Boost per acre yield of paddy through full exploitation of resources

Myanmar is an agro-based country. The government has been implementing plans for boosting agricultural production, extending sown acreage, enhancing quality of crops and establishing model plantations as the population increases in the country.

The model plantations include 30-acre Hsinyadana monsoon paddy of regional battalion at the Nay Pyi Taw Pinlaung junction. The plantations are established for farmers in Nay Pyi Taw to practically grow paddy, to earn double income and to raise their living standard.

Agriculturalists will disseminate ten scientific cultivation techniques that can yield 200 baskets of paddy per acre and scientific scattering of seeds so that the farmers can gain a lot of advantages in cultivation.

Hsinyadana high yield paddy was grown on 10 July 2008 and the paddy can be harvested after 80 days from cultivation time. Its per acre yield is over 200 baskets.

The government is making efforts for development of the agricultural sector in the interest of the people with the application of modern cultivation techniques. The farmers on their part are to endeavour for boosting agricultural production.

Suicide bomber kills 10 Iraqis during US raid

MOSUL, Iraq, 5 Oct—A suicide bomber detonated an explosive vest during a US raid in northern Iraq on Sunday killing 10 Iraqis and the bomber, the US military said.

Three women and three children were among those killed during the operation targeting a wanted man in Mosul, some 390 km (240 miles), north of Baghdad.

The statement said that US forces exchanged fire with armed men as they entered the building, but a military spokesman said all the Iraqis were killed by the bomb. The US soldiers later found weapons and explosives in the building, the statement said.—Internet

British commander says war in Afghanistan cannot be won

LONDON, 5 Oct—Britain’s commander in Afghanistan has said the war against the Taliban cannot be won, the Sunday Times reported.

It quoted Brigadier Mark Carlton-Smith as saying in an interview that if the Taliban were willing to talk, then that might be “precisely the sort of progress” needed to end the insurgency.

“We’re not going to win this war. It’s about reducing it to a manageable level of insurgency that’s not a strategic threat and can be managed by the Afghan Army,” he said.

He said his forces had “taken the sting out of the Taliban for 2008” but that troops may well leave Afghanistan with there still being a low level of insurgency.—Internet

China quality watchdog says new liquid milk supplies melamine free

BEIJING, 5 Oct— The latest sample test detected no melamine in newly supplied liquid milk on China’s market, the country’s quality watchdog said Saturday.

Samples of 609 batches of liquid milk from 27 cities across China were found free of melamine, said the General Administration of Quality Supervision, Inspection and Quarantine (AQSIQ).

Altogether 75 brands were sampled for the test, including top-selling ones such as Yili, Mengniu, Bright Dairy, Sanyuan and Wandashan, according to the AQSIQ.

The test was the sixth in China after the tainted milk powder scandal erupted last month. A total of 2,093 batches of liquid milk under 115 brands, among other dairy products, have been checked since then, said the AQSIQ.

A nationwide inspection of baby milk powder was ordered on 11 Sept after media reports that products from Sanlu and other Chinese brands contained melamine.

Testing has been broadened from baby formula to other types of milk products.

Natural heritage and promotes greener and smarter cities.

People live in harmony, and where healthy living conditions coexist with low levels of energy consumption, resource-use and waste. As we observe the growth and expansion of urban areas comes at the expense of the natural environment.

The Millennium Development Goals call for a significant improvement in the lives of at least 100 million slum dwellers by 2020. As of 2005, slightly more than one third of the urban population in developing regions lived in slum conditions. In sub-Saharan Africa, the proportion was over 60 percent, meaning that large investments will be necessary, for example to provide access to water, sanitation, durable housing or sufficient living space. But even in that region, and in others where deprivation is not as acute, simple, low-cost interventions could go a long way.

Cities have tremendous potential to be places where balanced development prevails, where diverse people live in harmony, and where healthy living conditions coexist with low levels of energy consumption, resource-use and waste. As we observe World Habitat Day, I call on all partners and stakeholders to do our utmost to realize this potential, and to build decent living conditions for all women, men and children in a way that also preserves our natural heritage and promotes greener and smarter growth. — UNIC

Salmonella sickens people in 12 states

WASHINGTON, 5 Oct — The government is urging consumers to thoroughly cook frozen chicken dinners after 32 people in 12 states were sickened with salmonella poisoning.

The health warning by the US Department of Agriculture cited frozen dishes in which the chicken is raw, but breaded or pre-browned, giving the appearance of being cooked. They include “chicken cordon bleu,” “chicken Kiev,” or chicken breasts stuffed with cheese, vegetables or other items.

The department said consumers should cook chicken products to a minimum internal temperature of 165 degrees Fahrenheit. US Department of Agriculture’s Food Safety and Inspection Service issued the warning Friday after Minnesota health officials found a link between the chicken dinners with salmonella illnesses reported in Minnesota and 11 other states.

Afghanistan, Pakistan split over US presidential hopes

ISLAMABAD, 5 Oct — From Pakistani tribesmen to violence-weighed Afghans there are hopes but few expectations, on the frontline of the “war on terror”, that the next US president can solve the problem of Islamic militancy.

US military incursions in Pakistan have made next month’s US election a big deal in the nuclear-armed nation, while Afghanismering in its eighthyear as host to thousands of American troops fighting the Taliban and Al-Qaeda.

But with Democratic candidate Barack Obama and Republican John McCain split on what is increasingly a key foreign policy issue in the White House race, opinions are divided in this corner of the world too. Afghans largely welcome Obama’s pledge, made in a recent debate with McCain, to “take out” extremist havens in Pakistan — while Pakistanis resent it.

“We do not expect any positive change in US policy towards tribal areas, but Obama’s gestures are aggressive,” said Malik Habibullah Khan, a tribal elder from the remote Pakistani region of Bajaur.

His tribe joined an anti-Taliban military operation launched by the Army last month — but it has also pledged to take up arms against US forces which intrude into Pakistani territory. — Internet

Elderly turtle pair fails to produce offspring

SUZHOU, (China) 5 Oct — She’s around 80 years old. He’s 100. Breathless scientists watched as the world’s most endangered turtles successfully mated.

But the attempt to breed the species’ last known female with the last known male in China has failed because the eggs didn’t hatch, disappointed conservationists said Saturday.

The elderly pair can try again next year, part of a delicate attempt to keep the species alive.

The only female was found in a Chinese zoo just last year after a long and desperate search. She was quickly protected with a surveillance camera, a guard and bulletproof glass, and given the nickname “China Girl.” — Internet

Skydivers make unprecedented jump over Everest

KATHMANDU, 5 Oct — Three skydivers made the first ever parachute jump over Mount Everest on Sunday, organizers and participants said, culminating years of preparation.

About 32 skydivers from more than 10 countries including Britain, Canada, the United States and New Zealand have been in the Everest region since last week to jump from an aircraft flying 465 feet higher than the Everest summit.

On Sunday, Wendy Smith of New Zealand, Holly Badger of Britain and Neil Jones (Canadian/ British) made the leap, said Krishna Aryal, an official of the Explore Himalaya, the agency that provided the logistics. “They looked like tiny birds flying in the blue sky as they jumped from the plane,” Aryal, who saw the jump from Syangboche in the Everest region, told Reuters. “This is the first of its kind and has never been tried before.”

All three were in freefall for nearly half a minute and then opened their canopies before landing at a flat drop zone after crusing over the mountain, Aryal said.

Palm makes first California appearance after nomination, criticizing Obama

LOS ANGELES, 5 Oct — US Republican vice presidential candidate Sarah Palin on Saturday made a speech at a jammed tennis stadium near Los Angeles, criticizing Democratic presidential nominee Barack Obama.

In her first appearance in California after McCain chose her as his running mate more than a month ago, Palin demonstrated a folksy and feisty manner.

She told the crowded audience that her father was born in Los Angeles and her paternal grandfather was a photographer who lived in North Hollywood.

“From all the vows she made as a would-be vice president, an important highlight of the speech was her criticism of Obama’s past dealings with a former bomber, questioning his stance on terrorism.”

“Our opponent is someone who sees America as imperfection enough to pal around with terrorists who targeted their own country,” said Palin amid another chorus of boos. — Internet

RI hospital group says doc operated on wrong knee

State health officials were investigating how a surgeon operated on the wrong knee of a patient on Friday at the Miriam Hospital, part of a medical network that was reprimanded and fined $50,000 last year for three mistaken surgeries at another of its facilities.

The latest mistake happened while a surgeon performed a knee arthroscopy, a procedure in which doctors insert a pencil-sized camera into the knee so they can diagnose a malady. In some cases, surgeons will repair or remove damaged tissue.

After the operation was complete, the surgeon realized the mistake and operated on the correct knee, hospital officials said.

