NAY PYI TAW, 11 Nov – Maj-Gen Tha Aye of the Ministry of Defence together with Chairman of Taninthayi Division Peace and Development Council Commander of Coastal Region Command Maj-Gen Khin Zaw Oo on 7 November viewed demonstration on harvesting of monsoon paddy with the use of farm equipment at the 10-acre field of Farmer U Tin Win in Thabyechaung village of Dawei District and inspected high yielding paddy strains displayed at the agriculture education booth of Myanma Agriculture Service.

Next, Maj-Gen Tha Aye looked into demonstration on direct seedling method at the farmland of Farmer Daw Kyar Nyunt of Thabyechaung village, construction of Sluice Gate being carried out by the Ministry of Agriculture and Irrigation at Khabaungghla creek and Technological University (Dawei).

Afterwards, Maj-Gen Tha Aye and party inspected thriving mixed-cropping at Yebyu Township (See page 8)

Alonso wants to win trophies with Liverpool

LIVERPOOL, 11 Nov—Xabi Alonso is not planning about a move away from Liverpool and his good form also means manager Rafa Benitez is also happy with the midfielder, who was fiercely linked with a move out of Anfield in the summer.

The 26-year-old was lacklustre last season and saw himself fall behind Javier Mascherano and Lucas in the pecking order, but ever since the summer where he was part of Spain's European championship winning squad, Alonso has given consistently good performances.

Alonso, who had joined the Reds from Real Sociedad in 2004, has been part of Benitez's side for the Champions League and FA Cup triumphs and has now expressed his hunger to win more medals with the Merseysiders, who are currently the joint-leaders in the Premiership.

Alonso told the official LFC Magazine: "I have taken a lot of confidence from our success with Spain in the summer.—Internet

Henry dismisses exit rumours

BARCELONA, 11 Nov—Thierry Henry has dismissed reports linking him with Chelsea and has pledged to stay at Barcelona.

The France striker moved from Arsenal to Barcelona in the 2007 summer, but has been linked with a return to England due to his struggle at Camp Nou to get regular football and at being played in wide position than his favoured centre-forward role.

"I am very clear about this and I am happy here. I do not see myself playing in England. I could maybe do some great things in England, but I have not won anything with Barça and I have to stay," the 31-year-old told Catalan television's Hora Q programme.

"It is not that I really want the Champions League, it is because I want to win the league and Copa del Rey".

"I am happy, yes. I have said so many times. I like the city, the food and the climate."

Henry, who has a legendary status with his former club Arsenal where he is the all-time leading goal-scorer for the north London outfit, also claimed that he has accepted the difference in the role he has to play at Camp Nou where Cameroon ace Samuel Eto'o plays in the central striker position.

"I do not want to enter into this debate again. At Arsenal that coach asked me to do different things. I used to run in behind the defence and here they want me out wide," he added.

Hear Samaññaphala Sutta on Fullmoon Day of Tazaungmon

The Myanmar month “Tazaungmon” falls in the transitional period between the rainy season and the cold season. In the period, it is neither very hot nor very cold, and creeks, rivers, seas and oceans keep serene because there are no strong winds. And in the paddy fields, paddy grains become mature in the period.

It is more pleasant and brighter on the Fullmoon Day of Tazaungmon than full moon day of any other month. The sky is very clear and all stars appear in the sky at night in the month of Tazaungmon.

At sunset of a Tazaungmon Fullmoon Day, King Ajatasat of Rajagjo paid homage to the Lord Buddha and asked Him for an appropriate sermon. In response to the request, the Buddha expounded the sermon on Samaññaphala Sutta, which means the benefits of attaining monkhood.

Since he heard the sermon on the benefits of attaining monkhood, the king had taken refuge and had deepest belief in the Three Gems. Referring to the expounding of the sermon of Samaññaphala Sutta, Fullmoon Day of Tazaungmon is designated as Samaññaphala Day.

Since the time of the Exalted One, Buddhists have been celebrating the Kathina-robe offering ceremony in the month of Tazaungmon. A monk who is offered Kathina robes can enjoy five kinds of benefits from the donation of Kathina robes, and donors can enjoy the benefits of offering Kathina robes to members of the Sangha.

Buddhists are, therefore, exhorted to hear the sermon of Samaññaphala Sutta, offer Kathina robes, and practise meditation on Fullmoon Day of Tazaungmon, the most significant and pleasant day of a year, in order to enjoy fruitful results of good deeds in this very life and in the future existences.

US troops kill 14 Afghans in disputed encounter

KABUL, 11 Nov—American soldiers shot and killed 14 security guards after an encounter in eastern Afghanistan, and the Afghan president said Monday he feared the deaths would only discredit his own government in the eyes of its people.

The US coalition said its troops shot at three vehicles carrying armed men in the eastern Khost province Sunday only after its occupants opened fire on their forces.

“There were secondary explosions in the vehicles, and 14 armed men were killed. Numerous ammunition belts and small-arms weapons were recovered from the vehicles,” a statement from the US military said Monday.

The military said it has launched a joint investigation with Afghan authorities. President Hamid Karzai, in a statement issued Monday, said those killed were private security guards working for a road construction company.

“Carrying out such attacks will only expand the gap between the people and the government of Afghanistan, as well as between Afghanistan and its international allies,” Karzai said.

The US has been blamed in a number of civilian deaths that the Afghan government complains undermine Karzai’s standing and turn ordinary Afghans against American and NATO troops.—Internet

Obama seeks new approach in Afghanistan

WASHINGTON, 11 Nov—President-elect Barack Obama plans to try a more regional approach to the war in Afghanistan including possible talks with Iran, The Washington Post reported on Tuesday, citing national security advisers to Obama.

The president-elect also intends to move ahead with a planned deployment of thousands of additional US troops to Afghanistan and refocus on the hunt for al Qaeda leader Osama bin Laden, the newspaper reported.

However, the Obama team is far from working out how to bring bin Laden back to the forefront of the US counterterrorism agenda, The Washington Post reported.

Obama received his first high-level intelligence briefing as president-elect last week.

While emphasizing the importance of continuing US operations against Pakistan-based Taliban fighters who attack US forces in Afghanistan, the incoming administration intends to remind Americans about the fight against Islamist extremists and the September 11 attacks, the newspaper said.—Internet

Bombs kill two, wound 15 in Baghdad

BAGHDAD, 11 Nov—Iraqi police say two roadside bombs have exploded in quick succession during the morning rush hour in Baghdad, killing two people and wounding 15 others.

Security officials say one bomb blew up early Tuesday near a truck delivering newspapers on Palestine Street in the Shiite eastern section of the Iraqi capital.

The second blast struck a line of newspaper vendors waiting nearby to collect the papers to supply neighbourhood newsstands. It was not immediately clear how many people were killed in each blast but authorities say the total number of dead is two and that 15 were wounded.—Internet

Two anti-Qaida fighters killed, 18 injured in suicide attack in NE Baghdad

BAGHDAD, 11 Nov—Two Awakening Council group fighters were killed and 18 people injured in a suicide attack on Monday at a checkpoint in the city of Baquba, capital of the volatile province of Diyala, a provincial police source said.

The incident occurred shortly before midday when a woman blew up her explosive-vest at a checkpoint manned by Awakening Council fighters in central Baquba, some 65 km northeast of Baghdad, the source told Xinhua on condition of anonymity.

One of the killed was identified later as Ahmed al-Azawi, a head of the Awakening Council groups in the city, the source said, adding that the wounded were fighters and civilians.

The powerful blast also caused damages to several nearby shops and civilian cars, the source said.

Iraqi security forces immediately sealed off the main roads leading to the scene and began to evacuate the casualties, he added.

Three killed in Albania's apartment building collapse

TIRANA, 11 Nov — Three people were killed in Sunday's apartment building collapse in a southern Albanian city, local media reported on Monday.

Rescue workers on Monday dug out three bodies from the rubble of the collapsed building in Gjirokastra, 225 kilometres south of the capital city of Tirana.

The victims are a 65-year-old woman, a little girl aged 13 and her 38-year-old mother, Albania's TV network News 24 said.

Last September, Israel sent fighters to blow down an establishment at Syrian Al-Kibar, claiming it to be Syria's base of secret nuclear weapon development.

The United States provided IAEA intelligence this May, confirming Israel's accusation. This establishment would be for developing nuclear explosive material Plutonium and put into operation shortly, according to the US intelligence. —Internet

Rising health costs drive Americans to seek medical treatment overseas

LOS ANGELES, 11 Nov — Rising health costs and dwindling insurance coverage are driving hundreds of thousands of Americans to travel far to seek crucial treatment overseas in order to avoid potentially devastating medical bills, a newspaper report said Monday. Although there is little data on the safety of such medial travels, there is no question that the number of patients considering foreign treatment is increasing, the Sacramento Bee daily quoted a medical expert as saying.

"In the US, it's getting to be pretty Darwinian in terms of who lives and who dies," Arnold Milstein, chief physician at Mercer Health and Benefits, which advises companies on medical insurance, told the newspaper.

Wayne King, an insurance adjuster who flew to Malaysia ten months ago to get two artificial disks to ease the grinding pain in his back, paid about 27,000 dollars for the treatment, including surgery, hospitalization, hotels and airfare. Iran: Talks show US-backed peace process' failure

TEHERAN, 11 Nov— Iran's foreign ministry says the Mideast Quartet meeting last weekend in Egypt proves that the US initiative for peace in the region has failed.

After Sunday's gathering in Sharm el-Sheik, both Israel and the Palestinians pledged to continue the peace process that President Bush launched last November in Annapolis, Md. But the year-end target for a deal appears unlikely to be met.

Iranian ministry spokesman Hasan Qashqavi says the meeting spelled the "failure of Annapolis" and was just another in 19 Mideast trips by Secretary of State Condoleezza Rice. Iran opposes the US-backed Israeli-Palestinian talks. Teheran supports the militant Palestinian Hamas rather than the moderate Fatah, which is talking to Israel. —Internet

Industrial employment in Brazil grows 0.1% in September

RIO DE JANEIRO, 11 Nov—The industrial employment rate in Brazil grew 0.1 percent in September compared with August, and was up 2.2 percent year-on-year, according to a monthly employment study released by the Brazilian Institute of Geography and Statistics (IBGE) Monday.

The year-on-year employment rate in the industrial sector rose 2.7 percent from January to September 2008. From October 2007 to September 2008, the rate registered a 2.9-percent growth compared with the previous 12 months.

The sectors which enjoyed the highest growth in employment rate were machinery and equipments, up 10.2 percent, electronics and communication devices, which also rose 10.2 percent, and transportation, with a 8.2 percent increase.

The highest increases were registered in the states of Sao Paulo, with 2.6 percent, Minas Gerais, with 5.2 percent, and Rio Grande do Sul, 3.3 percent. However, employment in the wood and clothing industries suffered the sharpest reduction, falling by 11.3 percent and 7.1 percent respectively.

EU FMs agree to resume negotiations with Russia

BRUSSELS, 11 Nov—Foreign ministers from the European Union's 27 nations decided here on Monday to relaunch suspended negotiations with Russia despite opposition by Lithuania.

"We have found a good way to proceed," said EU External Relations Commissioner Benita Ferrero-Waldner after emerging from a meeting of EU foreign ministers.

"We think it is time to resume the talks," said the commissioner, adding that no date was set.

A mandate that the EU's executive Commission has to restart the negotiations on a new Cooperation and Partnership Agreement with Russia doesn't need a consensus among all the 27 EU members.

"Twenty-six out of 27 is not so bad as a majority and secondly it was not necessary to vote," said French Foreign Minister Bernard Kouchner, whose country is holding the EU presidency, because of the commission's mandate.

Major gas exporters to meet in Doha this week

TEHERAN, 11 Nov—Iran, Qatar and Russia, three major gas exporters, will hold a new round of talks on gas cooperation later this week in the Qatari capital of Doha, Iranian Press TV reported on Monday.

"The three countries are going to discuss (in Doha) the creation of a Supreme Technical Committee," the report quoted Reza Kasaeizadeh, managing director of National Iranian Gas Export Company, as saying.

The Iranian delegation is scheduled to participate in the talks on Wednesday, Kasaeizadeh added.

In October, the senior energy officials of Iran, Russia and Qatar held their first tripartite meeting for gas cooperation in Tehran.

According to IRNA news agency, the three countries discussed in their first meeting the ways to expand the gas fields, to carry out strategic cooperation among three countries in regional and international gas markets and "assist each other in the target markets in light of geopolitical and geographical considerations."

Tough year ahead for global travel industry

LONDON, 11 Nov — The global travel and tourism industry is an incredible force to be reckoned with regardless of what the financial tsunami decides to throw at it, Fiona Jeffery, chairman of World Travel Market (WTM) said on Monday.

Speaking at the WTM opening ceremony in east London, she told government ministers, ambassadors, trade association and tourism chiefs that the global industry is robust, diversified, innovative, entrepreneurial, and in most cases financially sound.

“We simply cannot ignore the crumbling collapses that have scarred international financial markets in recent weeks”, she said. “We have to face the fact that in some parts of the world in 2009 — certainly here in Western Europe — less package holidays will be sold and those that are, will undoubtedly increase in price.” Recognizing just how tough it is for much of the industry right now, the chairman hoped that during the next four days World Travel Market can contribute positively to helping business plan and reach out to new markets and profit revenues.

“It’s vital that these economic headaches do not mean the industry loses sight of other major industry challenges such as sustainable development, global warming and poverty reduction.”

But the chairman noted that as most governments have signed up to work together for a global approach to address the meltdown in the financial sector, this is also high time for the international travel industry to seek a global approach, and demonstrate co-operative leadership. —Internet

Canada to boost infrastructure investment to spur economy

OTTAWA, 11 Nov — Canada will speed up infrastructure investment to spur the country’s economy in the face of the global slowdown, Prime Minister Stephen Harper said Monday.

“We all agreed, I think, that we should see infrastructure spending accelerated,” Harper told reporters after meeting with premiers and leaders of the country’s 10 provinces and three territories in Ottawa.

“This will help support general economic activity. I am very confident that that is going to occur over the next year,” he said.

Harper also discussed with the regional leaders about pension regulations and the battered manufacture sector in the country, especially the auto sector.

He promised to examine all possibilities to help the auto factories in Ontario and Quebec out.

While other countries have provided funds to bail out financial institutions and industries left crippled by the crisis, Harper’s government has faced criticism for failing to take enough action.

Man allegedly helps renovate with ‘hot’ property

A man may have won points with his girlfriend by offering to help renovate her home. Police weren’t impressed, however. Authorities say the man stole some of the things he was using in the renovation — including $10,000 worth of cabinets. The 29-year-old man was booked with possession of stolen property.

The St Bernard Parish Sheriff’s Office said he was helping renovate his girlfriend’s home with items that had been reported stolen in at least three burglaries. The items included the cabinets removed from the walls of a home in Violet and carpet cut from the floors.

The sheriff’s office said Thursday that the man could face additional counts of possession of stolen property.

Philippine plane lands safely after pilot suffers stroke

A Philippine captain suffered a mild stroke when piloting a passenger plane and his co-pilot managed to land the carrier safely, with 79 passengers on board, officials said.

Captain Alex Carvajal, who was piloting a Philippine Airlines jet from Manila to Bacolod, suffered pain in his nape and asked co-pilot Donato Cabigo to take over the control when they were 60 kilometres from the destination, the Philippine Daily Inquirer said in an online report.

Bacolod is the capital city of the province of Negros Occidental, located in the central Philippines.

The incident did not constitute an emergency as no one was harmed and Cabigo landed the Airbus 320 safely, said Antonio Alfonso, manager of the Bacolod airport.

Passengers said they did not notice anything wrong except for slight turbulence caused by the cloudy weather.

Santa's post office opens in Himmelpfort

BERLIN, 11 Nov — Germany's most beloved Christmas post office opened on Monday in Himmelpfort in anticipation of receiving thousands of letters from hopeful children to Santa Claus this year, Deutsche Post reported.

Town officials, including Father Christmas himself, were on hand to celebrate the opening some six weeks before Christmas Day. Last year the post office received – and answered – some 280,000 letters to Santa Claus from children in more than 80 countries. The office in the German state of Brandenburg is the one of seven in the country, but the only holiday post office in the formerly communist eastern states. The town name, Himmelpfort, means “heaven’s gate.”

Minister for Science and Technology U Thaung, on behalf of Secretary-1 of the State Peace and Development Council Lt-Gen Thiha Thura Tin Aung Myint Oo.

Also present on the occasion were Chairman of CSSTB Dr Than Nyun, Chairman of Mandalay City Development Committee Brig-Gen Phone Zaw Han, deputy ministers, the Deputy Chief Justice of Upper Myanmar, members of CSSTB, departmental officials, members of Mandalay Division, District and Township PDCs, the rector of CICS (Upper Myanmar), the pro-rectors, heads of department, faculty members, course instructors and trainee teachers.

In his address, Minister U Thaung said that the special refresher courses for basic education teachers are being opened with the aim of further strengthening goodwill of teachers towards the State and the people, widening the teachers' scope of knowledge realizing the prevailing situations of global nations and the country of their own, and equipping all the teachers with modern teaching methods and management skills.

The teachers, on their part, are to strive to be in line with the objectives of the courses for nurturing and training the student youths to become the ones on whom the State can rely.

In doing so, they are to equip themselves first with education, knowledge, experience and capability and are to be morally upright, he added.

The government is making all-out efforts for the emergence of an education system that is interactive with changes and developments of Myanmar society or an education system in which modern teaching and learning techniques are being applied to keep abreast of changes and developments of the advanced science and technology, he disclosed.

A branch of studies should be capable of serving the interest of the State and the people. So also, only a branch of studies which is able to serve an advancing society in a pragmatic way will flourish more and more. The government has created such a golden opportunity in which the branch of studies and the society are interdependent, he stressed.

In discharging education duties, teachers are to make relentless efforts in order to be able to nurture and produce human resources desirous and capable of fulfilling the requirements of the regions where they are assigned as well as that of the State.

The development of the State and the people calls for high intellectual power, good morale, diligence and efforts of each and every citizen. So, efforts are to be made through the education sector for promotion of national education and for all citizens to be equipped with required capabilities.

In conclusion, the minister stressed the need for all teachers to strive for promotion of national education, development of science and technology and strengthening nationalistic fervour through the education sector, and to strive for successful realization of national education promotion programmes, realizing that only when the new generation youths are nurtured and trained, will efforts for national development be effective and fruitful.

After the ceremony, Minister for Science and Technology U Thaung and party cordially greeted trainee teachers.

The five-week course is being attended by 1,305 trainees.

Kyauksauk Dam in Myaing Township transforms croplands to farmlands

Article: Kyaw Sein; Photo: Aung Than (Mingala Taungnyunt)

Kyauksauk Dam, built near Kyauksauk Village of Myaing Township, Pakokku District, Magway Division, stores water to irrigate 150 acres of farmlands.

On 29 August 2008, Kyauksauk Dam, built by Magway Division Irrigation Department (Maintenance), was inaugurated near Kyauksauk Village of Myaing Township, Pakokku District. Built on Kyauksauk Creek, the earthen embankment measuring 25 feet high and 2,900 feet long can store 509 acre-feet of water at the highest level. Construction of the dam started on 3 August 2007 and it was completed by cent per cent on 23 March 2008. Myaing Township, located in the arid region of central Myanmar, is scarce in water resources. As Kyauksauk Dam has been completed recently, the local people have the opportunity to adequately use the water. Therefore, local farmers who relied on cultivation of crops in the past can transform their fields from the croplands to the farmlands. Local people have been hoping for getting a dam in their region for many years while the government has been constructing many dams in all regions of the country. At present, they are delighted that their dream has come true. Roads were built for the vehicles and the people in parallel with construction of the embankment of the dam. At present, the local people including students and businessmen enjoy the fruits of better transportation.  Translation: TTA Myanma Alin: 20-10-2008 *****

Bacteria in mouth help make certain foods tasty

BERN, 11 Nov — Scientists in Switzerland are reporting that bacteria in the human mouth play a role in creating the distinctive flavors of certain foods. They found that these bacteria actually produce food odors from odorless components of food, allowing people to fully savor fruits and vegetables. Their study is scheduled for the November 12 edition of the ACS bi-weekly Journal of Agricultural and Food Chemistry. In the study, Christian Starkenmann and colleagues point out that some fruits and vegetables release characteristic odors only after being swallowed. While scientists have previously reported that volatile compounds produced from precursors found in these foods are responsible for this 'retroaromatic' effect, the details of this transformation were not understood.—Internet

Academicians advise Air Force on strategic, scientific development

BEIJING, 11 Nov — China’s Air Force recently invited a group of 24 Chinese academicians to give their advice on its strategic transformation and scientific development.

These academicians, from the Chinese Academy of Sciences (CAS) and the Chinese Academy of Engineering (CAE), are all members of the Third Group of Academic Advisors employed by the Air Force in 2006, according to the political department of the Air Force.

In meeting with Air Force officers, the academicians presented their views on a number of key issues like the research and development of the new-generation weapons, the fostering of talented people, the strategic forewarning and monitoring, the protection of major targets, and a full-scale analysis on flight safety.

The Air Force has taken the lead in the People’s Liberation Army to form strategic relations with the country’s top scientists and engineers, according to the sources. In 2006, the Air Force began engaging CAS and CAE academicians specialized mainly in the fields of aviation, missile and radar as advisors. —Internet

American tourist slain on sailboat in Venezuela

CARACAS (Venezuela), 11 Nov – An American tourist was shot and killed, and a friend wounded, in an apparent robbery attempt aboard a sailboat on Venezuela's Caribbean coast, police said Monday.

Kenneth Dale Peters, 55, was shot by armed men who boarded his sailboat to rob him and his passengers Saturday night, authorities said.

Peters apparently tried to defend himself with a gun and wounded one of the attackers, who got away, regional police chief Gustavo Palacios said. Also wounded was Stephen Davis, 63, a friend of Peters. Police said he was recovering at a hospital. Prosecutors said one suspect was detained Monday in the nearby town of Arapito.

The man has yet to be formally charged. Peters was visiting Venezuela on a tourist trip along with his wife, Palacios said. Authorities were making arrangements with the family to return his body to the United States.

Deutsche Post to cut 9,500 jobs

BERLIN, 11 Nov—Deutsche Post, Europe's biggest mail carrier, announced Monday it will cut 9,500 jobs from its DHL express mail service in the United States.

The German logistics giant will also close all of its DHL Express service centers in America and eliminate US- only domestic shipping by land and air, the company said at its Bonn headquarters.

Deutsche Post blamed its decision on heavy losses in the face of fierce competition in the US from companies such as FedEx and United Parcel Service. DHL's US business is expected to record losses of 1.2 billion euros (about 1.5 billion US dollars) this year, the company added.

The American cuts are expected to reduce operating costs at the US Express unit from 4.2 billion euros (about 5.4 billion US dollars) to less than 770 million euros (about 1 billion US dollars) annually.

However, the company said the move did not mark a complete withdrawal from America.

DHL's international express network in the US will continue operating with 3,000 to 4,000 employees. International shipping deliveries will also remain unaffected.—Internet

California dedicated to promoting laser technology

LOS ANGELES, 11 Nov—California Governor Arnold Schwarzenegger pledged Monday to further develop laser technology, which he said "has the potential to revolutionize our energy future."

In addition to its critical role in US national security, one of the most significant potential applications of laser technologies in the area of clean energy, Schwarzenegger said.

He made the remarks during a tour of the Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory in California, which is building the National Ignition Facility (NIF), the world's largest laser system.

The NIF is expected to be completed in March 2009.

"If successful, this new endeavor could generate thousands of megawatts of carbon-free nuclear power but without the drawbacks of conventional nuclear plants," the governor said.

"This type of innovation is why we are a world leader in science, technology and clean energy, and I could not be prouder that this work is happening right here in California."

The new technology, called Laser Inertial Confinement Fusion-Fission Energy (LIFE), will ignite a fusion reaction when its 192 beams of light all converge in a chamber onto a tiny BB-sized target containing frozen hydrogen gas. In a pulse of energy lasting only a billionth of a second, the atoms inside the target will fuse together, creating a miniature star and igniting a fusion reaction.

UN warns of possible violence in Iraq elections

UNITED NATIONS, 11 Nov—Secretary-General Ban Ki-moon said passage of a law clearing the way for provincial elections in Iraq was "a milestone" in the process of national reconciliation, but he warned of the possibility of election violence.

In a report to the UN Security Council, Ban said the provincial elections "represent the most significant political event in the coming months in Iraq as they can advance political dialogue, establish representative provincial councils and empower community leaders to meet the needs of local citizens in co-operation with the government."

"At the same time, there is potential for election-related violence and instability, as witnessed recently in Mosul" where attacks in early October forced nearly 10,000 Christians to flee their homes, he said.

"It is therefore essential that the elections be organized in a secure environment and a transparent manner," Ban said.

Gov't wants to change course of forest experiments

DURHAM, 11 Nov—For more than a decade, the federal government has spent millions of dollars pumping elevated levels of carbon dioxide into small groups of trees to test how forests will respond to global warming in the next 50 years. Some scientists believe they are on the cusp of receiving key results from the time-consuming experiments. The US Department of Energy, however, which is funding the project, has told the scientists to chop down the trees, collect the data and move on to new research. That plan has upset some researchers who have spent years trying to understand how forests may help stave off global warming, and who want to keep the project going for at least a couple of more years.

"There has been an investment in these experiments and it's a shame we are going to walk away from that investment," said William Chameides, an atmospheric scientist at Duke University, where one of the experimental forests is located. "There is no question that ultimately we want to cut the trees down and analyze the soil. The question is whether now is the time to do it."—Internet

NASA Phoenix Mars mission ends

A NASA handout image shows the Robotic Arm on NASA's Phoenix Mars Lander with a sample of martian soil.—XINHUA

WASHINGTON, 10 Nov— NASA's Phoenix Mars Lander has ceased communications after operating for more than five months, the US space agency reported on Monday.

As anticipated, seasonal decline in sunshine at the robot's arctic landing site is not providing enough sunlight for the solar arrays to collect the power necessary to charge batteries that operate the lander's instruments, NASA said in a statement.

Mission engineers last received a signal from the lander on 2 Nov. Phoenix, in addition to shorter daylight, has encountered a dustier sky, more clouds and colder temperatures as the northern Mars summer approaches autumn.

The mission exceeded its planned operational life of three months to conduct and return science data. The project team will be listening carefully during the next few weeks to hear if Phoenix revives and phones home. However, engineers now believe that is unlikely because of the worsening weather conditions on Mars. —Internet

Congo cholera outbreak spreads amid tense standoff

KIBATI, 11 Nov— A cholera outbreak in a sprawling refugee camp has spread to eastern Congo's provincial capital of Goma, increasing fears of an epidemic amid a tense standoff between troops and rebels, officials said. Cholera cases rose slightly Monday in the towns of Goma and Kibati, with at least 90 known cases and six new admissions overnight. Officials with Doctors Without Borders said the cases they were treating were well-contained. Only four new ones were reported at the group's clinic in Kibati camp.

But dozens of people have died of cholera in recent weeks elsewhere in eastern Congo. Doctors also fear an epidemic behind rebel lines, where access has been limited by fighting and rebels have driven tens of thousands of people from camps where outbreaks had been contained.

Also, refugee conditions in many places continue to worsen. In an unofficial refugee camp set up in Goma for park rangers and their families, some 900 people crowded into plastic tents — some smaller than a sports-utility vehicle — and hungrily eyed six heavy sacks of beans donated by an international Catholic charity. Camp director Christian Shamavu was responsible for safeguarding gorillas and elephants as a ranger at Virunga National Park until a month ago.

"It's easier to protect gorillas and elephants than people," Shamavu said Monday. "Because the animals don't have sickness and have to go the hospital." —Internet

Leprosy still present in US

WASHINGTON, 10 Nov. — Long believed to be a disease of biblical times, leprosy, also known as Hansen's Disease, continues to be seen in the United States, a newly-released report available here on Monday shows.

Approximately 150 cases are diagnosed each year with 3,000 people in the US currently being treated for leprosy, according to US National Hansen's Disease Program (NHDP).

"We believe there are more cases of leprosy not identified due to the lack of awareness about the disease among physicians in the US which is leading to misdiagnosis and wrong treatments for patients who are left to suffer with the debilitating damage caused by this disease," said James Krahenbuhl, Director of the program. Although researchers do not clearly understand how leprosy is transmitted, they do know that it is a slow, chronic disease that attacks the peripheral nervous system and motor skills often leading to disability and disfigurement. According to the NHDP, the onset of infection and symptoms can take three to 10 years, making it difficult for researchers to find the origin of where or how people acquire the disease. Although leprosy can be fully treated with medicine when diagnosed in early stages, once the disease has advanced nerve damage cannot be reversed.

Because many of the population in the US affected by leprosy are immigrants in poor communities who primarily seek treatment in free clinics or emergency rooms, the NHDP says that many of those physicians are not familiar with the disease to make an accurate diagnosis. —Internet

LISBON, 11 Nov — Real Madrid are in talks to sign a 16-year-old Brazilian playing with Portugal first division side Rio Ave.

The youngster, Alipio Duarte Brandao, told Portuguese news agency Lusa on Monday: "I really want to play for Real Madrid.

"It's a dream come true, but I have to keep my feet on the ground. I don't know when I'm going to arrive in Madrid, I'm going to start playing for Real's 'B' team."

Alipio, who is a product of Rio Ave's youth programme, is expected to sign a four year contract with the nine-time European champions.

Two years ago he was spotted by the same sports management company that numbers Jose Mourinho and Cristiano Ronaldo among their clients.

Ajax's Huntelaar out for six weeks

Ajax's Dutch international striker Klaas Jan Huntelaar, seen here in October 2008, will be out for at least six weeks after tearing ankle ligaments in Sunday's win over Sparta Rotterdam, the club said Monday.—INTERNET

THE HAGUE, 11 Nov — Ajax's Dutch international striker Klaas Jan Huntelaar will be out for at least six weeks after tearing ankle ligaments in Sunday's win over Sparta Rotterdam, the club said Monday.

Huntelaar, 25, had a scan on the injury after the game and his loss will be a major blow to Ajax as he was last season's league top scorer with 33 goals and had hit another six this term.

He is also a key figure in the Dutch attack with Ruud van Nistelrooy having retired from the international scene.—Internet

Murray eyeing tennis Masters semis

SHANGHAI, 11 Nov — World number four Andy Murray is eyeing a spot in the Masters Cup semi-finals after winning a see-sawing debut clash against America's Andy Roddick.

The 21-year-old Briton next plays Gilles Simon in the elite, 4.45-million-dollar season finale following the Frenchman's shock win over four-time champion Roger Federer.

"The winner of my match with Simon is going to go through to the semis. I guess the chances of me qualifying have gone up pretty significantly after winning the match today," he said after Monday's match.

"In terms of winning the group, there's a good chance I might still have to win two more matches to do that. But to qualify is probably going to be slightly easier than if I'd lost today and if Federer had won."

Maradona hands captaincy to Mascherano

Newly-appointed Argentina coach Diego Maradona said Monday he had lined up Liverpool's midfield destroyer Javier Mascherano, seen here in September 2008.—INTERNET

BUENOS AIRES, 11 Nov — Newly-appointed Argentina coach Diego Maradona said Monday he had lined up Liverpool's midfield destroyer Javier Mascherano for the captaincy. "I convinced him. While I am in charge I need him as captain," Maradona told La Red radio.

"He can transmit much of what he does in the centre of the pitch - we're not asking him to be a leader immediately," Maradona said as he prepares for his coaching debut at the helm of the 'albiceleste' away to Scotland in a 19 November friendly in Glasgow.

Current skipper is Inter Milan's Javier Zanetti.

Maradona last week toured several European countries to check on the form of a raft of top names including Mascherano and Barcelona's Leo Messi.

Real's Diarra out for two to three weeks

MADRID, 11 Nov — Real Madrid's Mali international Mahamadou Diarra will be out of action for two to three weeks with a thigh injury, the club said on Monday.

The midfielder was injured in Real's 4-3 Primera Liga victory over Malaga on Saturday.

He joins Spaniard Ruben de la Red and Dutchmen Arjen Robben, who will be out for up to six weeks after suffering a leg muscle tear, and Ruud van Nistelrooy, who may undergo knee surgery, on the injury list.

Real Madrid, currently fourth in the league, two points behind leaders Barcelona, face third division Real Union at home in the second leg of the last 32 of the Spanish Cup on Tuesday. The Spanish champions lost the first leg 3-2.—Internet

Venus Williams can look forward to 2009 with optimism

DOHA, 11 Nov — Venus Williams can look forward to next year with optimism after winning the season-ending WTA Championships to become the first American to win the event since sister Serena in 2001.

Williams' 6-7 (5/7), 6-0, 6-2 final win over Vera Zvonareva, the week's surprise packet in this eight-women event, proved that she is still a major force on surfaces other than grass.

Although the five-times Wimbledon champion was often not at her best on Sunday, and sometimes laboured to impose her heavy game on her opponent, there was no doubting her fight or her ability to figure out a way to win.

She also proved to have the greater stamina because well before the end Zvonareva, who has clocked up 27 matches since the US Open and played eight tournaments in nine weeks, was spent.

Near the end she collapsed on the ground and burst into sobbing, apparently because of the exhaustion which was diminishing her brilliantly rhythmic ground strokes.

"It was a hard fought match right down to the end," reckoned Williams, though that hardly looked the case. "I am so excited. I wanted it so bad."—Internet

Tennis ace Nadal out of Davis Cup final

BARCELONA, 11 Nov — Spain's world number one Rafael Nadal on Monday confirmed he will not compete in the Davis Cup final against Argentina this month due to a knee injury. He made the announcement at a press conference in Barcelona after receiving the results of new tests on the tendinitis in his right knee.

"After a long and very positive season, it pains me to miss the two main objectives of the year, the Shanghai (Masters) and Davis (Cup) final," he said.

"This is a difficult time, but I have done everything possible to try and make this final.

"I am used to playing with pain, but this is a new and different kind of pain, which I can't manage to control," he told the press conference, next to the chief doctor of the Spanish Tennis Federation, Angel Ruiz Cotorro.—Internet

Romania's top carmaker to temporarily halt production

BUCHAREST, 10 Nov—Romania's top carmaker Dacia will halt production between 20 Nov-7 Dec, because of the "brutal slump of car markets," said the company on Monday in a release.

Dacia is forced to halt production in the aforementioned period, following the decline of international and local auto markets, the company said, specifying that the Completely Knocked Down (CKD) production will continue.

The deepening of the financial and economic crisis in October resulted in a major setback of auto markets, Romania included.

Thus, in October 2008 the local car market fell 30 percent in comparison with October 2007; the shrinkage was 40 percent in Spain; 23 percent in Great Britain; 22.7 percent in Sweden; 18.9 percent in Italy; 8 percent in Germany; 6.2 percent in France; and the downward trend will probably go on in the next months.

In January 2008, the carmaker has reached a pace of 1,300 vehicles per day, a maximum level for the history of the plant.

The plant produced 224,043 cars in the first ten months of the year, more than the entire 2007 production, which was of 222,914 units. According to the previous plan, Dacia would have a total production of 310,000 units for this year.

China pledges more dialogue, cooperation with AU

ADDIS ABABA, 11 Nov—China's top legislator Wu Bangguo pledged here Monday to further strengthen dialogue and cooperation with the African Union (AU).

