedy implementation of border area development tasks. The border area development project has been implemented since 1989 and brilliant achievements have been made in 18 years.

He said this year is the second year of the fourth five-year plan. The government has spent over K 231,113 million on the border area development project since 1989. At the 1/2007 meeting of the Central Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races, Chairman of the Central Committee Senior General Than Shwe gave guidance on giving priority to education, health, transport and economic sectors and making efforts for more progress. In accord with his guidance, major roads and bridges are being upgraded and new roads are being built in the regions.

As regards the education sector, the government is giving priority to development of national race youths and enhancement of man power. Efforts are being made for development of national race youths and human resources in cooperation with the Ministry of Education and international organizations. Moreover, the Ministry of Progress of Border Areas and National Races and Development Affairs formed Education and Training Department.

The State has opened 34 domestic science training schools and technical training schools in Sittway, Laukkai, Pangsang and Monla regions for their vocational education.

As regards the health sector, National Health Committee is placing emphasis on providing health care to border areas by adopting the policy of placing health care not only to rural but also to border areas.

As for the agriculture field, it is necessary to help boost production of region-wise crops and to arrange markets for trading crop surpluses. Small dams and embankments are being built and highland farming is being established to replace slash-and-burn agriculture that can harm the natural environment. As a result, local farmers are able to boost their crops and establish annual crop plantations of orange, lychee and tea.

In relation to the elimination of narcotic drugs, with its own resources, the State is taking measures to eliminate the poppy cultivation that had been rooted in the country since colonial rule by laying down a 15-year plan. The cooperation of local people from border areas has led to the dramatic fall of poppy cultivation and this has been recognized by the international community.

Regarding the border area development, Chairman of the Central Committee for Development of Border Areas and National Races Senior General Than Shwe gave guidance at the meeting (1/2007) of the Central Committee that national unity can be forged and a peaceful and developed nation be built only if the development gap between border areas and inner cities is narrow. So priority is to be given to the progress of national races.

In conclusion, the Prime Minister said, border area development tasks have been carried out since 1989. Due to the correct policy and the cooperative efforts of responsible officials of the State, organizations and the people of border areas, more success has been achieved than expected and peace and stability and development of the border areas can be witnessed. All in all, regional work committees, ministries and work subcommittees are to strive for more development of the border areas without being complacent about the economic opportunities for the ordinary people.

Next, Minister Col Thein Nyunt reported on border areas development work and financial statements, work being done, distribution of machinery, human resource development in the border areas and narcotic drug elimination tasks and development work in cooperation with UN agencies and international organizations.

The commanders submitted reports on region-wise work to be fulfilled.

The Ministry of Progress of Border Areas and National Races and Development and Affairs reported on matters to be decided and documented.

Afterwards, the committee members gave a presentation on national races development in border areas.

After responding to the reports, the Prime Minister made concluding remarks.—MNA

Unknown insects found in 110-million-year-old amber in Spain

MADRID, 26 July—The remains of several unknown insect species which became extinct long before dinosaurs stopped roaming the earth have been discovered in pieces of 110-million-year-old amber found in Spain, researchers said Thursday.

Palaeontologist Enrique Penalver said the amber discovered in the El Soplao cave in the northern province of Cantabria was in "exceptional" condition.

"The conservation is incredible. You can study the details," he told a news conference in Santander according to the Europea Press agency.

Several types of arachnids, as well spider webs and plant remains, were found fossilised in the amber discovered at the site, added Penalver, a researcher with the science ministry's Geology and Mine Institute.

It is the most important amber find to date in Spain and possibly in all of Europe, he added. There are few other amber finds from that era in the world, he said.

NZ students offer cash

US's Rice

WELLINGTON, 26 July — A group of New Zealand students has come up with a novel way of protesting against a visit by US Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice, offering a cash reward for her "arrest" over US actions in Iraq.

