Build a new democratic nation through concerted efforts of the State, the people and the Tatmadaw

Stability of the State, strong economy and development of human resources are indispensable for building a new and modern nation. The government is making relentless efforts for all-round development of the nation, while fulfilling such basic requirements.

With a view to forging national unity and strengthening friendship among the national brethren the government has been building a large number of infrastructures in transport, economic, education and health sectors.

At present, there are 213 dams and reservoirs and 235 bridges, 180 feet and above long, the length and breadth of the nation. Those bridges form a network of transport routes running from east to west and from south to north, thereby contributing much to development of the agriculture, economic and transport sectors.

The government has laid down and is implementing an array of economic plans with the active participation of the entire national people. As a result, the entire people are now enjoying the fruits of peace, stability and development.

Nowadays, the government is in the process of building a new, modern, developed and discipline-flourishing democratic nation, the national goal, upholding Our Three Main National Causes. The nation has already approved the State constitution that is appropriate to a new nation.

At a time when national unity has been consolidated and community peace and tranquility and the rule of law have been restored at the unprecedented level, the government, the people and the Tatmadaw are to make continued efforts for the emergence of a new democratic nation.

Venezuela blames US for Georgia-Russia conflict

CARACAS (Venezuela), 15 Aug—Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez is accusing the United States of masterminding the current conflict between Georgia and Russia. A statement from Chavez's government alleges the conflict was "planned, prepared and ordered" by Washington in an "incitement of violence."

It gives no evidence to support those claims.

Venezuela is a close ally of Russia, which it says has acted to protect local residents from "unacceptable acts of violence" perpetrated by Georgian troops.

Venezuela's statement on Thursday saluted steps toward peace in South Ossetia, saying Russia's stance has been in line with international accords.

President Bush has demanded that Russia respect Georgian sovereignty and territorial integrity.—Internet

Afghan blast kills three in US-led coalition

KABUL (Afghanistan), 15 Aug—An explosion targeting international troops on a foot patrol in southern Afghanistan killed three members of the US-led coalition Thursday, the coalition said. The coalition did not release any details about the attack, including the troops' nationalities or the location of the blast. American forces make up the vast majority of the coalition, which includes special forces units and soldiers who train Afghan army and police forces. The 40-nation NATO-led force operates under a separate command.

Southern Afghanistan is the center of the Taliban-led insurgency. The last three months have been the deadliest for international troops in Afghanistan since the 2001 US led invasion.

A record number of US and NATO troops are in Afghanistan around 65,000 exposing more soldiers than ever to increasingly lethal Taliban bombings and ambushes.

More than 3,200 people have died in violence countrywide so far this year, according to an Associated Press tally of figures provided by Afghan and Western officials.—Internet

Obama grants unity vote on Clinton's White House bid

US Democratic presidential candidate Illinois Senator Barack Obama and former candidate Senator Hillary Clinton (D-NY)

WASHINGTON, 15 Aug—Democrats Barack Obama and Hillary Clinton, vowing to heal wounds still festering from their White House scrap, agreed on Thursday to submit her name to a vote at this month's nominating convention.

The symbolic vote will allow the former first lady's supporters to have their say at the 25-28 August convention in Denver, and then the party can move on to take the fight to Republican John McCain, the erstwhile rivals said.

But it could also bring lingering tensions bubbling back to the fore, with pro-Clinton groups angered at her primary loss already planning to rally in Denver ahead of Obama's coronation on 27 August.

"I am convinced that honoring Senator Clinton's historic campaign in this way will help us celebrate this defining moment in our history and bring the party together in a strong, united fashion," Obama said in a joint statement.

EU: Euro economy shrinks in second quarter

BRUSSELS (Belgium), 15 Aug—Euro-zone growth braked sharply in the second quarter as major economies Germany, France and Italy shrank, EU statistics showed Thursday, with high fuel and food prices holding back consumer spending. Growth in the 15 economies that share the euro currency contracted by 0.2 percent from the first quarter, expanding just 1.5 percent from the same period a year ago, the EU statistical agency Eurostat said in a first estimate that it may change at a later date.

Germany, the region's largest economy, shrank 0.5 percent in April-June from the previous quarter with France and Italy both down 0.3 percent. German growth dropped for the first time in nearly four years. The world's biggest exporter had so far weathered the economic storm brewing in Europe despite high inflation hitting spending at home and a slowing world economy and a strong euro hurting exports to the US.—Internet

Maoist chief elected as Nepal's new PM

KATHMANDU, 15 Aug—Lawmakers elected a Maoist who led a decade-long insurgency against the Hindu monarchy as Nepal's new prime minister on Friday, marking the Himalayan nation's radical change into a democratic republic.