Kyangin Township Forest Department U Aye Win said that when Phyo Si Thu Trading Co Ltd made an offer to establish a teak plantation, he encouraged it to do; and that he pledged he would provide assistance.

In the evening, I happened to hold a green tea party with local senior citizens. U Sit Ko, 75, said, “Our village is far away from urban cities. We were all happy with the teak plantation because that created job opportunities. Young people can work in their home places.”

U Mar Din, 80, said trees keep meteorological conditions good and the soil wet. So, that helps crops grow well.

Establishment of tree plantations without infringing the environment helps improve the long-term benefits from the teak plantations.

Forester U Thura Kyaw said that teak trees were grown at the rate of 540 an acre; that 96 per cent of the teak saplings were successful; that on average, a teak sapling grown in 2007-2008 was more than six feet high; that up to that time 1500 acres had been put under teak for 2008-2009 and the teak saplings were thriving; that the department would render technical assistance to establish a 1500-acre teak plantation in 2009-2010; and that he believed that the teak farm would be successful.

General Manager U Kyaw Soe of Phyo Si Thu Trading Co Ltd said that they trained local people to establish teak plantations; that he also disseminated agricultural methods at work; and that he was pleased to help improve the social and economic development of local people; that he would provide assistance to those who were interested in farming teak; and that if someone wanted to ask him for methods of growing teak, they would be all welcomed.

Staff Officer of

I felt relaxed and refreshed just as I entered the green teak plantation. Local people can enjoy long-term benefits from the teak plantations.

General Manager U Kyaw Soe of Phyo Si Thu Trading Co Ltd.

The role of forests and trees has become more important because the world has been under the threat of global warming. Trees can reduce global warming, so we are interested in growing trees. Teak is globally considered to be the best, and it grows well in our country, so I chose teak. The Ministry of Forestry gave me encouragement to establish a 1500-acre teak plantation in 2009-2010; and that he believed that the teak farm would be successful.

Vanishing African wildlife threatens livelihoods: scientists

CAPE TOWN, 5 Oct—Africa’s rich abundance of life seems inexhaustible, but growing pressure on animals and plants could lead to greater poverty, more wars and migration to other continents, experts warned.

From fish in Burkina Faso, to Ethiopian wild coffee, Kenyan forests and traditional medicine plants in the Congo, the continent’s natural resources are being threatened by human activity and climate change, experts say.

“If Africa’s systems degrade and human wellbeing becomes an issue, cycles of poverty, violence and wars will get worse,” John Donaldson of South Africa’s National Biodiversity Institute told AFP.

He was speaking on the sidelines of a conference in Cape Town that gathered over 300 policymakers, scientists, and activists from 15 African countries and Germany to discuss research into the protection of plants and animals around the continent.

Google, Yahoo delay ad partnership due to federal investigations

LOS ANGELES, 5 Oct—Internet giants Google Inc and Yahoo Inc have agreed to delay implementing an advertising partnership to give the United States Department of Justice time to finish investigating the proposed deal, said the San Francisco Chronicle on Saturday.

The decision marks an abrupt turnaround for Google CEO Eric Schmidt, who had recently said that he planned to start supplying ads to Yahoo’s search engine sometime in early October, even if federal regulators had yet to give their approval, according to the source.

In a statement issued on Friday, Google said: “When we announced our advertising agreement with Yahoo in June, we agreed to delay its implementation until October to give regulators time to look at the details. As we are still in conversation with the Department of Justice, we have agreed to a brief delay in implementing the agreement while those discussions continue. The two companies are now in an indefinite holding pattern, raising more questions about whether the government plans to try to prevent the No 1 and No 2 search engines from cooperating, said the Chronicle.

Investigators said all the victims had been beaten before being executed, and two of them were beheaded.

Six villagers killed in clash at Mexico ruins

SAN CRISTOBAL DE LAS casas, (MEXICO), 5 Oct—Police clashed with hundreds of villagers who seized the entrance to a Mayan archaeological site and six protesters were killed, state officials said Saturday.

Protesters fought police with sticks, rocks and machetes, according to the state Justice Department. Protesters managed to wrest guns away from some officers and poured gasoline on others, threatening to set them on fire, the department said.

Six protesters were killed in Friday’s raid, and two dozen other people were injured, including 16 police, the department said.

Ferguson demands Man Utd winning football run

LONDON, 5 Oct—Alex Ferguson demanded a lengthy winning streak from his Manchester United side to stop leaders Chelsea and Liverpool from stealing their English Premier League crown.