The Auckland University Students' Association has offered 5,000 New Zealand dollars (3,700 US dollars) for any student making a citizen's arrest of Rice during her 36-hour stay that starts later on Friday. "It's primarily symbolic, but it's a protest against her actions as secretary of state in Iraq and the authorization of the torture of suspected terrorist detainees," said the student body's president, David Do.

Police said the stunt was disturbing, and warned no-one would be allowed to disrupt the visit. "We are obliged to ensure the safety and security of the visiting guest and we will not shirk from that task," said District Commander Superintendent Brett England in a statement.

Westfield exec refuses US
Senate panel tax queries

WASHINGTON, 26 July — The group managing director of Australia-based Westfield Group, a major shopping mall group, refused on Friday to answer questions from a US Senate subcommittee investigating international tax havens. Peter Lowy cited his constitutional right to not give self-incriminating testimony when he was called to answer questions about his family's involvement with LGT Bank of Liechtenstein. The Senate Permanent Subcommittee on Investigations is looking at LGT Bank as part of a larger inquiry into wealthy Americans who avoid taxes by hiding assets in Switzerland and Liechtenstein, a tiny European principality.

The practice deprives the US Government of 100 billion US dollars in revenues annually, according to lawmakers. Senator Carl Levin, a Michigan Democrat and chairman of the subcommittee, said the Internal Revenue Service is investigating 147 US taxpayers with LGT accounts. —MNA/Reuters

Election loss deals crushing blow to UK's Brown

GLASGOW, 26 July — Britain's ruling Labour Party lost a parliamentary seat in one of its traditional strongholds, a stinging electoral setback for Prime Minister Gordon Brown, results showed on Friday.

Defeat in Thursday's poll in the Glasgow East constituency, which Labour won with a huge 13,500 majority at the 2005 election, will fuel Labour discontent with Brown's leadership and could lead to moves to oust him, some analysts believe.

The pro-independence Scottish National Party (SNP) scored a dramatic victory by a slim 365-vote margin as voters in Britain's third-largest city turned against Labour in droves.

The result, following a series of other recent Labour election defeats, will strengthen expectations that Labour's 11 years in power may be nearing an end and that it could lose the next general election, due by 2010.

"This SNP victory is not just a political earthquake — it is off the Richter scale," jubilant SNP candidate John Mason said.

The defeat in what was considered Labour's third safest seat in Scotland was particularly galling for Brown because he is Scottish.

The result adds to the deepening sense of crisis enveloping Brown, whose popularity has slumped since he took over as prime minister from Tony Blair 13 months ago.

Brown and Labour have been hurt by the credit crisis, which has hit economic growth and sent house prices sliding, as well as by rising food and energy bills.

Blasts at politician's house

GAZA, 26 July — Bomb blasts rocked a cafe and a Hamas politician's home in the Gaza Strip on Friday, killing at least one Palestinian in one of the biggest flare-ups in internal violence since Islamists seized the enclave a year ago.

Hamas blamed unidentified "gunmen" for the bombings, suggesting the involvement of a Palestinian faction. An Israeli Army spokesman said he was not aware of any Israeli activity.

The Hamas Islamist group took control of the Gaza Strip a year ago.

Hamas security forces said the first bomb went off outside a popular cafe in the centre of Gaza City, killing a passer-by whose identity was not immediately known. A few minutes later, a second bomb exploded outside the house of Hamas politician and leader Marwan Abu Rass. Nobody was injured in that blast.

Italy returns antiquities looted from Iraq

ROME, 26 July — Italy on Thursday returned 13 ancient Iraqi artefacts that had been smuggled out of the country after the US-led invasion.

Prime Minister Silvio Berlusconi gave the artefacts, which included a tablet and a lamp, to Iraqi Prime Minister Nuri al-Maliki during his visit.

They were recovered by Italian police, who have been waging a campaign to recover stolen archaeological artefacts.

“It is an important and symbolic gesture about how Italy ... treats objects of antiquity and always tries to return them to the countries where they belong,” Berlusconi told a joint news conference with Maliki, where some of the artefacts were displayed.