Pushpa Kamal Dahal, the chief of once-feared Maoist guerrillas who still uses his nom de guerre Prachanda, won 464 votes out of 577 ballots cast in a special Constituent Assembly vote after weeks of political battles.

Lawmakers hugged a beaming Prachanda, who said: "I am very excited at this moment". Outside the assembly, hundreds of Maoist supporters danced, many waving hammer-and-sickle flags.

The election opens the way for the formation of a new government, capping a peace process that ended a civil war in which more than 13,000 people died since 1996.

Prachanda defeated Sher Bahadur Deuba, a three-time former prime minister from a centrist party. Prachanda, a former agricultural science teacher, is seen as a strong leader by his colleagues, who say he has infused loyalty and discipline among his followers. The Maoists control 227 seats in the assembly that currently has 595 members.—Internet

Sri Lanka: Tens of thousands flee fighting

COLOMBO, 15 Aug—Tens of thousands of civilians have fled their homes in northern Sri Lanka in recent weeks as the military ramped up its offensive against the Tamil Tiger rebels' heartland, international aid groups said.

New fighting between the two sides killed 27 rebels and two government soldiers, while air force helicopters attacked rebel bunkers in the embattled northern region on Friday, the military said.

For months, the two sides faced each other over relatively static front lines, but the military broke through in the past few weeks, capturing a series of rebel bases and large chunks of territory.

Between 55,000 and 75,000 people have been displaced by the fighting over the past 2 1/2 months and as many as half of them are living under trees and tarps.—Internet

Engine panel falls off Qantas jet in flight

SYDNEY, 15 Aug — An engine access panel fell off a Qantas Airways jumbo jet en route to Singapore from Melbourne, Australia, on Friday, the latest in a string of incidents for the airline.

Inspectors conducting a routine check in Singapore on the Boeing 747-400 noticed the small panel had become detached, a Qantas spokeswoman said.

"This had absolutely no flight safety implications," said the spokeswoman, who spoke on condition of anonymity, as is customary.

The panel — which is used by engineers to access various parts of the engine for inspections — was replaced, and the flight continued on to London after a delay of about six hours.

The airline has been plagued by problems since an explosion on one of its planes forced an emergency landing in Manila last month. Since then, another plane was forced to return to Adelaide because of an issue with its landing gear, and a Boeing 767 returned to Sydney soon after takeoff when air traffic controllers saw fluid streaming from a wing.—Internet

Gannett to cut 1,000 newspaper jobs: memo

SAN FRANCISCO, 15 Aug—Gannett Co Inc (GCI.N) plans to eliminate 1,000 positions from its local newspapers around the US because of declining advertising and circulation revenue, and may cut more if those conditions persist.

The largest US newspaper publisher said the cuts equal about 3 percent of the positions in its Community Publishing unit, according to a memo obtained by Reuters on Thursday. The unit accounts for the vast majority of the company's newspapers, except for USA Today.

About 600 people probably will be laid off as part of the cuts, the memo said. The remaining cuts will come from retirements, resignations and other vacancies that will go unfilled.

Chinese tourist arrivals to Sri Lanka grow 7.3% in first half of 2008

COLOMBO, 15 Aug — Tourist arrivals from China to Sri Lanka grew by 7.3 percent in the first half of 2008 over the same period a year ago, Sri Lanka’s national carrier SriLankan Airlines said on Thursday in a statement.

Figures from the Sri Lanka Tourism Development Authority showed that the island attracted 5,383 Chinese tourists for the first half of 2008, comparing with the 5,016 Chinese tourists recorded in the same period of 2007.

The increase came as Sri Lanka’s tourist arrivals dropped 0.2 percent to 224,363 in the first six months of 2008 from the same period of last year.

SriLankan Airlines is closely supporting the government’s drive to promote Sri Lanka as a tourist destination to the Chinese people as the Chinese tourism market is being viewed as one of the fastest growing markets.

The government-

owned SriLankan Airlines serves China with thrice-weekly flights to Beijing, and another three to Hong Kong.

The statement said the airline actively participated in several travel fairs in China this year, including the Beijing International Tourism Expo and the Guangzhou International Travel Fair.

