The first publicized meeting on 20 Sept was between Daw Suu, Khin Nyunt and Senior General Than Shwe, Chairman of SLORC. This was the highest-level visit by a US official since 1988 and follows a US policy review on Burma. He delivered a message which offered better relations with the US if SLORC improved on human rights, democratization, and anti-narcotics activities, or increased isolation if SLORC remains intransigent [F941110].

IS BURMA A CHINESE COLONY?

According to the Economist, Burma is fast becoming an economic satellite of China. It claims that almost every infrastructure project in Burma is in the hands of Chinese contractors with Chinese engineers supervising the work. Some of the projects listed include: the Mandalay-Rangoon highway, the Myitkyina-Mandalay railway, the Mandalay-Rangoon railway, the Ye-Tavoy railway, the road-rail Rangoon-Syriam bridge, the Chindwin River bridge, the Mandalay International airport, housing estates for the Burma Army, 30 irrigation dams, the Rangoon ground satellite station, the Burma Navy's Coco Island base, and port facilities on Ramree Island [Ec941008].

NCUB CONSTITUTIONAL SEMINAR

The National Council of the Union of Burma (NCUB), comprising the National Coalition Government of the Union of Burma, the National League for Democracy (Liberated Area), the Democratic Alliance of Burma, and the National Democratic Front hosted a Constitutional Seminar in Manerplaw in Oct.94. 7-15 YEARS FOR DISSIDENTS

Khin Zaw Win, a former UNICEF employee, who was arrested on 4 July at Rangoon airport (BA No.9, Vol.5, September 1994) was charged on 6 Oct with violating the Official Secrets Act and foreign-exchange regulations and sentenced to 15 years in prison. A confidential Ministry of Energy report was alleged found in his possession. His 'crime' included meeting with the UN Special Rapporteur for Human Rights in December 1992 and giving 'misleading' information. Writer Daw San San Nwe, who was arrested on 4 Aug with three others for having links with Khin Zaw Win, was given a 10-year sentence for spreading 'information injurious to the state' and for having contacts with 'anti-government' organizations. She is said to have met with 2 French reporters in April 1993. The reporters committed the crime of visiting Burma on tourist visas and making a video 'for the purpose of propaganda'. It was alleged that she appeared on the video with her back to the camera. Daw San San Nwe's daughter, Ma Myat Mun Mun Tun, was given a 7-year sentence for helping Khin Zaw Win put anti-government literature on computer discs. Journalist Sein Hla Oo and Khin Maung Swe, elected National League for Democracy (NLD) people's representatives were also sentenced to 7 years in prison [F941110, B/Reu/Net941020].

Burma News:BRITISH BARONESS INVESTIGATES

Baroness Caroline Cox, Deputy Speaker of Britain's House of Lords, led a team including tropical disease expert Dr Martin Panter into Karen-held territory in Burma in Nov.94 to investigate allegations of germ warfare (BA No.6, Vol.5, June 1994). A device suspected to have been used to deliver the substance, which caused cholera-like symptoms, was taken to London for analysis. An 8-page report by the Baroness, a Board member of Christian Solidarity, stated that there is "very strong circumstantial evidence" that SLORC used germ warfare. "Villagers gave consistent, detailed accounts of direct association between the dropping of these devices and the onset of the epidemics". Baroness Cox also noted that immediately after the boxes were dropped, SLORC troops stopped going into the areas and barred traders from entering the areas, an indication that they knew what had been dropped. Dr Panter, a member Christian Solidarity Australia, said that SLORC personnel were in Germany last year for germ warfare. He said that the devices which are manufactured in Philadelphia and are normally used in meteorological work could be modified. Once dropped from an aircraft, small detonations could be programmed to burst the balloons attached to the device, showering the area below with the germs. Canada also tested one of the devices but the results were 'inconclusive' [N941115, N/Irr941115]. The Canadians say that the cholera-like symptoms reported by the villagers seem to indicate a new strain of cholera not previously known in Burma - Ed.

VISIT MYANMAR YEAR - 1996

In Oct.95, BURMA ALERT began publishing fax numbers in Burma to help prepare for 'Visit Myanmar Year 1996.' A British travel writer and tour consultant for Burma, wrote, "Let me say quite frankly how utterly irresponsible it was for you to publish ... fax numbers - taken quite clearly from a recent edition of the 'Today' magazine... The recipients run the risk of (a) imprisonment, (b) losing their livelihood or, at the very least, (c) being subjected to interrogation... Your ignorance and naivety are clearly demonstrated by, for example, your inclusion of Charles Michels Garment under the fax number 89960. You are clearly unaware of the fact that the 89960 (and indeed 89961) numbers are those belonging to a communal government fax bureau and used by literally hundreds... I have a number of friends - some ex-NLD and all anti-SLORC - who use the 89960 number (and other numbers) and they are now terrified of receiving faxes... The upshot of your foolishness will be that the SLORC will simply shut down all fax machines. Thank you so much... Many of the fax operators will be petrified... and will either throw it in the garbage or ... show it to their superiors. In the case of the Mya Yeik Nyo Hotel Group, that is Khin Nyunt; in the Nawarat's case, Ne Win's daughter... My Burmese friends ... have urged me to request you to IMMEDIATELY inform all your readers NOT to send ... faxes... send them instead to various Embassies, etc. Please note that BURMA ALERT No.10, Vol.5, did caution its readers not to endanger their fax recipients. However, since all the numbers published in the ALERT are being publicized by SLORC, we wonder why the writer should be upset with the ALERT circulating the numbers. If SLORC wants to shut down all the faxes, that is their business but how will tourists then be able to visit 'Myanmar' in 1996? On the other hand, if innocent businessmen cannot receive unsolicited faxes without risking 'imprisonment, losing their livelihood or, at the very least, being subjected to interrogation', how responsible is it for tour agencies to be sending tourists to visit 'Myanmar'? Nevertheless, to accommodate the request of the writer's friends, we are publishing in this issue, the numbers of SLORC Ministries and Embassies:
