United face fine after Chelsea yellows

LONDON, 22 Sept—Manchester United are set to be fined 25,000 pounds ($46,000 dollars) after receiving seven yellow cards in their 1-1 draw away to Chelsea on Sunday.

Sir Alex Ferguson, the champions’ manager, insisted there hadn’t been a bad tackle in the match against their perennial Premier League rivals although, come the final whistle there was a clash between United’s Rio Ferdinand and Chelsea’s Didier Drogba which left the forward needing attention. “It was a competitive game but I did not think there was one bad tackle in it,” said Ferguson of the 1-1 draw. Referee Mike Riley’s performance may have left Ferguson fuming in a match where United took the lead through Park Ji-Sung before Salomon Kalou equalised 10 minutes from time.

Fighting in Somali capital kills 30

MOGADISHU, 22 Sept — Somalia’s warring sides pounded the capital with mortar rounds and gunfire Monday, killing 30 people including a family of seven.

Monday’s fighting pitted insurgents against government forces and their Ethiopian allies, who came under regular attack in Mogadishu, one of the most violent cities in the world.

The violence left bodies in city streets. When the blasts calmed, young men ventured out to transport the gravely wounded to hospitals in rickety wheelbarrows.

“There is blood everywhere, and human flesh on the walls,” Abshir Mohamed Ali, a shop owner at Bakara market, where much of the fighting was centred, said. — Internet

In the telegram, Assad expressed his deep grief and offered his condolences to Zardari, the friendly people of Pakistan and the families of the victims. He also wished the injured a speedy recovery.

A huge truck bomb exploded at the entrance to the Marriott Hotel in the centre of Islamabad on Saturday evening, killing 53 people and injuring over 250 others. The death toll may rise as some people are still trapped inside the six-story hotel.

Czech FM sharply denounces terrorist attack in Islamabad

PRAGUE, 22 Sept — Czech Foreign Minister Karel Schwarzenberg sharply denounced the terrorist attack in Islamabad and expressed sympathy to the victims' families, the Czech news agency CTK said on Sunday.

The attack was an attempt at destabilization of the situation in Pakistan after the recent presidential election, Schwarzenberg said.

He welcomed the Pakistani government’s statement that this latest development will not weaken its resolve in fighting terrorists.

Pakistani Prime Minister Yousuf Raza Gilani Sunday confirmed that the ambassador of the Czech Republic to Pakistan has been killed in Saturday’s suicide bomb attack in Islamabad.

Zdarek, 47, who used to serve in Vietnam, was appointed ambassador to Pakistan last month and has been staying at the hotel, the embassy sources said.

Zdarek is probably a second Czech who has fallen victim as a civilian to a terrorist attack abroad, CTK said, adding that the first was Petr Koran, 24, who died in an attack on the Egyptian recreational area of Sharm El Sheikh in July 2005.

The blast occurred on Saturday morning at the “23 January” parish in west Caracas, where witnesses said that a young man threw a grenade from the eighth floor of a residential building.

The Tatmadaw government has kept the door of peace open regardless of the number of KNU members.
In the early times, the meetings between the State and KNU were close to agreements. However, it was disheartening to note that their western masters were interfering in the affairs out of fear that there would no longer be their lackeys to be used in their political tricks on Myanmar, if peace and stability had been restored in the nation. And the meeting did not produce any positive results,

Prevent terrorist acts through the strength of the people (2)

It was in 1967 when KNU set fire to Shwepyitha Village with over 800 houses in Labutta Township, Ayeayawady Division and burnt down Kyetthonkhin and Gyogon villages in Thabaung Township. In 1985, it blasted Yangon-Mandalay Up-train near mile post 127 between Kyewpe and Nyaungchedauk, leaving 76 people dead and 122, injured. At first, they committed massacres, stemming from their racism. Later, it turned bloodthirsty and committed murders without any reason of racial hatred or politics.