The airline also co-organized a workshop for travel agents in the Chinese capital Beijing in June.—Xinhua

Dutch banking giant ING benefits from ABN Amro turmoil

BRUSSELS, 15 Aug— Dutch banking and insurance group ING has increased its share in the Dutch corporate market following the battle among several big international banks last year to acquire ABN Amro, another large Dutch bank, Dutch paper Financieel Dagblad reported on Thursday.

ING said on Wednesday the interest results of its wholesale division have risen by almost a third in the second quarter this year compared to a year ago, the report said.

Despite an offer by British bank Barclays, ABN Amro was finally bought by the consortium of Royal Bank of Scotland, Dutch-Belgian financial services company Fortis and Spain’s Banco Santander for 70 billion euros (104.14 billion US dollars) last year. ABN Amro was then split among the three purchasers.

The fall of ABN Amro made way for ING. ING had since been involved in a number of large transactions such as the takeover of employment agency Vendior by Randstad.

Meanwhile, the bank has scarcely been affected by the credit crisis.

Obama now has two million donors

WASHINGTON, 15 Aug — US Democratic presidential hopeful Barack Obama’s campaign announced on Thursday that it has reached a new milestone of 2 million individual donors. The presumptive Democratic nominee, harnessing the power of the Internet like no candidate before him, has been smashing all presidential fund-raising records. He had brought in about 340 million US dollars by the end of June. Since Obama is by passing public financing—while his Republican rival John McCain will accept about 84 million dollars in public money for the fall campaign — he will need to keep up the cash-raising pace. “Today we achieved something amazing—2,000,000 donors owning a piece of this campaign,” the message says on Obama’s contributor website. McCain, meanwhile, sent a fresh fund-raising appeal to his supporters on Thursday, saying he needs money to spend before September when he will be under public funding limits.—Internet

Prehistoric giant animals killed by man, not climate: study

The chance discovery of the remains of a prehistoric giant kangaroo has cast doubts on the long-held view that climate change drove it and other mega-fauna to extinction, a new study reveals. The research, published this week in the US-based journal Proceedings of the National Academy of Sciences, argues that man likely hunted to death the giant kangaroo and other very large animals on the southern island of Tasmania. The debate centres on the skull of a giant kangaroo found in a cave in the thick rainforest of the rugged northwest of Tasmania in 2000. Scientists dated the find at 41,000 years old, some 2,000 years after humans first began to live in the area.

Stone Age graveyard reveals “green Sahara”

The largest Stone Age graveyard found in the Sahara, which provides an unparalleled record of life when the region was green, has been discovered in Niger, an international team of archaeologists led by University of Chicago Professor Paul Sereno reported here on Thursday. The remarkable archaeological site, dating back 10,000 years and called Gobero after the Tuareg name for the area, was brimming with skeletons of humans and animals—including large fish and crocodiles. Gobero is hidden away within Niger’s forbidding Tenere Desert. The discovery of the lakeside graveyard—representing two successive human populations divided by more than 1,000 years —is reported in the Sept issue of National Geographic magazine and the on 14 Aug issue of the journal PLoS ONE.

American Airlines, European carriers in transatlantic flights tie-up

LONDON, 15 Aug—American Airlines, British Airways and Iberia of Spain said on Thursday they had signed a commercial agreement to co-operate over flights between North America and Europe to help overcome soaring fuel costs.

The three-way deal also comes as airlines worldwide seek to take advantage of the newly launched “open skies” agreement that has loosened restrictions on carriers flying between the United States and Europe. American Airlines, British Airways and Iberia on Thursday filed for worldwide anti-trust immunity from the US Department of Transportation over their tie-up, adding that they would also notify European Union regulators.

The three companies already form part of oneworld, an alliance comprising ten global airlines working to cut overheads. But the new deal was aimed at widening the scope to run more cost-efficient operations.

Oneworld said that it “warmly welcomed and strongly supports the application for anti-trust immunity.”

It added in a statement: “Anti-trust immunity between oneworld’s transatlantic partners would enable them to unlock even more of oneworld’s potential, enabling us to operate under the same rules as our alliance competitors” SkyTeam and Star.

Consumer prices up sharply, job market softens

WASHINGTON, 15 Aug — US inflation hit a 17-year high last month, underscoring the pressure on Americans who face soaring gasoline and food costs while their job prospects dim and incomes shrink.

A series of bleak reports on Thursday spotlighted the dilemma faced by Federal Reserve policymakers who have little room left to lower interest rates to help a weak economy and are hoping for price relief to avoid the need to raise rates soon to tamp down inflation.

The Labor Department said its Consumer Price Index, the most commonly used inflation gauge, rose 0.8 percent in July and year-over-year jumped 5.6 percent, the strongest 12-month advance since January 1991 when the first Gulf War was under way. Costlier energy and food helped push prices up at double the rate economists had expected last month, but since then oil prices have begun to decline. Some analysts said July might mark the worst of inflation pressures, but others noted the price gains hit a wide array of goods from clothing to airfares and cigarettes.—Internet

Female suicide bomber kills 18 Iraqi pilgrims

BAGHDAD, 15 Aug—A female suicide bomber on Thursday killed at least 18 Shiite pilgrims on their way to the holy city of Karbala, an Iraqi police source said.

The attack, near the town of Iskandariya, some 60 km south of Baghdad, also wounded 75 people, the source said on condition of anonymity.

Thousands of pilgrims were traveling to the holy city of Karbala, about 110 km south of the capital, to commemorate the birth in the 9th century of the Imam Muhammad al-Mahdi, last of 12 most revered Shiites Imams.

The suicide blast was the most critical after three female attackers killed more than 24 and injured over 62 on 28 July during a Shiite pilgrimage gathering in Baghdad. Violence has dramatically dropped in Iraq, the US military said, hitting a four-year low. —Internet

The grim toll included nine people slain during a prayer service.

A gang armed with

AK-47s sprayed the mass in a drug rehabilitation center with bullets late Wednesday in the border town of Ciudad Juarez, killing eight patients and their minister, police said.

At least five people were seriously injured in the shooting, as violence escalated in Mexico’s northern border regions, where drug gangs are fighting for territory.

After the shooting, the assassins left the scene and calmly passed a group of security forces, who did nothing to detain them, said a statement from the municipal office of public security, quoting witnesses.

Ancient artefacts excavated in Thazi Township

NAY PYI TAW, 15 Aug—The Archaeological, Natural Museum and Libraries Department under the Ministry of Culture unearthed ancient artefacts on bronze age and iron age near Kanthitgon Village on Chaukhwe Village-Samon Dam section of Thazi-Thabyewa Road in Bwechar Village-tract, Thazi Township, Meiktila District, Mandalay Division, in June 2008.

Foreign archaeologists once considered that in the early history, Myanmar was transferred from Stone Age into the Iron Age without flourishing of bronze culture. That thesis was proved wrong when many artefacts were excavated in such regions as Nyaungkan, Myin-U Hle, Hnawkan and Kukkokha that provided evidences of bronze culture in the country. And that was supported by the artefacts found in Kanthitgon Village.

Among the ancient objects found in Kanthitgon Village are a complete body with its head turning to the direction of west and eight complete bodies with their heads turning to the east along with some incomplete sets of bodies. There was also a tradition that dead bodies of pet animals were buried. Archaeological research was carried out in eight different places simultaneously, and the findings showed that the first and second bodies were buried at the same place. The bodies were all ages, child, middle age and old age.

The artefacts found in Kanthitgon Village included not only weapons of the Bronze Age but also that of the Iron Age. The artefacts of the Bronze Age were bronze arrow heads, bronze spears, bronze wire bundles, Khamauk (bamboo hat)-shape bronze cups, bronze floral works with letters "Ka" and "Ya" in combination embodied on them, stone beads, bone beads, different sizes of pots and plates, pots with four handles, and small pots with long necks. Seven iron spears were found. Iron artefacts were also found in Hnawkan, Myin-U Hle (Mahlaing), Htonebo (Pyawbwe), Ywahtin, Myohla (Yamethin), Nyaunggon (Meiktila), Kukkohla (Wundwin) and Hanlin (Shwebo). bodies were buried together with bronze and iron weapons.

The artefacts are an evidence of transition from bronze culture to iron culture in Myanmar.

Oil falls over $2 a barrel on profit taking

LONDON, 15 Aug — Oil fell more than two US dollars a barrel on Thursday, erasing most of Wednesday's gains, as faltering prospects for global economic growth prompted traders to take profits. Concerns about the security of energy transit routes through the Caucasus have provided some support, although analysts said the mood is still predominantly bearish.

US data on Wednesday showed a fall in crude and gasoline inventories after a number of precautionary refinery closures in response to Tropical Storm Edouard.

US crude was down

2.10 US dollars at 113.90 US dollars by 1625 GMT, off a high of 117.42 US dollars hit earlier in the session. London Brent fell 1.01 US dollars to 112.46 US dollars.

Oil prices rose on Wednesday after US Government data showed crude stocks in the world's top energy consumer dropped by 400,000 barrels last week, while gasoline inventories fell by 6.4 million barrels.

The fall in gasoline stocks was much larger than analysts' expectations of a 2.1-million-barrel decline. Distillate stocks also unexpectedly fell.

Olmert rejects return of any Palestinian refugees

JERUSALEM, 15 Aug — Prime Minister Ehud Olmert has told Palestinian President Mahmoud Abbas that Israel will not allow the return of any Palestinian refugees as part of a future statehood deal, Olmert's office said on Thursday.

The rare official statement was issued in response to reports Olmert proposed absorbing 2,000 refugees per year for 10 years as part of an agreement to establish a Palestinian state in most of the occupied West Bank and all of the Gaza Strip.

"The Prime Minister never offered to absorb 20,000 refugees in Israel. The Prime Minister again reiterates that under any future agreement, there will not be any return of Palestinian refugees to Israel in any number," Olmert's office said. There was no immediate comment from Palestinian officials.

Commander says Iran's Naval forces to protect Gulf

TEHERAN, 15 Aug—Commander of Iran's Navy Forces Habibollah Sattari said on Wednesday that Iran's naval forces are fully ready to protect the entire Gulf, the official IRNA news agency reported.

Sattari told reporters on the sidelines of his visit to a naval base in Sirjan, a city in southern province of Kerman.

The forces will defend the territory of the country as well as the sea borders powerfully, the report quoted Sattari as saying. He also said the country's naval forces are controlling and closely watching all movements in the region now.

The United States and its allies have accused Iran of trying to develop nuclear weapons under the cover of a civilian nuclear programme. Iran has denied the US charges and insists that its nuclear programme is for peaceful purposes only.

The Bush Administration has said it focused on diplomacy to try to resolve Iran's nuclear issue, but has insisted it will take "no option off the table". Some observers believe that it is possible that the United States and Israel would attack Iranian targets for Teheran's suspicious nuclear programme.

Missile false alarm goes off in central Japan

TOKYO, 15 Aug— A missile attack warning went off in local government offices in central Japan on Wednesday, but officials realized it was a false alarm before disaster teams were mobilized.

"This is information about a ballistic missile attack," a broadcast from the central government's Fire and Disaster Management Agency had said, with a red light blinking.

The warning turned out to be a test, accidentally broadcast to 20 government offices in Aichi prefecture because a volume switch had been left on. "We were worried at first, but a correction was broadcast before we could panic," a disaster management official for the prefecture said.

Australia launches campaign to stop copper theft

CANBERRA, 15 Aug—The theft of 4.2 kilometres of copper powerline in mountains near Sydney two months ago and thousands of other robberies prompted Australia on Thursday to launch a national effort to stop metals thieves.

Despite copper prices falling about 20 per cent from a record high set last month, thieves of semi-precious metals have created havoc across Australia since late last year, with more than 2,000 incidents reported to police. "Copper theft is not only dangerous to thieves involved. It's also putting the public's life at risk too by shutting down power supplies, trains and phone lines," national Home Affairs Minister Bob Debus said in a statement.

World copper prices have more than doubled since 2004 as demand soars in China and India, despite recent reversals. Copper hit a six-month low of 7,150 US dollars per ton in London on Tuesday for the benchmark three-month contracts. —MNA/Reuters

Van, Olympic bus collision kills two in Beijing

BEIJING, 15 Aug—Two people were killed and four others, including two Olympians, injured in a collision between a local cargo van and a bus from the Beijing Olympics fleet, an official announced here on Thursday.

The two slightly injured passengers on the bus were athletes representing Croatia, while the four people on the van, two killed and two wounded, were all Chinese, said Wang Wei, spokesman of the Beijing Organizing Committee of the 29th Olympic Games (BOCOG), at a Press conference held in the Games' Main Press Centre (MPC). The accident occurred at a crossroad at around 2 pm. Wednesday, when the Olympic bus, carrying two Croatian athletes, one Croatian coach, one volunteer and several other members of the Canadian and Australian delegations, was travelling from the Olympic Village to Shunyi, a suburban district of Beijing where the Olympic canoeing venues are located, said Wang.