China is willing to enhance bilateral communication and coordination on international and regional issues with AU in a bid to push for improvement of China-Africa relations and safeguard the interest of developing countries, said Wu Bangguo, chairman of the Standing Committee of China's National People's Congress (NPC).

On Monday, Wu visited the headquarters of the pan-African body and held very good talks with Jean Ping, chairperson of the AU Commission.

During their talks, Wu spoke highly of AU's role on international and regional arena, saying that China has always supported the work of AU and its commission.

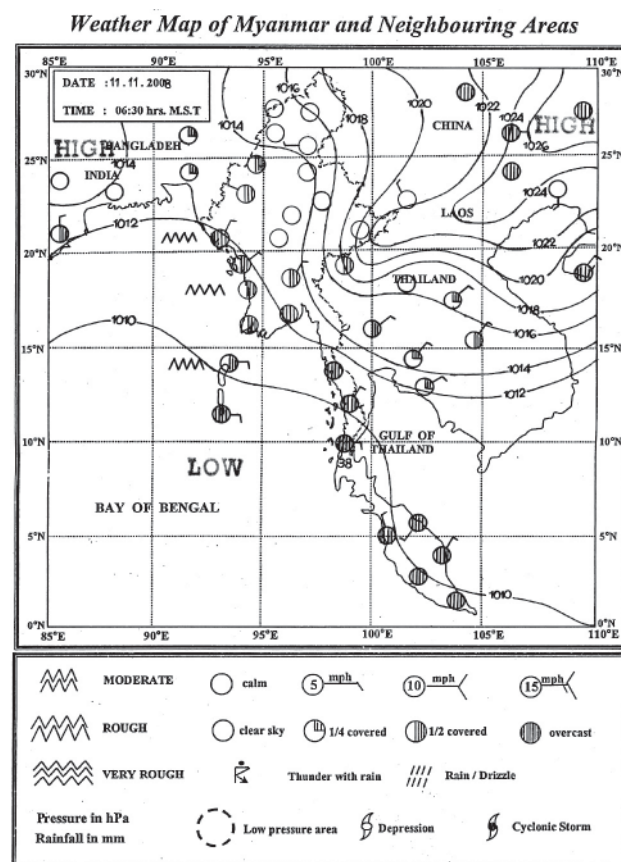

China and Africa have enjoyed long-standing friendship over the past several decades, he said, adding that the 2006 Beijing Summit of the Forum on China-Africa Cooperation opened a new page for China-Africa ties. During the two years after the summit, China and African countries made concerted efforts to fully carry out various follow-up activities of the summit, said Wu.—MNA/Xinhua

Myanmar named winner of two awards at China-ASEAN Expo in Nanning

Article, photos : Soe Nyunt (Kyemon)

The best booth award won by Myanmar.

The 5th China-ASEAN Expo took place in Nanning, the People's Republic of China from 22 to 25 October 2008. Myanmar deservedly won the best booth award and the best award for collection of industries.

In the expo, Myanmar staged two booths: national booth and economic booth, whereas PRC and fellow ASEAN countries staged many booths. Myanmar was billed the winner of the best booth award for its excellent presentation to portray the theme of the expo that ICT development must be for the public, and the best award for collection of industries for exhibiting respective foodstuff, local goods and natural resources, instead of industry-wise. Myanmar has won prizes in Nanning expos since 2006.

The press conference on the winning of the best booth award and the best award for collection of industries at the 5th China-ASEAN Expo in Nanning was held at the Union of Myanmar Federation of Chambers of Commerce and Industry on Min Ye Kyaw Swa Street on 10 November 2008. General Manager of the Myanma Posts and Telecommunications U Tint Lwin and President of UMFCFI U Win Myint dealt with arrangements for staging booths at the expo, the purpose of the booths, and winning the awards. Vice-presidents and executives of UMFCFI also touched upon the winning of the awards, and replied to the questions of the journalists.

Redknapp readies alternate transfer strategy

TOTTENHAM, 11 Nov— Tottenham Hotspur may have to resort to loan signings and free transfer recruits if there is no money available for reinforcements in the January transfer window and manager Harry Redknapp has expressed his readiness to accept whatever be the case.

Spurs have moved off the bottom of the table after victories over Bolton Wanderers, Liverpool and Manchester City, and a draw against Arsenal since the arrival of Redknapp from Portsmouth late last month. The former Pompey boss was then reported to have identified the areas that need reinforcements at the White Hart Lane in order to fire Spurs' push up the table and Fratton Park stars Jermain Defoe, Peter Crouch and Lassana Diarra, are amongst the players linked with a move to Spurs.

However, if money is not made available by Spurs chairman Daniel Levy, Redknapp will go for other targets on loan or free agents, and possibly sell some of the surplus players to generate funds.

Jose Mourinho could be back to England with Man City in summer?

MANCHESTER, 11 Nov—Manchester City's Arab owners are reportedly hoping to bring Jose Mourinho to England, to their club. According to reports, City are willing to shell out a massive £15million a year on Mourinho if he agrees with the move.

The Inter Milan coach is said to be the City owners' first choice as a replacement for under fire boss Mark Hughes. According to the termination agreement that Mourinho signed whilst leaving Chelsea last year, he was not allowed to manage any other club in England for a calendar year.—Internet