Some KNU leaders were notorious for murders, robberies and rapes. On 22 November 1953, KNU insurgent Bo Ya Kyaw and party blasted a passenger train that had left Sittoun near Naungkalar Village and forcibly took the jewellery of the passengers, kidnapped about 50 women and men. Among the 50 victims, those men who were ransomed were released; those ransomed women were released only after being raped. The men who were not ransomed were all killed, and the women who were not ransomed were all killed after being raped.

I learnt that as for KNU insurgents Lin Htin, Hsalan and Phar Lu Kyaw, rape was common. Lin Htin got married to 45 women, Hsalan, over 40, and Phar Lu Kyaw, over 150. Due to KNU members’ rapes, thousands of women of Bamar, Kayin and Mon national races led a fateful life. Bo Than Shem of KNU battalion (3) was notorious for rapes. He killed many men to get married to their wives. It will take me several days if I have to present all the stories about “Licensed to rape” of KNU members. I still feel embittered for KNU members’ sexual violence against national race women.

KNU is used to inhumane acts. KNU committed the world’s first-ever hijack. KNU hijacked Myamar Airways-run Dakkota aircraft on its Yangon-Kyaunkpyu-Sittway flight on 25 June 1954. It committed a great number of terrorist acts. It committed bomb blast on Mandalay-Yangon Down-train when it approached Yangon Central Railway Station on 10 January 1988. It launched armed attacks in the premises of the Kyaikhtiyo Pagoda in March 1988. It detonated bombs to attack the convoy on its way to convey the statue of Alan-taya Sayadaw from Thaton to Hlwinwe through Hpa-an on 15 May 1989 and set fire to the motor vehicles. It also launched bomb attacks on the religious convoy led by Mingun Sayadaw U Vicitta Sarabhivamsa on the way from Dawei to Thayetchaung on 3 February 1991.

KNU is claiming founding of Kayin State and creation of a brighter future of Kayin nationals. However, in practice, it showed absolute cruelty to local people including its own people blocking to the warlord policy in an unruly manner. Therefore, in the end, KNU lost the support of local people and its troops retreated from the delta helter-skelter. Local people including Kayin nationals joined hands with the Tatmadaw in the Operations “Shwe Lin Yon”, “Moe Hein”, and “Thein Lar” that were launched in 1969, 1970 and 1971 respectively. Due to people’s milita strategy and four cuts tactics, KNU left the delta for border with the neighbouring country.

There, it kept on claiming a brighter future of Kayin nationals, whereas it built strong military bases along the border line in its attempt to bully local people. So far, it has done nothing beneficial to the people of its own race. It collected extortion money and levied taxes in the villages of the region; it smuggled precious stones and teak out of the country and it asked for funds under the pretext of so-called refugee camps. Receiving meagre sums from some powerful countries, it fell under alien domination. It is needless to ask KNU if it loves Kayin State and its own national race.

It is public knowledge that the Tatmadaw government has made all-out efforts to put an end to the 40-year-old internal armed insurgency and to achieve national reconsolidation. At that time, the Tatmadaw was gaining the upper hand in the military operations. On 28 April 1992, it announced its suspension of offensives against KNU, and suspended all its operations throughout the nation including Kayin State. As a result, 17 national race armed groups and many small armed groups without racism, dogmatism and reliance on foreign countries came to realize the benevolent attitude of the Tatmadaw, returned to the legal fold.

KNU remnants, KNPP members who went underground again, and SSA-S Ywet Sit’s group are the only armed groups that have not returned to the legal fold owing to their too much reliance on external elements and racism. Now, they are not in a position to stand inside the nation, so they are staying hidden along the border with the neighbouring country. In particular, taking a stronghold in the so-called refugee camps in the neighbouring country, KNU troops launched attacks on their motherland through guerilla tactics. Some border areas adjacent to the insurgents’ bases are the only regions that have yet to enjoy fruitful results of development. So, local people still feel hurt by the atrocities of the remnant insurgents.

According to the records, KNU has held three informal meetings and four formal meetings with the Tatmadaw from 1995 to date. The meetings did not reach any agreement due to the fact that it clings on to its wrong policies. Up to now, six groups have split from KNU and returned to the legal fold. KNU remnant members bear animosity towards the peace groups and the groups that have made peace. So, they often ambushed those groups. Haungthayaw region led by U Saw Tha Mu He has come under armed attacks for 22 times since it made peace. During the raid by the groups led by Kyi Lin of KNU battalion (8), U Saw Tha Mu He’s two daughters, two grandchildren and brother-in-law teacher (retired) were killed, and the youngest daughter lost one of her arms. Later, Kyi Lin was killed. KNU ambushed DKBA convoy. Moreover, it resorted to various means in complicity with some external elements to dissuade some armed groups that wanted to return to the legal fold from doing so. KNU remnants are resorting to all possible ways to survive. Now, the strength of KNU remnants is very weak.

The Tatmadaw government has kept the door of peace open regardless of the number of KNU members. In the early times, the meetings between the State and KNU were close to agreements. However, it was disheartening to note that their western masters were interfering in the affairs out of fear that there would no longer be their lackeys to be used in their political tricks on Myanmar, if peace and stability had been restored in the nation. And the meeting did not produce any positive results.

Somali pirates hijack Greek ship with 19 crew members

Nairobi, 22 Sept—Armed Somali pirates hijacked another Greek ship with 19 crew members off the coast of Somalia in the latest attacks along the world’s most dangerous waters, a regional maritime official said on Sunday.

Andrew Mwangura, the coordinator of the East Africa Seafarers Assistance Program (SAP) said the vessel flying Bahamas MV Capt. Stephanos was carrying coal when it was seized off the eastern coast of Somalia, the 15th such seizure by the pirates since July 20. “We received the reports today that the Greek ship flying Bahamas MV Capt. Stephanos has been seized by pirates,” Mwangura told Xinhua by telephone. “The vessel was carrying coal but we don’t know whether the Greek ship was sailing from South Africa or not.”

We also have not established whether the vessel was hijacked today (Sunday) or on Saturday,” he said. The incident came barely a week after armed pirates seized a Greek ship with 23 crew members. MNA/Xinhua

Chinese V-P calls for public science awareness

Beijing, 22 Sept—Chinese Vice-President Xi Jinping has called for greater public science awareness and encouraged Chinese scientists to get more involved in science education.

“Promoting science awareness is an important task in implementing the Scientific Outlook on Development,” Xi said in Beijing on Sunday, which was National Science and Technology Popularization Day. Xi, also a member of the Standing Committee of the Political Bureau of the Communist Party of China Central Committee, joined children to conduct science experiments, and encouraged them to learn about resource saving. Xi also visited exhibitions on energy saving technology, including the use of solar energy and the production of diesel from waste cooking oil.

“This year is crucial for the energy saving target set for the 11th five-year plan period,” said Xi, adding that such green technology should be further promoted and energy-saving efforts should be enforced. MNA/Xinhua

Now, areas along the border of Myanmar are free from insurgent camps. The Tatmadaw has been in a position to control the border by running outposts there. What KNU can do all is to secretly enter the nation and commit subversive acts such as blasting railroads, roads and buildings in towns and villages, and to plant mines. The root cause of KNU’s long-lasting survival is due to the aid and abetment of its western masters, and the neighbouring country’s acceptance of KNU camps under the name of refugee camps. Another reason is that their western masters are manufacturing fabrications as if KNU remnant group won the support and represented the entire Kayin nationals.

Now, the population of Kayin nationals in the nation is about 3.5 million, and the number of KNU remnant members is just three or four digits. So, nation is about 3.5 million, and the number of KNU members, but they have failed to grab such golden opportunities. It is regrettable.

It is true that certain elements are not happy with the conditions in which the people lead a peaceful life, and extreme views and has committed ruthless acts. Now, it is denying brazenly, but no one believes. The people have realized what KNU and its future is like. It is impossible that KNU realizes the truth as long as it keeps on exercising its wrong policies. To date, it has to run its bases under the name of refugee camps in the other country. KNU troops come off from the so-called refugee camps to commit destructive acts through guerrilla tactics in the nation. The government still keeps the peace door open to the remnant KNU members, but they have failed to grab such golden opportunities. It is regrettable.

In his address, Minister Dr Chan Nyein said every nation is trying its best competitively to safeguard and promote the national interest of the nation and its people in political, economic and social aspects.

Even top nations with high science and technology are seeking ways and means to possess effective science and technology and they are still trying to have superiority in political, economic and social sectors.

He said it is necessary to build national solidarity based on high qualification of the citizens and intellectual, progress of science and technology and wealth power so that they can serve the national interest.

He said the government is implementing educational plans in conformity with international developments and requirements of the future State.

The government is implementing educational plans in conformity with international developments and requirements of the future State. The government is making arrangements to have intellectual power which can bring about the national interest and safeguard the nation and the people and solve various kinds of challenges, he added.

Therefore, he said, the teachers are not only to train the students to be well-versed in education and provide requirements for national development but also equip them with high morale and other skills.

He spoke of the need to build infrastructures on development, information and communication and industry for changes in the future. Although Myanmar is an agro-based country, encouragement is being given to industrial development. This is why industrial zones, industrial cities and factories have emerged. At the same time, IT based-production, intellectual property services and IT industries have developed, he said.

To achieve national development, a lot of efforts need to be exerted simultaneously ranging from agro-based and industrial-based productive services to knowledge-based production and services. In so doing, the government is taking measures for development of political, economic and social foundations including infrastructures, technical expertise, financial investments, management and legislation.

In this connection, technology plays the main role in achieving the aims and objectives of the State. Only when such opportunities mixed with challenges are to be used through the strength of technology and technical know-how, can the national aims and objectives be realized.

The government is working very hard for shaping a brighter future of the nation with a view to serving the interests of future generations. For example, education and health infrastructures, dam, road and bridge construction projects and water supply and arid zone greening projects are showing good results.

The government in cooperation with the entire national people has tried its utmost for the emergence of the constitution of the Union of Myanmar for ensuring peace and prosperity of the nation, national solidarity, freedom and fairness, peace and stability of the State, improvement of the people’s living standards and cultural and social values.

All in all, teachers are to strive to maintain these good results including the effort for national education promotion by doing their bit in their respective roles.

Later, Minister Dr Chan Nyein cordially greeted the trainees. A total of 1501 teachers are attending the five-week course.—MNA

Conservative Aso set to be Japan PM

Tokyo, 22 Sept — Japan’s ruling party gathered on Monday to elect Taro Aso as prime minister with the task of turning the country round from the brink of recession and toward risky general elections.

Aso, 68, an outspoken and conservative former foreign minister who supports public spending to revive Asia’s largest economy, is bidding to replace Prime Minister Yasuo Fukuda who stepped down amid plunging approval ratings.

Although the over-whelming favourite, Aso is one of a record field of five candidates standing for the leadership of the Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), which has ruled Japan almost continuously since 1955.

Japanese media predicted that Aso, a flamboyant campaigner fond of quoting comic books, would easily win when LDP lawmakers meet at 2.00pm (0500 GMT).

But whoever is the next premier is thought likely to take advantage of the moment to call snap general elections possibly for as early as late October — in the hope of thwarting an increasingly popular opposition.

UN recognizes New Zealand’s extended seabed rights

WELLINGTON, 22 Sept — New Zealand’s claim over 1.7 million square kilometres of seabed has been confirmed by a United Nations commission, Prime Minister Helen Clark said on Monday.

“The continental shelf is the area of seabed outside New Zealand’s existing 200 nautical mile Exclusive Economic Zone (EEZ). The area confirmed by the UN Commission is more than six times the size of New Zealand’s land area,” she said in a statement.

Recognition of the new continental shelf boundaries will enable New Zealand to exercise its rights to the area, including exploiting resources such as minerals and petroleum.

Clark said New Zealand’s submission to the UN in was the result of a 44 million NZ dollars (30 million US dollars) project carried out by officials and scientists.

The new boundary will be binding on other countries, although the Government will negotiate with Fiji and Tonga on the continental shelf north of New Zealand.

Breast cancer survivors report high quality of life after treatment

WASHINGTON, 22 Sept — Women who had a lumpectomy and radiation to combat breast cancer have an overall quality of life similar to adult American women, even though survivors tended to improve from reporting “some problems” to “no problems” over time.

Breast cancer survivors, who were treated with breast-conserving surgery and radiation with or without chemotherapy, were expected to be presented Sunday at the American Society for Therapeutic Radiology and Oncology annual meeting, in Boston.

The brief survey, taken by the women at various points in their follow-up — from three months to 15 years after treatment — found the breast cancer survivors across all age groups said they had a very high quality of life and state of health comparable to the general US female population.

Over the years, the survivors tended more often to say they experienced no problems, rather than some problems. For three questions dealing with anxiety, pain and the ability to do usual activities, the survivors tended to improve from reporting “some problems” to “no problems” over time.

Fidel Castro says meeting with Chavez "great honour"

HAVANA, 22 Sept — Former Cuban leader Fidel Castro said he felt it "a great honour" for him to meet Venezuelan President Hugo Chavez in Havana on Sunday.

"The meeting with Venezuelan President will be a brief one ... It will be a great honour for me," Castro wrote Saturday in his "Reflections" column, which was published on Sunday by the Juventud Rebelde newspaper.

In the article titled "The Truth and the False," Castro defined Chavez as "an indefatigable preacher of the most advanced ideas of his era in Venezuela", confronting "the huge media instruments in the hands of the Yankee oligarchy, who try to deceive and confuse the people." Castro said that Venezuela was the first one to offer Cuba financial and material aid after hurricanes Gustav and Ike ravaged the country.

Castro also said that almost 40,000 Cubans now work in Venezuela, which he said was a win-win situation for both countries.

According to media reports, Chavez will stop for a brief visit to Cuba on his week-long tour to China, Russia, Belarus, France and Portugal.

SINGAPORE, 22 Sept — Latin Asia Business Forum opened here Monday morning, attracting some 400 business delegates from 21 countries to attend and explore more opportunities in the two regions.

In recent years, political and economic ties between Latin America and Asia have deepened. Bilateral trade has been on the rise. Last year, total trade flows between Latin America and Asia reached $267.3 billion US dollars, an increase of 24 per cent over 2006.

In July, more than two dozen newborns died at a hospital in the capital, Ankara. Government-appointed doctors investigating the deaths said a shortage of personnel was to blame.

OAS supports dialogue to resolve Bolivian crisis

BUENOS AIRES, 22 Sept — The Organization of American States (OAS) on Sunday reiterated its support for settling the Bolivian political crisis through dialogue, said reports from Santiago, the Chilean capital.

The political tension in Bolivia, if allowed to continue, will only lead to a no-win situation, OAS Secretary-General Jose Miguel Insulza told Chilean media Sunday.

Dialogue is the only way to stabilize the situation, said Insulza, who had been in Bolivia to help mediate in the country's unrest.

Bolivian President Evo Morales started dialogue on Thursday with opposition provincial governors in an effort to end the recent political crisis, which has plunged Bolivia into turmoil and left at least 30 people dead.

Chelsea boss confirms Mineiro swoop after Deco joins Essien on the sidelines

STAMFORD, 22 Sept—With Chelsea midfielder now hit with a fresh injury blow in the form of Deco following long-term layoff for injured Michael Essien, manager Luiz Felipe Scolari has confirmed the imminent signing of free agent Mineiro.

The Blues, who held defending champions Manchester United to a 1-1 draw today at Stamford Bridge, suffered a jolt when Portuguese midfielder Deco picked up a thigh problem in the pre-kickoff warm-up.

33-year-old Brazil international Mineiro was earlier linked heavily with a move to Chelsea’s London rivals Arsenal but Gunners manager Arsene Wenger dismissed the possibility of signing the former Hertha Berlin player.

However, latest reports suggest that Mineiro has agreed terms with the Blues and will sign on Monday.

“Mineiro is a player I need because I lost Essien for six months and only John Mikel Obi is there for us”, said Scolari. “He won’t play this week but maybe after 10 days he will play.

“I need to play in the reserve team and needs some time but that is good for me because he gives me some options.

“We would miss Deco, it would not be good news. But it’s hard to say at the moment (how bad the injury is).”