All six injured were rushed to the hospital, where two succumbed to injury later. — MNA/Xinhua

Smoking doubles stroke risk in younger women

WASHINGTON, 15 Aug—Younger women who smoke have more than double the risk of stroke compared to nonsmokers, with the heaviest smokers among them having nine times the risk, according to a US study published on Thursday.

The research assessed stroke risk in women 15 to 49 years old who smoked cigarettes. Current smokers were 2.6 times as likely to have a stroke than women who never smoked, according to researchers led by Dr John Cole of the University of Maryland School of Medicine in Baltimore.

It has been known for a long time that smoking increases the risk of stroke, along with many other health dangers such as lung and other types of cancer, lung disease and heart disease.

But Cole said less was known about how stroke risk was affected by the number of cigarettes a person smokes.

Strokes typically occur in people older than this study population but the research demonstrated that, even in younger women, stroke risk is greatly increased.—Internet

Argentina investigates deaths of vaccine kids

BUENOS AIRES, 15 Aug—Argentine authorities are exploring a possible link between the deaths of 14 children and an experimental vaccine they were taking in a clinical trial run by GlaxoSmithKline.

Argentina's food and drug administration is investigating whether the deaths are tied to the Synflorix vaccine, said an agency official who spoke on condition of anonymity because he was not authorized to discuss the case.

The drug, designed to fight pneumonia, ear infections and several other pneumococcal diseases, was manufactured by the London-based GlaxoSmithKline PLC, the world's second-largest drug maker.

A US spokeswoman for Glaxo, Sarah Alspach, said the company is not attributing the deaths to the experimental vaccine, which is being tested in three Latin American countries and in other countries around the world.

An independent board monitoring participants' safety recommended that the Latin American trials be temporarily suspended "which they were in late June" but then gave its OK for tests to resume, she added.—Internet

Pollution killing 21,000 Canadians this year: report

OTTAWA, 15 Aug—Air pollution this year will kill more than 20,000 Canadians, the Canadian Medical Association said on Wednesday in a report.

The research on the human costs of pollution and pollution-related diseases estimated that around 21,000 people in Canada will die from breathing in toxic substances drifting in the air this year.

By 2031, short term exposure to air pollution will claim close to 90,000 lives in Canada, while long-term exposure will kill more than 700,000, the report said.

"Ontario and Quebec residents are the worst hit Canadians, with 70 percent of the premature deaths occurring in Central Canada, even though these two provinces comprise only 62 percent of Canada's population," the report said. Not all the blame for air pollution falls on Canada, however.

"Canada gets a fair bit of pollution from the American midwest, which drifts north, comes across through Ontario and continues right on through to Quebec," CMA legal advisor Ted Boadway told reporters at the report's presentation.

Half of overweight adults may be heart-healthy

CHICAGO, 15 Aug—You can look great in a swimsuit and still be a heart attack waiting to happen. And you can also be overweight and otherwise healthy.

A new study suggests that a surprising number of overweight people "about half" have normal blood pressure and cholesterol levels, while an equally startling number of trim people suffer from some of the ills associated with obesity.

The first national estimate of its kind bolsters the argument that you can be hefty but still healthy, or at least healthier than has been believed.

The results also show that stereotypes about body size can be misleading, and that even "less voluptuous" people can have risk factors commonly associated with obesity, said study author MaryFran Sowers, a University of Michigan obesity researcher.

"We're really talking about taking a look with a very different lens" at weight and health risks, Sowers said.

In the study, about 51 percent of overweight adults, or roughly 36 million people nationwide, had mostly normal levels of blood pressure, cholesterol, blood fats called triglycerides and blood sugar.

Almost one-third of obese adults, or nearly 20 million people, also were in this healthy range, meaning that none or only one of those measures was abnormal.

Researchers find gene link to colon cancer: study

WASHINGTON, 15 Aug—US researchers have discovered a genetic trait that shows the strongest link yet to colorectal cancer, the number-two cancer killer in the United States, according to a study published on Thursday.

If a person inherits this gene, his or her risk of getting colon cancer is 50 percent higher than the the six percent risk in the general population, said the research by doctors at Northwestern University, published in the journal Science.

"This probably accounts for more colorectal cancers than all other gene mutations discovered thus far," said Boris Pasche, a lead author of the paper.