The fiery Scot insisted his Champions League-winning team stamp their superiority over the tricky mid-table sides as Arsenal lost further points early in the title race.

While United won 2-0 at Blackburn Rovers on Saturday, Arsenal needed a last-ditch equaliser to scramble a 1-1 draw at Sunderland.

Ferguson said a run of victories like the one that carried the Red Devils to the title last season was required to keep their rivals at bay.

“We’re capable of that. We have to do that in terms of keeping up with Chelsea and Liverpool, that’s obvious,” he said.

“It’s not an easy league this. You see Arsenal dropped a couple of points because there’s a lot of grounds you can go to and lose points.—Internet

Inter win to join uninspired Lazio at top

ROME, 5 Oct—Inter Milan beat lowly Bologna 2-1 at the San Siro to join Lazio at the top of Serie A after the Romans were held to a 1-1 home draw by Lecce on Saturday.

An exquisite Zlatan Ibrahimovic finish and an Adriano penalty gave champions Inter the spoils against Bologna, who pulled a goal back through Vaggelis Moras.

At the Stadio Olimpico, veteran striker Simone Inzaghi scored a minute from time to salvage a point for league leaders Lazio, who remain top on goal difference, after Simone Tiribocchi had given Lecce a first-half lead.

In Milan, Ibrahimovic could have put Inter in front sooner than he did but Francesco Antonioli saved the Sweden striker’s shot when he went through one-on-one. But Jose Mourinho’s men were in front on 25 minutes after Adriano beat his man down the left and crossed for Ibrahimovic to flick the ball with the outside of his boot past Antonioli despite facing the wrong way.—Internet

Six-goal Barcelona demolish sorry Atletico

BARCELONA, 5 Oct — Barcelona underlined their Spanish title credentials on Saturday with a 6-1 thrashing of Atletico Madrid who never recovered from conceding three goals in a breathtaking first ten minutes.

If the game was billed as Lionel Messi against Sergio Aguero then there was only one winner, but it wasn’t just Messi who split Atletico open at the Nou Camp.

Rafa Marquez sent Barca on their way with a flicked header from a corner after three minutes and then Samuel Eto’o scored the first of his brace.

Quick thinking at a free-kick allowed Messi to place the ball into an empty net as goalkeeper Gregory Coupet was still constructing the wall as the avalanche continued.

Maxi Rodriguez offered some relief after 13 minutes with a well-taken shot for Atletico but Barca then scored two more before half-time from Eto’o and Eidur Gudjohnsen.

In the second half, with the game won, Barcelona coach Pep Guardiola made several substitutions and Thierry Henry came off the bench to score perhaps the best strike of the game with a well-worked go. Internet

World-famous ancient Mogao Grottoes to be lightened

LANZHOU, 5 Oct— Tourists to world-famous Mogao Grottoes in Dunhuang, in northwestern China’s Gansu Province, might see ancient paintings and statues on interior walls more clearly as the management plans to introduce modern lights into the caves.

The Dunhuang Academy have begun an experiment by installing lights in some caves including No. 16 and No. 148 to see if the ancient paintings and other cultural relics would suffer damages from lights. Before the experiment, tourists could only see the paintings with flashlight operated by tour guides.

If the results of the experiment proved to be positive, modern illumination will be installed next year in all the caves that were open to tourists, sources with the academy said. The 1,600-year-old Mogao Grottoes, which became a World Heritage designation in 1987, have more than 2,000 coloured sculptures and 45,000 square metres of frescoes. —MNA/Xinhua

ISS ready to accommodate world’s sixth space tourist in eight days

MOSCOW 5 Oct—The orbital path of the International Space Station (ISS) was successfully adjusted Saturday to accommodate the landing of the world’s sixth space tourist in eight days time, Interfax reported citing Russian space programme officials.

“The maneuvre was conducted automatically,” said an official from the Russian space control centre (TSOUP).

The ISS had to change its distance from Earth — now 353 kilometres (200 miles) after the 1.25-kilometre adjustment — to create optimal conditions for the arrival of a Russian Soyuz rocket carrying Russian cosmonaut Yuri Lonchakov, US astronaut Michael Fincke and the tourist Richard Garriott. The Soyuz TMA-13 is due to be launched from Kazakhstan on 12 October.

Multi-millionaire US businessman Garriott is the son of US astronaut Owen Garriott.