Maliki appealed to countries to follow Italy's lead and return all antiquities that were looted and smuggled out of the country after the invasion— MNA/Reuters

Turkey, Georgia, Azerbaijan launch joint rail link

KARS (Turkey), 26 July — Leaders of Turkey, Georgia and Azerbaijan launched a railway project between the three countries on Thursday, building on links forged by gas and oil pipelines.

At a railway station in the eastern Turkish border town of Kars the presidents of the three countries held a ground breaking ceremony for the $290 million Turkish section of the railway.

The three are linked by the BP-led <BP.L> Baku-Ceyhan oil pipeline and the Baku-Tbilisi-Erzurum gas line but trade links between Turkey and the Caucasus Region are limited.

Turkish President Abdullah Gul, Georgia's Mikheil Saakashvili and Azerbaijan's Ilham Aliyev placed three sections of railway track on a large map of the region in a symbolic launch of the project as confetti showered down.

"With this project the historic Silk Road is being reinvigorated," Gul said in a speech.

"The project is open to all countries in the region who want to contribute to good neighbourly relations, peace and prosperity," he said.

Volkswagen, Peugeot, Fiat defy sector gloom

PARIS/FRANKFURT, 26 July — Volkswagen led a trio of European automakers which issued surprisingly strong results and held to full-year targets on Wednesday, sending their shares higher despite analysts warning the second half will be tough.

Volkswagen, Europe’s No 1 and the world’s No 4 auto group, said second-quarter operating profit rose 22 per cent to 2.12 billion euros (3.38 billion US dollars), easily topping market expectations.

A Reuters poll of 20 analysts forecast operating profit would rise on average to just 1.81 billion euros in the quarter, putting VW on track for an estimated 6.61 billion for the full year or a rise of 7.5 per cent.

Smaller rival Peugeot Citroen repeated its 2008 operating margin target of 3.5 per cent, confounding analysts who had expected a trimmed target.

But both companies, and world No 2 truck maker Volvo, warned of a tougher environment ahead as consumers curb spending and metals prices remain high.

Volvo reported a bigger-than-expected second-quarter rise in pretax profit and stuck to its outlook for its main markets this year, but warned of growing consumer caution.

Fiat confirmed its targets for this year and the next after posting a 19.6 per cent rise in quarterly profit to 1.13 billion euros, beating average market expectations.

French carmaker Renault reports on Thursday.

Over 1,000 died in US painkiller overdoses

WASHINGTON, 26 July — At least 1,013 people died of overdoses in several US cities from 2005 to 2007 after illegally injecting the highly potent painkiller fentanyl, US officials said on Thursday.

The fentanyl, at least some of which came from Mexico, was sold illegally by drug dealers on US streets, sometimes mixed with cocaine and heroin, according to a report issued by the US Centres for Disease Control and Prevention.

The Chicago area had the most deaths with 349, followed by Philadelphia with 269, the Detroit area with 230. Other deaths were reported in St Louis, Missouri, and the states of Delaware and New Jersey.

Emergency medical personnel reported finding some victims with the needle still in their arms, not having completed the injection because the drug was so powerful, said retired CDC public health service officer Dr Stephen Jones, who wrote the report.— MNA/Reuters

Ferguson dismisses idea of British 2012 Olympic team

JOHANNESBURG, 26 July — Manchester United manager Alex Ferguson said on Friday the idea of a British soccer team playing at the 2012 London Olympics was a non-starter.