The trait, which has been named TGFBR1 ASE, results in decreased production of a key receptor for TGF-beta, the most potent inhibitor of cell growth, the findings said.

With less of this vital protective substance to inhibit cell growth, colon cancer can more easily develop, it said.

Doctors debate when to declare organ donors dead

NEW YORK, 15 Aug—A report on three heart transplants involving babies is focusing attention on a touchy issue in the organ donation field: When and how can someone be declared dead?

For decades, organs have typically been removed only after doctors determine that a donor's brain has completely stopped working. In the case of the infants, all three were on life support and showed little brain function, but they didn't meet the criteria for brain death.

With their families' consent, the newborns were taken off ventilators and surgeons in Denver removed their hearts minutes after they stopped beating.

The hearts were successfully transplanted, and the babies who got the hearts survived. "It seemed like there was an unmet need in two situations," said Dr Mark Boucek, who led the study at Children's Hospital in Denver. "Recipients were dying while awaiting donor organs. And we had children dying whose family wanted to donate, and we weren't able to do it."

The procedure—called donation after cardiac death—is being encouraged by the federal government, organ banks and others as a way to make more organs available and give more families the option to donate.

Malaysia's advertising market rises 22% in first half

KUALA LUMPUR, 15 Aug—Malaysia's advertising market grew 22 percent during the first half of the year to 2.9 billion ringgit (873.49 million US dollars), driven by strong growth in terrestrial television (TV), point-of-sale, radio and newspapers, local media reported on Thursday.

However, the industry is not likely to continue to grow at a similar rate for the remaining 2008 due to a tougher business environment brought on by soaring oil prices and a slower global economy, the New Straits Times quoted Nielsen Advertising Information Services as saying.

"(Nevertheless) upcoming events such as the 2008 Beijing Olympics and local festivals will help support a good growth for the entire 2008," Nielsen Media executive director Andrea Douglas said in a statement here on Wednesday.

The growth for the first half of 2008 was driven by the flow from last year of new products and service launch campaigns, local market-ing events such as the general election and Euro 2008, Douglas said.

A record-tying start for Heintz, Laird at Wyndham

GREENSBORO (NC), 15 Aug— Bob Heintz isn't concerned about playing his way into next week's FedEx Cup playoffs. Of more pressing concern is simply keeping his spot on the PGA Tour.

Heintz and rookie Martin Laird got off to a good start at the Wyndham Championship, matching the course record Thursday with 7-under 63s at Sedgefield Country Club to share the lead after the first round of pro golf's last event before the start of the FedEx Cup playoffs.

They joined three other players who previously shot 63s at the Donald Ross-designed course ó nobody had done it since Gary Player in 1970, although the pros haven't played Sedgefield since 1976 ó and surpassed the venue's opening-round record by one stroke.

Garrett Willis birdied his final five holes to join Scott Sterling, Tim Clark and Carl Pettersson one stroke back at 64. Steve Marino, Bob Sowards, Ken Duke and Scott McCarron were two strokes behind at 65.—Internet

Australian study says Red
Bull drink lifts stroke risk

CANBERRA, 15 Aug — Just one can of the popular stimulant energy drink Red Bull can increase the risk of heart attack or stroke, even in young people, Australian medical researchers said on Friday.

The caffeine-loaded beverage, popular with university students and adrenaline sport fans to give them “wings”, caused the blood to become sticky, a pre-cursor to cardiovascular problems such as stroke.

“One hour after they drank Red Bull, (their blood systems) were no longer normal. They were abnormal like we would expect in a patient with cardiovascular disease,” Scott Willoughby, lead researcher from the Cardiovascular Research Centre at the Royal Adelaide Hospital, told the Australian newspaper.

Red Bull Australia spokeswoman Linda Rychter said the report would be assessed by the company's head office in Austria. —MNA/Reuters

Spices may lessen consequences of high blood sugar

NEW YORK, 15 Aug— People with diabetes may want to start spicing up their diets, if new lab research findings prove true in humans.

In test-tube experiments, researchers at the University of Georgia, Athens, found that extracts of various herbs and spices — such as cinnamon, cloves, sage and rosemary — inhibited a damaging process that can result from high blood sugar levels. When blood sugar is high, as is chronically the case in diabetes, it can lead to the formation of substances known as AGE compounds. These compounds, in turn, cause inflammation and tissue damage, which can contribute to the clogged arteries and heart disease commonly associated with diabetes.