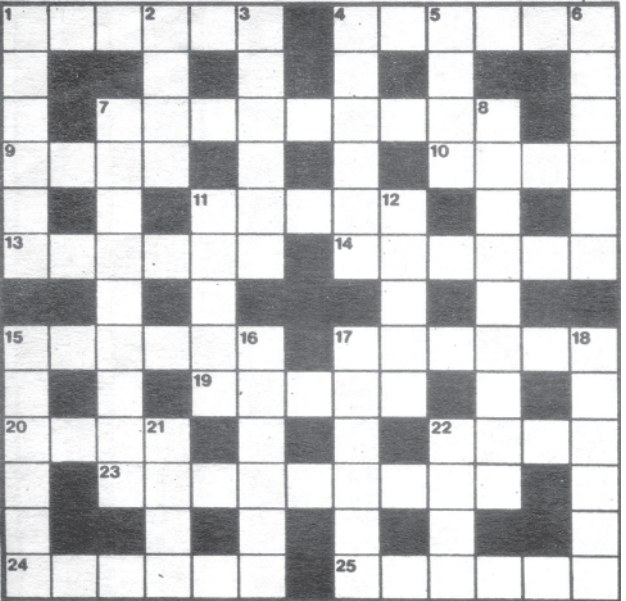

Ferguson had been named as the ideal coach for a combined team by 2012 organizing committee chairman Sebastian Coe last weekend, with Coe telling BBC Radio Five Live that he had discussed the issue with the Scot. But Ferguson, speaking in Johannesburg on the eve of Manchester United's match against South African club Kaizer Chiefs in the final of a pre-season exhibition tournament, dismissed the idea.

Redknapp claims Kaboul coup

Younes Kaboul

LONDON, 26 July — Younes Kaboul will snub interest from Sunderland and Aston Villa to join Portsmouth, according to Harry Redknapp.

The Fratton Park boss is confident he has beaten his Premier League rivals to the signature of the Tottenham Hotspur defender. Kaboul, 22, looked all set to link up with fellow Spurs men Teemu Tainio, Pascal Chimbona and Steed Malbranque at Sunderland after boss Roy Keane agreed fees for all four.

But even though Keane is believed to have met with the French defender, who struggled to find his feet in England after his move to White Hart Lane from Auxerre, there was rival interest from Pompey and Aston Villa.—Internet

Beijing organizers sympathize with Iraqi athletes

BEIJING, 26 July — Beijing organizers expressed sympathy for Iraqi athletes on Friday after the suspension of the country's National Olympic Committee (NOC) ruled them out of next month's Olympics.

The Iraqi Government disbanded the NOC in May because of a dispute over how it had been assembled. The International Olympic Committee (IOC) set a deadline for its reinstatement but the government did not back down and the ban was confirmed on Thursday.

"We have noticed the relative regulations concerning the Iraq issue," Sun Weide, spokesman for the Beijing Organizing Committee for the Olympic Games (BOCOG), told a news conference on Friday.

"It is a decision made by the IOC according to relative regulations. It is an internal affair of the IOC. BOCOG feels sorry for the Iraqi athletes being unable to participate in the Beijing Games." At least seven Iraqi athletes, two rowers, a weightlifter, a sprinter, a discus thrower, a judoka and an archer, had earned places in Beijing.

Goalkeeper Robinson leaves Spurs for Blackburn

LONDON, 26 July — Blackburn Rovers signed goalkeeper Paul Robinson from Premier League rivals Tottenham Hotspur for 3.5 million pounds (6.95 million US dollars) on Friday. The 28-year-old, who has 41 England caps but has fallen out of favour with club and country, becomes manager Paul Ince's first signing since he took over from Mark Hughes a month ago. Robinson agreed a five-year contract with Blackburn, the club said on their website (www.rovers.premiumtv.co.uk).

Spurs had already signed PSV Eindhoven's Brazilian keeper Heurelho Gomes as their first-choice for next season. Earlier on Friday, Blackburn gave Aston Villa the go-ahead to approach 37-year-old goalkeeper Brad Friedel about a possible transfer.

Villa have already agreed to sign fellow US keeper Brad Guzan who has a work permit hearing next Friday. The 23-year-old has been lined up to replace Scott Carson, who was on loan from Liverpool and has since been sold to promoted West Bromwich Albion by the Merseyside club, and Thomas Sorensen, who Villa released at the end of last season.

Robinson spent four seasons at Tottenham after joining the north London club from Leeds United for one million pounds, making 175 appearances and scoring once with a 65-metre free kick against Watford in a league game two seasons ago.—MNA/Reuters
